GROWING CUBA DISASTER TOLL IS ABOVE 1,700

Graves Are Being Dug for 1,000 Dead in Town on Coast.

REFUGEES ARE TAKEN TO PROVINCE CAPITAL

700 Injured Are Treated and Homeless Fed; Town May Not Be Rebuilt.

Camaguey, Cuba, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Fresh reports from Santa Cruz del Sur and deaths from exposure and infection in various hospitals tonight raised the estimated fatalities of the hurricane which struck southern Cuba early Wednesday to more than 1,700.

Four persons died in the general hospital here and reports of similar deaths came from other towns where refugees have been taken.

An unidentified woman gave birth to a girl on the last train which reached Camaguey from Santa Cruz. Both mother and daughter were living late tonight.

Government Moves to Aid.

Medical authorities were working hard to prevent epidemics. Another trainload of food and medical supplies went to Santa Cruz this afternoon.

Relief workers were greatly cheered by news from Havana that the government was moving swiftly to their aid.

Doctors estimated the number of refugees brought in by the train which arrived here at 10:30 this morning at 700 of whom 400 were injured. The general hospital now shelters 250 patients while hotels have taken in 60 to 80 of the homeless. Hundreds of others are sheltered in private residences.

Refugees Reach Capital.

More than 1,000 dazed and suffering refugees from Santa Cruz del Sur were brought to Camaguey today in crowded box-car trains.

Ambulances sped through the streets, taking them to improvised hospitals. There were not ambulances enough, and taxicabs, private automobiles and buses were pressed into service. The refugees were weary, hungry and burned by the sun. Many of them were frantic with worry. With pitiable anxiety they inquired about missing relatives and friends.

Back in Santa Cruz grave diggers worked to dispose of at least 1,000 bodies, victims of the destroying wind which swept the little city built on a point jutting into the sea, and of the 20-foot wall of water which that wind plied up and rushed inland.

Injured Put at 700.

Meanwhile medical supplies and clothing were brought here by train, airplane and steamer.

Secretary of Public Works Onetti said after a plane trip to Santa Cruz that not a single house was standing. He was sure the death toll would mount above 1,000, and he placed the total injured at 700.

"I have never seen such a tragedy in all my life," the secretary said. "Damages are incalculable, since the entire city—which had 3,500 inhabitants—was wiped out. I lifted boards and planks and found corpses of children underneath. It was horrible.

"Most of the victims were women and children, since the men were

Fugitive Lunatics Evade Police Net

Three Criminals Escaped After Overpowering Asylum Guards.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Three inmates of the ward for criminally insane at Washington State Hospital, Medical Lake, who assaulted four guards and escaped last night were sought by scores of officers in eastern Washington today.

Two of the inmates knocked a trusty unconscious and stole razors from a cabinet. Using the razors for weapons, the inmates forced Clarence Young to hand over keys.

W. J. Pillard and R. E. Minnick fought with the trio, but were overpowered. The patients are Leroy Race, 28, convicted of grand larceny; Frank Gorman, bank robber, and H. E. Shaw 35, forger.

Hoover Sends Message as Soldier Tomb Is Dedicated.

America kept a tryst with its war dead yesterday, as time ticked back fourteen years to the Nation's first Armistice Day.

In Arlington National Cemetery an unknown soldier's tomb was dedicated anew. The President sent a message of tribute. The Secretary of War laid a wreath. An American Legion national commander urged reasonable arming to ward off future wars.

The day passed in colorful ceremonies throughout the city.

A war-time Secretary of War, Newton D. Baker, paid homage to a war-time President at the Woodrow Wilson's tomb in Washington Cathedral.

In less solemn vein, the Veterans of Foreign Wars reenacted the Armentieres scene fourteen years back, with an Armistice Day jubilee at Washington Auditorium last night.

Nothing untoward marred impressive ceremonies at the Arlington Amphitheater, where Secretary of War

McCarver and Fenlon Hit William and Mary Line for Touchdowns.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

With a series of short punches at the line in the first quarter, George Washington University's Colonials rolled up a 6-point lead against William and Mary at Griffith Stadium last night and then protected their advantage in a second half waged on a field of mud to score a 12-6 victory before 15,000 fans who saw the battle under the arc lights.

But the Colonials did not emerge with their triumph before they were subjected to a thorough scare by William and Mary, which converted its most serious threat of the contest into a touchdown in the final quarter when its efficiency had been stripped by the slimy gridiron which would not permit the tricky attacking maneuvers that comprised the team's chief stock in trade.

The advantage was distinctly with the Colonials after a slanting rain that started in the second quarter and continued through the intermission transformed the gridiron into slip-

D. C. WOMAN DRAWS SHOUSE RIFT BLAME

Lawyer Says Georgetown Heiress Claimed She Would Wed Political Leader.

Hutchinson, Kans., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A Georgetown, D. C., woman with a New England fortune and a Virginia estate was described in court proceedings here today as the cause of the marital rift between Mrs. Jouett Shouse and her husband, former chairman of the Democratic national executive committee.

The Georgetown woman was mentioned by three attorneys attempting to collect a fee of $15,000 for negotiating a $140,000 settlement for Mrs. Shouse and obtaining her divorce here October 29.

F. Dumont Smith, one of the attorneys, testified Shouse agreed to pay Mrs. Shouse $85,000 in cash and $50,000 in ten yearly installments, only after an alienation of affections suit against the Georgetown woman had been prepared for filing.

He testified he had made several trips to Washington to demand a cash settlement "rather than unsecured promises" after evidence had been obtained that Shouse and the woman "had made numerous trips to Chicago, New York, Birmingham and Charleston."

"This lady," Smith testified, "told mutual friends she and Shouse would marry as soon as he was divorced, and retire to a farm she owned in Virginia."

With his son, Eustace Smith, and Claude Chalfant, testified all terms of the agreement had been complied with by Shouse except the payment of

Roosevelt Enjoys Fighting

Battled His Way Into Legislature at 28 From Stanch Republican District, Then Won Major State Contest Against Tammany Hall.

(Editor's note—Educated by private tutors, at the Groton Preparatory School, at Harvard and at Columbia, Franklin D. Roosevelt took up the management of the family estate and various private business enterprises for a few years. But the Roosevelt blood and the figure being cut by his illustrious cousin were too much—young Roosevelt soon dived into politics. Go on with the story of the President-elect's life in this third installment.)

By GARDNER BRIDGE.

(Copyright, 1932 by the Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—President-elect Roosevelt entered the political arena at the age of 28.

Behind him lay Groton, Harvard, Columbia Law School. He was spoiling for a fight, and it wasn't long before he had one. "There is nothing I love as much," he said a few years ago, "as a good fight."

The year 1910 was a turbulent one in politics. Theodore Roosevelt, grappling with the Republican bosses, dictated the nomination of Henry L. Stimson for governor. Maine went Democratic and in New York the Democrats nominated John A. Dix for governor.

Franklin D. Roosevelt found himself with the Democratic nomination for State senator from Dutchess County, a very dubious honor. The odds against him were formidable; the district had been in the rock-ribbed Republican category for years. To the Republican bosses there was something incongruous in the thought that a relative of "T. R." was engaged in what they considered a hopeless contest.

But Roosevelt, inspired by the political jousting of his illustrious cousin, plunged into the campaign, touring the countryside in a "horseless buggy," shaking hands with every farmer he could find.

On election day the political cataclysm occurred. Dix was elected, Roosevelt was elected, and for the first time in eighteen years the Democrats had captured control of both houses of the Legislature.

Roosevelt had campaigned on the

STATES WARNED BY DISTRICT TO BALK MARCHES

Governors and Mayors Are Sent Messages by Commissioners.

SUFFERING FORECAST IF D. C. IS INVADED

Lack of Funds to Care for Protest Gatherings Here Is Emphasized.

With at least two groups planning marches to Washington to make demands of Congress early in December, the District Commissioners yesterday held another conference and subsequently sent telegrams to the governors of the 48 States and mayors of 14 principal cities warning that neither food nor lodging will be furnished the unemployed visitors.

In addition to the farmers' national relief conference, which plans to send at least 500 disgruntled farmers to the Capital, another national hunger march is scheduled to converge on Washington December 4, the day before Congress convenes, it was revealed yesterday.

Herbert Benjamin, a New York radical, announced plans of a committee working under the Workers International Relief, of New York, to send an army of hunger marchers here that would be larger than that he headed last year. He predicted that at least 3,000 unemployed men and women, supplemented by seamen and longshoremen, will join the march.

Commissioners' Telegram.

The Commissioners' telegram advised the State and city executives that the District government and Washington charitable agencies are without resources to take care of any number of marchers. It read:

"Information has reached District of Columbia government that large bodies of unemployed persons propose marching upon the National Capital, intent upon making various demands upon Congress at its opening on December 5. They propose commencing marches within a few days. Local government is utterly without funds either to house or feed them. Resources of local charities falling short of meeting local demands, and these demands are heavily increasing without prospect of additional help. Groups of this character before starting should distinctly understand that on arrival in Washington neither food nor lodging can be furished them, and their trip will inevitably bring great discomfort and much hardship. We urge you to make the facts known in your locality and we seek your hearty cooperation in discouraging participation in such marches by your citizens."

A similar message was sent to the State governors during the invasion

Rinehart Estate Valued at $76,031

Entire Sum to Go to His 3 Sons; Wife to Get Insurance.

Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart, prominent physician and husband of Mary Roberts Rinehart, famous writer, left an estate of $76,031.09 when he died recently. He left his entire estate to his three sons, Stanley, jr., Alan and Frederick Rinehart, all residents of New York.

Dr. Rinehart explained his failure to include his wife in his will by saying that his "beloved wife, Mary Roberts Rinehart, does not desire to share in my estate."

The will requested that Mrs. Rinehart be named as one of the three executors, and it was also shown that she will receive several insurance policies which made her the beneficiary. The amount of these policies was not shown. Mrs. Rinehart, Stanley Rinehart and the Riggs National Bank were named as executors.

Many Hurt as Police Battle Dublin Rioters

Dublin, Irish Free State, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Sharp fighting occurred in the streets of Dublin tonight when the police broke up a parade of several thousand young men of the Irish Republican army.

After the demonstrators had marched around St. Stephen's Green and Merrior Square they attempted to pass Trinity College. A large force of police blocked their way. Finally the police drew their batons and charged again and again to break up the demonstration.

Police got the upper hand near midnight in the heart of the city, although small disturbances were reported in other parts. Wards of hospitals were crowded with injured.

Among the songs the marching demonstrators sang was one called "We All Crown De Valera King of Ireland."

ROOSEVELT IS ABED WITH SLIGHT COLD

Visitors Barred While He Fights Illness Resulting From Ride in Rain.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt spent today in bed recovering from a slight cold contracted on his last day of campaigning for the Presidency.

The long automobile ride through the Hudson River Valley last Monday chilled Mr. Roosevelt and left him with a cold. He made the entire ride through a cold mist and rain in an open car.

A physician who examined the President-elect today found that he was a little feverish. Mrs. Roosevelt, who came to Albany last night from New York, said that she expected a few days of rest would restore her husband to his normal physical vigor.

Visitors will be barred for the next three days. He received none today. He had planned to spend the three days resting at Hyde Park, but these arrangements were canceled today.

Mr. Roosevelt plans to devote his time for the next ten days to State budgetary matters and to leave at the end of that time for Warm Springs to spend two weeks.

At his cottage at Warm Springs he will have an opportunity to discuss with members of Congress the policies and program of the Democrats during the short session opening in December. Prohibition, relief and various other points of the program he outlined in his campaign will figure in the discussions and out of the talks friends of the President-elect believe will come decisions that may chart the course of Congress through the short session.

For the time being, Mr. Roosevelt is giving no thought to the appointments to Cabinet and various other Federal posts that he must fill. In a statement last night, he said it would be at least two months before he would take up these questions.

French Ministers Draw Arms Plan

Herriot Confers With Head of War, Navy and Air on Details.

Paris, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Final details of the French disarmament plan were agreed upon today at a three-hour conference held by Premier Edouard Herriot with the members of the French disarmament delegation, the ministers of war, navy and aviation, and the chairman of the army and navy committees of the chamber and the Senate.

The plan will be presented next Monday, with simultaneous publication of the text in Geneva and Paris.

The principles of the new French plan already have been explained in the Chamber of Deputies by Premier Herriot. One of its outstanding sections is a provision for the elimination of European professional armies, which would be replaced by conscript forces.

NEW DEBT PROBLEM FACES CONGRESS DUE TO ACTION OF FRANCE AND ENGLAND

Hoover Speeding Home to Take Up Issue.

Lame Duck Session to Study Moves at Once.

(Associated Press.)

Prompt congressional study of war debts appeared last night to have been made necessary by British and French notes on the subject.

Already, said Secretary Stimson the English communication has been sent to President Hoover, who was speeding back across the country to discuss the question with Cabinet members Tuesday.

On Capitol Hill, Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, administration spokesman, told newspapermen the whole war debt problem "will be thrown into Congress" at the beginning of the December session.

Notes Kept Secret.

Secretary Stimson received the British note Thursday from Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador. The French dispatch, which the State Department said was "in the same category" as that from Great Britain, arrived late yesterday.

Their contents were not made public. Stimson said they would be held until the three governments had agreed on a day for publication.

Whether that would be before President Hoover's return was not announced. Early action, though, is essential. Debtor nations are due to pay the United States $123,000,000 on December 15, ten days after Congress meets. Mr. Hoover will talk with congressional leaders before then.

Whether Great Britain and France asked for an extension of the moratorium on war debts which expired last June was not made known by Secretary Stimson.

Revision Is Sought.

However, European dispatches have indicated that England is seeking a moratorium for the purpose of a complete revision of war debt settlements and has the support of other European debtors who were advised by England of this action.

When Congress approved the one-year moratorium on war debts which ended June 30, it specifically went on record as opposed to cancellation or further reduction. Whether Congress is willing to change its attitude upon investigation of present European economic conditions remains to be demonstrated.

Both Great Britain and France have repeatedly made it clear they believe the reparations agreement at Lausanne, whereby former enemies of the central powers consented to

Tear Gas Attack Ends Kansas Felons' Escape

Lansing, Kans., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Prison guards, led by Warden Kirk Prather, used tear gas guns effectively today in frustrating an attempted escape by five convicts from the Kansas Penitentiary.

The convicts, a slayer and four bank robbers, had dug their way under a 4-foot stone wall in a basement below the kitchen. Using knives stolen from the prison hospital, they then sawed four iron bars blocking their passage to a heat tunnel. When the tear gas was fired into the passage they emerged and surrendered without resistance.

Paris Might Place Sum In International Bank

Paris, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Diplomatic negotiations have been opened with Washington regarding the French war debt payment due December 15, but the most complete discretion regarding the French move was observed in official circles today.

It was authoritatively learned that one suggestion under consideration is to pay the amount due to the Bank for International Settlements should Washington find it inconvenient to agree to postponement until some final understanding has been reached.

The press is calling for close contact between Paris and London in any action regarding the debts.

Pierre Etienne Flandin, former minister of finance, has gone to London to visit his friend, Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

PRESIDENT STARTS FROM WEST COAST

Hoover to Give Radio Talk When Train Stops at Glendale, Calif.

President Hoover will speak from the rear platform of his train at Glendale, Calif., this morning. His address will be broadcast over the National Broadcasting Co., and can be heard locally over WRC from 11:45 to 12:15.

Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—President Hoover turned eastward tonight, rested and ready for a speedy trip back to the National Capital to take a hand once more in pressing national and international affairs.

Cutting short his vacation by a day in order to place his hand closer to the helm of governmental matters, the President was described by the White House physician, Dr. Joel T. Boone, as "ready to go back and finish his job." His special train left here at 8:55 p. m. (Pacific standard time).

The President waved at the crowd while photographers used their flashlights. In response to the greetings he said: "I deeply appreciate this expression of good will from my own neighbors."

He then entered the car and Mrs. Hoover waved farewell to the crowd. The President appeared again, however, to wave and smile before the train pulled out.

The Chief Executive already is looking forward to the program he will place before Congress and to the requests of foreign nations for debt discussions.

One of his secretaries told newspapermen, however, debt questions were being handled from Washington and that "these matters will not be placed

2 Powers Join in Maneuver for Revision.

Text of Notes Given Stimson Are Kept Secret.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Great Britain and France have taken the initiative in a major international maneuver to secure the readjustment of their war debts to the United States. The French government yesterday instructed Ambassador Paul Claudel to present a formal note to the United States with regard to the French debt payment of $19,261,438 on December 15.

The ambassador did not call at the State Department but instead made an appointment and delivered the note to Secretary Stimson at his home in Woodley. The text of the French note was not revealed.

Earlier in the day Secretary Stimson had announced the receipt of a communication from the British government relative to the payment of $95,500,000 five weeks hence. This note was delivered on Thursday by British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay but its text was kept secret.

Hoover Advised of Notes.

Secretary Stimson forwarded the text of both notes to the President, who is already on his way back to Washington. It is believed possible that President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt has been apprised of the nature, if not the text, of the two notes.

The meeting at the Secretary of State's home yesterday was in the nature of a general discussion of the subject of war debts. The Secretary's closest advisers, Allen T. Klotz and Capt. Eugene Regnier, were present, as well as H. H. Bundy, the Assistant Secretary of State, who has been handling the debt matter. Mr. Bundy was in Europe when the Lausanne conference was in session and kept the Secretary informed of all developments at that time.

Attaches at the French Embassy were reluctant to throw any more light on the visit of Ambassador Claudel to Woodley. The two notes from London and Paris were so timed, it is believed here, to prevent any implication that they had been the result of a common front on the subject of the Anglo-French debt payments. The British note was delivered by Sir Ronald only a few days after his return from London, where he had been in close conference with Sir John Simon, the author of the note, as well as with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

The cardinal point of both the British and French notes, it is understood in high diplomatic circles, is the secret gentleman's agreement of last July which aroused general surprise.

Provision of Agreement.

This is the agreement that makes remission of Germany's reparation, contingent upon American revision of European war debts, or as the agreement itself puts it: "Until a satisfactory settlement has been reached between them (England, France, Italy et al.) and their own creditors."

The same principle but in slightly different phraseology was embodied in the French note. The government of Premier Herriot differs not at all in its attitude toward the debt question from the government of Andre Tardieu when he was at the helm.

In this respect the statement of Senator David A. Reed, former administration spokesman, yesterday, is of interest here. Senator Reed earlier in the summer made an extensive trip through Europe and held several conversations with leaders of French and British political life.

He was regarded as a personal emissary of President Hoover and his viewpoint of the European attitude is refreshing:

"There is very evidently a definite effort by European nations to get fur-

Fast Driving One Hobby

Mrs. Roosevelt Drives Own Car; She Also Likes to Walk Alone But Is Fond of All Sorts of People; Fatigue Unknown to Her.

(Editor's note—A childhood which Mrs. Roosevelt herself described as "odd" and a training that included war work, nursing and being a dutiful wife to a Government official, formed the background for the distinctive personality she undoubtedly is. In this final article of the series, Lorena Hickok shows how that personality asserts itself.)

New York, Nov 11 (A.P.).—The next mistress of the White House thinks people are going to get used to her ways, even though she does edit a magazine, wear $10 dresses, and drive her own car.

Incidentally, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt does not herself own an automobile—only a third of one.

It is a blue roadster that belongs to the furniture factory of which she is one-third owner. Sometimes she borrows it, and she loves to drive it—fast.

The Roosevelts do not keep a car in New York City, and while Mrs. Roosevelt is here, the first three days of each week, she takes taxicaps or travels on buses to and from school and to keep her engagements.

Much of the time she walks, with a long swinging stride. She does most of her walking alone. Even when she is wearing high heels it is difficult to keep up with her. Her friends say that at Hyde Park, when she puts on golf shoes and starts off, it is practically impossible.

She likes to go about alone and is surprised and rather embarrassed when she is recognized. Very often she is not. While she was on the Western trip with the governor a few weeks ago, she spent a whole morning going about Chicago accompanied only by a couple of friends, and not a soul recognized her, although she had ridden the night before in one of the biggest parades the Loop ever saw.

She is, to use the expression of one of her friends, "a whirlwind." She gets along perfectly on five or six

COOPERATION MOVE RESTS WITH HOOVER

Red Tape of Presidency Serious Handicap to Roosevelt Parley.

(Associated Press.)

Actual cooperation on emergency problems of Government between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt during the next four months must come about in just one way—by invitation of the President.

Up to the hour Mr. Roosevelt takes his oath of office next March, executive power rests in Mr. Hoover's hands.

To the last moment, as they sign or kill by pocket veto the final bills enacted by the dying Congress, it has been the custom of outgoing Presidents to exercise that power to full extent.

President Bound by Custom.

That has been true even where no change of party control at the White House was involved. The President may not legally delegate or evade his high functions. All Presidents have been jealously careful to the last on that point.

Speculation as to the extent to which there might be precedent breaking departures this winter, due to the stress of the economic crisis, must begin from this background.

There are no real precedents upon which to hinge even an opinion as to what course Mr. Hoover might take should an emergency develop between now and March 4 which he deemed so vital to National welfare as to require consultation between himself and his successor in office. It has never happened that way, so far as published records go.

The only precedents, aside from the action of President Taft after his defeat for reelection by Woodrow Wilson, and limited to a then existing revolutionary crisis in Mexico, deal only with what Lincoln planned to do had he been defeated in '64 or what Wilson is described as having decided upon had he not been reelected in 1916.

War Issues Paramount.

It is to be noted that all three instances revolve about war conditions, foreign or domestic, or situations that threatened involvement in war.

However grave might be any new economic crisis of this winter, short of a political reaction that threatened armed revolution, there seems little real reason to anticipate actual joint consideration of its legislative phases by the outgoing and incoming Chief Executives.

The necessary party cooperation to achieve a particular legislative end is matter for Congress itself, and party leaders there. It would be difficult to imagine a situation in which President Hoover or any other President would care to seek advice of his successful rival for office as to how he should exercise his veto powers.

Gov. Roosevelt's influence with his party leaders in the present Congress, let alone that which will take office with him next March, will be very great.

Usual Polite Wires.

If needed he could exercise it with telling effect in behalf of or in opposition to any bill passing through its legislative stages this winter. It would not be necessary for him to be in Washington or to consult with President Hoover to afford cooperation of that sort at any time.

Messages exchanged by the President and the governor as soon as the election result was known were duly courteous, following long-established custom.

Mr. Roosevelt's reference to "the immediate as well as the more distant future" may have tended to prompt the idea of a face-to-face meeting with Mr. Hoover, to discuss immediately urgent problems.

Mr. Hoover's message, however, although pledging "every possible helpful effort" in amplifying his views for a successful administration, barely suggested any such course of action. And the initiative must always rest with the man holding the great powers involved, the President.

Mme. Stalin's Funeral Greatest Since Lenin's

Moscow, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Mme. Joseph Stalin, always inconspicuous while she lived, was buried today with the most impressive funeral ceremonies since the death of Lenin. Stalin himself, his face drawn and careworn, marched behind it. At his side trudged his two young children, a boy and a girl, and behind them were all the high ranking officials of the government and the Communist party.

Pittman Heads for Senate Chair After Years Trying

Nevada Democrat Expected to Succeed Moses in Pro Tem Role.

(Associated Press.)

For slender, good-natured Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, the Democratic sweep, which gave his party one-sided control of the new Senate probably means the attainment of an ambition to be president pro tem, after thirteen years of unsuccessful trying.

Ever since the Sixty-sixth Congress—in 1919—the popular Nevadan has been standing up as the Democratic choice for the job, and regularly getting pushed over by the Republican candidate, under a dominant G. O. P. majority.

Now with the Democrats assured of control of the chamber in the Seventy-third Congress, by nearly 2 to 1, his fellow senators expect to see him nominated again as a matter of course, and this time elected to become the first Democratic president pro tem since Willard Saulsbury, of Delaware, in 1916-19.

First it was Albert B. Cumming, of Iowa, and then it was George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, who ascended the Senate rostrum as president pro tem in Pittman's stead.

Every two years when a new Congress met the Republican steamroller would trundle over Pittman.

The only exception was in the Seventy-first Congress, when it happened that Pittman was not available and the G. O. P. machine rolled over another Democrat instead.

In the organization of the present Congress he came surprisingly close.

In that "Moses marathon" of recent memory he challenged the rule of the sharp-tongued Republican senator from New Hampshire in a race which went on for weeks and weeks.

With a group of the Western Independent Republicans refusing to support the sarcastic Moses, Pittman for the first time succeeded in making a real fight for the honor.

Smiles faded and a tinge of grimness overspread the Senate as the struggle wore on through ballot after ballot without a word of debate, but with the Republican Independents voting resolutely against the man who once referred to them as "sons of the wild jackass."

But while they refused to vote for Moses they declined to bolt their party outright by supporting the Democratic nominee, Pittman. Instead they gave their ballots to first one Republican and then another.

Nobody actually won the strange contest, which wound up in a stalemate, but Moses retained his seat under a rule that the president pro tem shall serve until his successor is elected.

Moses, a "lame duck," probably will continue to function as president pro tem in the "short session" beginning next month, although there is a chance the Democrats might be able to put Pittman into the office without waiting for the new Congress.

To do so they would have to win the short-term seat for which a close contest is on in Colorado and also obtain the support of the lone Farmer-Labor member, Shipstead, of Minnesota, who usually votes with the Republicans.

But in the new Congress the Democrats are certain to have their say in organization matters and one of the first things they expect to do is to make Pittman president pro tem.

In that prized but somewhat uninfluential post the Nevada senator—who incidentally was close to President-elect Roosevelt throughout his campaign—will wield the gavel whenever Vice President-elect Garner happens to be absent.

SENATOR KEY PITTMAN.

Democrat Seeks Election Recount

Republicans Lose Control of Connecticut Senate by Single Seat.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Proposals for one congressional recount were withdrawn today, but plans for another went ahead as a final unofficial survey of votes cast in the State Tuesday failed to show any change in the two contests.

Martin Gormley, Democrat, who apparently lost the Fifth District race to Representative E. W. Goss by 67 votes, said he would not seek a recount now, but reserved the right to appeal to the new Congress.

Although Democratic leaders decided not to ask for a recount in the Second District, William Fox, the defeated Democratic nominee, said he would press his demand for one.

A Republican decision not to ask for a recount in the Thirty-fifth State senatorial district gave control of the Senate definitely to the Democrats, who elected 18 members to 17 for the Republicans.

Reed Says Sales Tax Foes Weaker

Keystone Senator Points Out Congress Must Stop National Deficit.

(United Press.)

A new tax bill must be passed at the coming session of Congress and opposition to a general sales levy is weakening, Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, declared here yesterday.

A leading sales tax advocate, Reed predicted Congress may be forced to enact a general excise levy of not more than 2½ per cent to obtain revenue for the Government. Treasury figures show receipts are far below those expected from the tax bill passed at the last session. The sole tax in the bill which is yielding approximately the volume predicted, Reed noted, is the Federal gasoline tax. This item was written into the bill for one year and expires in June.

"Something must be provided to take its place," Reed said. "The Congress has resorted to other measures and has failed. The nuisance taxes have been clearly a failure."

Election Gratifies Liquor Merchants

Bootleg Trade Gets Ready for (S)Peak Business During Holidays.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The World-Telegram today reported increased activity in the bootlegging industry, saying it had learned "the underworld's optimism * * * is based on the belief that prohibition enforcement has been practically nullified by the wet victory in Tuesday's election."

"Several racketeers, traveling by airplane and train," the paper reported, "left last night to complete arrangements for what they expect to be the most prosperous holiday liquor trade in many years.

"As speakeasies throughout the city lowered their restrictions on the sale of whisky and other alcoholic beverages, it was reported that demand had increased for vessels suitable for liquor smuggling. The rum fleet, missing for several years, is expected to appear off New York before Thanksgiving."

Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, to John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia.

The coal was shipped by truck from Scranton, Pa., to Camden, N. J., and loaded on two Eastern Air Transport planes for delivery to Mr. Costello. The head of the District Democrats will give the coal to charity.

RASKOB FELICITATES FARLEY ON VICTORY

Hiram Johnson Wires That Hoover Lost California by 450,000 Votes.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Said the manager of the Alfred E. Smith campaign (John J. Raskob) to the manager of the Franklin D. Roosevelt campaign (James A. Farley) in a letter tonight:

"No one could have greater admiration for you and the able way in which you conducted not only a winning, but a clean, decent campaign.

"There never was a candidate fighting for the Presidency who conducted himself with greater dignity and kept in a happier mood than did Gov. Roosevelt, who, too, refrained from mud-slinging or in any other way losing his self-reapect for a single instant."

From Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, came this telegram:

"Unofficial returns, with about 500 precincts yet missing, show today Gov. Roosevelt's majority in California 450,000. These figures indicate almost as many Republican votes for the governor as for his opponent. We carried all but one county and we are rejoicing in the great victory, national and State."

To which Farley replied, in part:

"I am frank to say that you are largely responsible."

Ryburn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National Bank, of Atlanta, Ga., brought $6,000 to national Democratic headquarters during the day, making Georgia the first State to make its final returns to the Democratic campaign fund.

Col. Arthur O'Brien, executive director of the fund-raising drive, said Georgia was the first State to reach and pass its quota, which was $30,000. Georgia contributions so far totel $33,500.

The officers were fired upon as they approached the home of Lynch to arrest him for shooting 8-year-old Samuel Kent. The boy and his father, who were hunting, had walked across the Lynch premises in quest of game. Corpl. Hanna and the Kent boy were removed to the Charleroi Hospital in serious condition.

Stockholm, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of the General Electric Laboratories at Schenectady, N. Y., has been awarded the Nobel prize for chemistry for "pioneer work in surface chemistry," the Swedish Academy of Science announced today.

It explained he has been given the special recognition for his contributions toward the advancement of radio science. His research in laws governing electron emission from glowing metal threads, which led to construction of a new type of vacuum tube, was regarded by the academy as the most important step in development of radio technique in the past decade and of great economic benefit.

Extension of Bus Line Is Rejected

Prince Georges Body Votes No When Extra Cost Is Admitted.

The proposal to extend the Accokeek-Oxon Hill school bus line to Sharpersville, Md., was rejected yesterday by the Prince Georges County school board after delegations both in favor of the proposal and against it had been heard. The extension would cost about $100 a year extra, it was testified at the hearing.

The board also gave the State roads commission 6 feet of right of way along Central avenue in front of the Seat Pleasant School, in order that the road might be widened. It appropriated $48 to add to a like sum raised by the Marlboro Parent-Teacher Association for painting and repairs to the high school.

Two abandoned schools were sold, the Fairy Springs structure to August Lammers for $812, and the Cedar Grove building to James F. Brady for $833.

Maryland Sophomores Flag Rush Conquerors

The traditional rivalry between sophomores and freshmen at the University of Maryland found an outlet yesterday in the annual flag rush, which was won by the sophomores after 100 champions had struggled on the drill field for about 20 minutes.

Virtually the entire student body watched and cheered as 50 picked men from each class protected their flags from onslaught and attempted to take the flag of the other class. The freshmen rallied around a blue and white pennant, while the sophs, wise in the fate of flags in such affairs, had made theirs of canvas. The rush, which resulted in no injuries not curable with arnica, ended with the goal posts torn bodily from the ground.

DEMOCRATIC SLATE WINS IN KENTUCKY

Roosevelt, Barkley and Nine Candidates for House Are Ahead.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Only 25 of Kentucky's 120 counties voted Republican this year, as compared to only 27 going Democratic in the 1928 presidential race.

Many counties had switched back to the Democratic standard in the gubernatorial race last year, but a large number that rarely, if ever, had voted Democratic, swung into Franklin D. Roosevelt's column this time and gave him a steadily mounting plurality that promised to break the 176,000 record that Hoover set four years ago. Only one of the old congressional districts, the traditionally Republican Mountain Eleventh, stayed in the Republican column this year, 13 of its 15 counties remaining Republican.

Returns from 3,705 of Kentucky's 4,184 precincts tonight showed: For President—Roosevelt, 517,465; Hoover, 344,700.

For Senate: (3,674 precincts tabulated)—Alben W. Barkley, Democratic incumbent, 509,766; Representative Maurice H. Thatcher, Republican, 341,475.

The leads held by all the nine Democratic candidates for Congress, elected this year on a State-at-large basis, were correspondingly large.

Of the missing precincts, 155 were in Jefferson County, which appeared certain to go Democratic and the others were scattered in Campbell, Kenton and McCracken.

In the only other race of more than local interest in the State, Alex L. Ratliff, of Pikeville, Democrat, defeated S. S. Willis, of Ashland, incumbent Republican, for the Court of Appeals judgeship of the Seventh Appellate District. The vote, with all precincts counted, was: Ratliff, 105,864; Willis, 96,022.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A wind and snow storm that stopped highway traffic in western Minnesota abated late today.

Police said he had been arrested four times and served a term in the Elmira Reformatory for attempted extortion.

5 Suits Are Filed On Personal Taxes

D. C. Commissioners Seek to Compel Listing of Returns.

Following up their campaign to compel persons to file personal property returns to the District Government, the District Commissioners yesterday instituted five mandamus suits in the District Supreme Court to force two women and three men to file their returns.

Those named in the suits were Mrs. Brooke Baker, 1628 Twenty-ninth street northwest; Kingman Brewster, Smith Building; Mrs. Elizabeth Capeheart, 2310 California street northwest; Fred V. Coville, 1836 California street northwest; and Samuel F. Beach, 1836 Twenty-fourth street northwest.

The Commissioners' petitions merely recited the assertion that each of the five had failed to file the returns, and that the Commissioners had no satisfactory basis upon which to assess a tax against supposed personal holdings. Assistant Corporation Counsel Stephens filed the papers.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP CENTERS ON REPEAL

Election Result Takes Back Seat as Politicians Discuss Beer.

(Associated Press.)

Political discussion here yesterday in the wake of Tuesday's lopsided victory for the Democrats centered upon the chances for legalizing beer at the short session of Congress next month.

The discussion, and the hopes of antiprohibitionists, were given further impetus by a statement from Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, Democratic whip of the House, that he saw no reason why it should not be done at this session without waiting for the new Congress.

Speculation on the prospect for beer almost diverted attention from late election returns, which revealed the Democrats would not only control the national administration, beginning in March, but would have a stronger voice than heretofore for many years to come.

The popular vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt, President-elect, climbed yesterday to more than 21,000,000, and his plurality over President Hoover to over 6,000,000.

Election of 28 Democratic senators not only gave the Democrats control of the Senate for the next Congress, but insured a majority for them in that body at least until 1937 and probably until 1939.

Final returns from the last contests in the House were slow coming in, but with less than half a dozen seats in doubt, the Democrats were certain of a record-breaking advantage of 200 seats.

Even slower were the returns of the minor presidential candidates, but with about half the Nation's voting precincts heard from, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate, had rolled up a popular vote of more than half a million.

Control of the Senate for the remainder of President Hoover's term was not yet settled definitely. Election of Karl C. Schuyler, Republican candidate in Colorado, for the short term would assure it, but Schuyler was running only a step ahead of Walter Walker, Democratic candidate. Walker's election would make it possible for Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor of Minnesota, to throw control to the Democrats, if he chose.

For Quick Action.

"The thing to do is to modify the Volstead act as quickly as possible and I see no reason why it can not be done at the December session," McDuffie said. "The people have spoken in no uncertain terms their indorsement of the Democratic platform. There can be no mistake as to their wishes."

From Senator Reed, Pennsylvania Republican and administration spokesman, came a statement that additional revenue legislation must be enacted at the short session and that modification of the Volstead act is "up to the Democrats."

Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, said he would renew his efforts to legalize beer and asserted "the only way the drys can defeat beer legislation at the short session is by filibuster." The Connecticut senator added he had been informed that Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, who predicted that nothing would be done about beer this winter, would not use those tactics.

The biggest question mark in discussion of legalizing beer before spring was the attitude of President Hoover. No one professed to know whether he would sign such legislation.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, announced that meanwhile the enforcement activities of the Government would "carry on as usual."

Woodcock Says Dry Work Is Not Affected

(Associated Press.)

Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition administrator, told newspapermen yesterday that, as far as election effects are concerned, the enforcement unit of the Government "will carry on as usual."

Appropriations for the work were made by the last Congress for the fiscal year ending next July, and he said the prohibition work will continue on that basis. He refused comment on the effects of a possible Volstead act modification on enforcement, saying "our job is to do what Congress tells us to."

Lady Astor Interprets Vote As Protest of 'Dry' Drinking

American Women Won't Ballot for Liquor, Says Virginia-Bred M. P., Advising Democrats to Promote Arms and Tariff Reduction.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Viscountess Astor, of Cliveden, first woman member of the British House of Parliament and long an advocate of prohibition measures in Great Britain, says "American women never will vote for liquor."

Speaking as "Nanny" Langhorne Astor, a Virginian spending a vacation among friends of her girlhood, Lady Astor interpreted the American election result as "not a wet victory, but a protest against too much drinking under prohibition." She added that the unemployment problem in the United States will not be settled if Europe is allowed "to dump a flood of wines and liquor into this country."

Frankly expressing her pleasure "as a Virginian" in the prospect of the South having "a look-in on the Government of the United States," she said the Democratic party's great opportunity lies along the lines of promoting disarmament and bringing about improvement of international trade through tariff reduction.

She compared the sweeping Democratic victory in this week's election to the formation of the national government in Great Britain. "Thousands, or even millions of Republicans must have voted with the Democrats to produce this result," she said, "and the Democrats will make a great mistake unless they recognize this and govern from a national, or better, an international viewpoint."

Lady Astor said debt settlements must be adjusted along economic lines. She described gold as "the ballast in the ship of state," and said piling up too much of it in the United States had caused the ship to "list" badly. A readjustment is necessary, she said, to put the ship back on an even keel.

"In England," she added, "I haven't heard anyone say we should not pay our debts. Even the Socialists haven't gone that far." She explained that Gerat Britain is concerned not with avoiding payment, but with finding a means of paying while tariff barriers limit or prohibit the exchange of goods in international trade.

Repeating a statement made here last night in the course of her address at the opening of the campaign of the Richmond community fund, Lady Astor said, "What we need is less borrowing and lending and more buying and selling."

This afternoon she returned to Mirador, the Langhorne family estate, near Charlottesville, where she is spending a vacation period. Her only public speech in America, the British peress said, will be that delivered here last night in the interest of the community fund campaign.

Treachery Blamed By Moses in Loss

Says He Still Will Take Active Part in Politics in New Hampshire.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—United States Senator George H. Moses, defeated for reelection Tuesday, intends to take a very active part in New Hampshire politics of the future. He attributed his defeat to "concerted treachery" and said today:

"While I haven't had an opportunity to study the New Hampshire election returns in detail, even a cursory examination shows that in certain sections there were deflections from me that can not be explained upon any theory other than that of concerted treachery.

"I have said that this was my sunset campaign. * * * I do not say that I shall run again for the Senate or for any other office, but I do say that the same-type factors that combined to bring Theodore Roosevelt back into active politics now appeal to me; and I expect to be active, much more active, than I have ever thought—in New Hampshire politics in the near future." The senator refused to amplify his statement.

Election Night Quarrel Fatal to Two Logan Men

Logan, W. Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Two men are dead today as a sequel to a quarrel that had its inception election night. Charlie Adams, 30, died today and Woodrow Dingess, 19, was found shot to death yesterday. State troopers are seeking Mike Dingess, 20, unrelated to Woodrow Dingess, in connection with slaying his namesake.

State police said the men were returning home Tuesday night after listening to election returns at a polling booth. Woodrow Dingess, officers said, asked the other two men for a drink of whisky. Upon being refused, he was reported to have fired twice at Adams, inflicting fatal wounds, and wounding Mike Dingess.

Garner Hunts Squirrel On Armistice Holiday

Uvalde, Tex., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—John N. Garner, Vice President-elect, spent Armistice Day squirrel hunting in the woods near Uvalde.

Before leaving, Garner paused long enough to admire one of the gifts he appreciates most highly, a quilt bearing a large, lone star in red, white and blue, surrounded by a border of the same colors. Above the star were the words "The eyes of Texas are upon you," and beneath was the inscription "Garner-Roosevelt 1932 Democrats."

Dr. Simon Fears For World Peace

Rabbi Deplores Fact That Nations Have Failed to Scrap War.

"The Nation's tribute to the memory of America's Unknown Soldier yesterday was a true symbol of hope for future peace throughout the world," Dr. Abram Simon said last night in a short Armistice Day address before some 500 members of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

Dr. Simon went on to say that at the present time future peace seems to be just a hope as the presence of so many armed nations, both on land and sea, seemed to belie any such symbol for the futire.

"The only assurance we shall ever have of permanent peace is when disarmament shall become an actuality, and that will be when the people of the nations as a whole decide to do away with war," he said.

NAVY TUG MENACED BY HURRICANE SAFE

Two Destroyers Go to Aid of Vessel at Panama; Other Craft Suffer.

Colon, Panama, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—After suffering heavily in yesterday's storm, the United States naval tug Sciota, en route to Philadelphia, to be decommissioned, was reported today to be out of danger.

She was south of Folly Island, with one destroyer standing by and another on the way to her.

The freighter San Simeon arrived here safely after a rough and dangerous voyage.

Capt. E. G. Vanvard of the Velma Lykes, which is undergoing repairs here, said he fought a four-day battle with the hurricane off the Serrano Banks. The barometer reached 28.20 and the wind had a velocity of 110 miles. His vessel was carried hundreds of miles off her course, the entire superstructure was swept away, along with the lifeboats and ventilators.

Wireless Is Repaired.

The crew worked without a let-up for 72 hours, with only coffee and crackers to keep them going. At one time in the storm the wireless was disabled, but makeshift repairs were made.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A government official who went to Grand Cayman by airplane today brought back word that the steamship Balboa, carrying a cargo of lumber from Pensacola to Jamaica, was a total wreck on the coast of that island.

Grand Cayman, which is about 200 miles northeast of Jamaica, suffered considerable hurricane damage, but no lives were lost, the official said.

The government is arranging to send building materials and foodstuffs.

No Casualties in Nassau.

Nassau, Bahamas, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Long Island and Rum Cay were damaged by the same hurricane which took so many lives in Cuba, but Nassau escaped. So far as could be learned the storm caused no loss of life, and the extent of the property damage was not established.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The hurricane smashed a number of small boats and interrupted communication facilities in some sections, but for the most part the damage in Haiti was relatively slight.

One man was drowned. Persons living along the coast have taken to higher ground, as high seas beat upon the shore communities.

Two Caught In Still Raid.

Two men were arrested yesterday when Federal dry agents raided a 100-gallon still near Jewel, Md. The prisoners gave their names as Hugh Harding and Stansbury Hoffman, both of Lothian, Md.

Stricken Camaguey Richest Of Six Provinces in Cuba

Population of About 200,000 Supported by Natural Resources of Area Slightly Smaller Than Vermont; Capital Third Largest City on Island.

"Stricken Camaguey, where a terrific tropical hurricane has taken a toll of more than 1,000 lives and has leveled scores of towns and villages, is probably the richest of the six provinces of Cuba in natural resources, but the least developed and certainly the least known to outsiders," says a bulletin from headquarters here of the National Geographic Society.

"With an area slightly less than that of Vermont, it supports a population of about 200,000 people, engaged chiefly in stock raising and in producing sugar, fruit and tobacco, lumbering in its extensive forests of mahogany, cedar and dyewoods, or mining its rich deposits of copper, iron, manganese and other minerals.

"Most of the province is rolling, rising gradually to the eastern border, where it meets the province of Oriente. Along the south shore, particularly in the neighborhood of Santa Cruz del Sur, chief sufferer of the hurricane, are extensive swamps and marshy inlets. In the great interior plains of Camaguey vast stock farms raise cattle and horses from the original stock placed on them by the early conquistadores. Asphalt has been mined in the province since 1515, only 23 years after the island was sighted by Columbus on his first voyage to America.

"The capital city of Camaguey, situated in about the center of the province on both the central railway and the new highway between Havana and Santiago, is Cuba's third largest city and one of the oldest towns in the New World. It was an Indian settlement when Columbus reached Cuba, but it has had nearly a century of history as a Spanish town behind it when the first Pilgrim colonists landed on Plymouth Rock. Until the beginning of this century, it was known as Puerto Principe, but in 1902 the original Indian name was restored.

"Although Camaguey is a thoroughly modern city in many respects—with dial telephones, electric lights, paved streets and a Rotary Club—its surrender to the modern age is slow and incomplete. It was built but shortly after the Spanish domination of the Moors, when art, architecture, and engineering were learned in the Arabic universities of Toledo, Cordova, Granada and Seville. Therefore, the city bears a Moorish aspect, the house fronts being of uniform height and design, with fortress-like wooden doors and barred windows.

"The old streets seem the crookedest in the world—planned with the intention of bewildering the buccaneers. One of the plazas is named for Charles A. Dana in recognition of the services rendered to the cause of Cuban independence by the late editor of the New York Sun.

"With its many churches, shaded plazas, clanging vesper bells, little shops open to the street, great wheeled ox carts which rumble and creak through the narrow streets, its thousand and one odors of everything from food frying in olive oil and saffron, to raw leather and stale wine, Camaguey is a bit of old Spain lifted bodily from the barren plateau of Castile and dropped down into these verdant campos of central Cuba."

COAL APPEAL FILED IN SUPREME COURT

Appalachian Antitrust Case Involves Production of 58,000,000 Tons.

(Associated Press.)

The Appalachian Coals, Inc., and 137 producers of bituminous coal in eight coal districts in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky filed in the Supreme Court yesterday an appeal from a three-judge Federal court ruling that the organization and proposed operation of the corporation was prohibited by Sherman antitrust laws.

The three-judge court found that of the 484,786,000 tons of bituminous coal produced east of the Mississippi River, 107,000,000 tons came from the Appalachian and immediate surrounding territory, with the 137 defendants producing 58,000,000 tons of the latter.

Agreeing that the coal industry was in a deplorable condition, with regulatory authorities and those engaged in the industry attempting to find a remedy, the court held that until Congress amended the Sherman antitrust law the agreement between the 137 producers under which the corporation was organized as a selling agency must be held illegal.

The plight of those engaged in the coal industry was entitled to the sympathy of all, the trial court suggested, adding it was required to enforce the laws as it found them, without power to repeal acts of Congress or overrule decisions of the Supreme Court. Only Congress, it pointed out, could authorize agreements such as those involved in the present case, which had the effect, it stated, of eliminating competition between parties to enable them to fix prices, without any intention of monopolistic control.

STATE TAX SESSION IS SET IN ANNAPOLIS

County Boards to Convene Nov. 18 to Discuss Rate Reductions.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 11.—Boards of county commissioners for the 23 counties of Maryland will meet November 18 to discuss tax reduction, and today, John A. Bromley, road engineer for Anne Arundel County, mailed formal invitations to the several boards to assemble in Annapolis. The meeting will be held in the House of Delegates chamber at the State House.

Ways and means of reducing rates in every county, if possible, will be discussed at the meeting, and a draft of a legislative campaign will be shaped for presentation to the General Assembly, which meets in biennial session in January. One point strongly advanced if reductions are to be made is that of curtailment of road improvement programs; in other words declaring a "road holiday" for a year or two. Anne Arundel commissioners appear to be in agreement on this score, and it is expected a number of other boards will fall in line.

County retrenchment proposals, with the view of reducing tax rates, have been the subject of much discussion among commissioners of the Eastern Shore counties for several months. The idea was broached to the boards of counties on the Western Shore, and at a recent meeting held at Frederick the Statewide gathering at Annapolis was decided upon.

Richmond Plans Parade To Honor Ballot Result

Richmond, Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Barney Bowman, Richmond City Democratic chairman, said today that preparations for a "colossal victory parade" for Democrats from all over Virginia have been inaugurated. A meeting of party leaders is to be held here tomorrow morning. Mr. Bowman said he hopes to outdo the victory parades of Cleveland and Wilson days.

The announcement was made today as Gov. Roosevelt's lead continued to mount. With only about a half dozen precincts yet to be tabulated, the Virginia majority for the Democratic candidate was well past the 113,600 mark, with the total of more than 203,000. The vote for President Hoover was in excess of 89,000.

6,000 Need Assistance In Everglades Floods

West Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Relief workers estimated today between 6,000 and 8,000 persons needed assistance in the Upper Everglades, where last Sunday's cloudburst transformed a rich vegetable-growing section into a vast lake.

Shipments of Government flour, private donations and Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds were meeting the temporary need, it was said. Many Canal Point residents were forced from their homes by the steadily mounting floods. At nearby Solickville, Negroes were seen wading out of their squalid houses carrying babies and suitcases in their arms.

their fee, which, opposing counsel contended, was too high.

The opposing counsel was Dudley Doolittle, Democratic national committeeman from Kansas, Cyrus Crane of Kansas City, and C. M. Williams and William Carey, of Hutchinson.

Smith did not name the woman he blamed for the marital troubles of the Shouses. He said she was worth approximately $1,000,000 in her own name, owned a $100,000 home in Georgetown, and with a sister, was coheir to a large New England fortune.

The hearing on the fee was continued until tomorrow, after five Hutchinson attorneys testified to a belief that the claim was reasonable.

A defense witness, Ewing Laporte, of Pittsburgh, an attorney who described himself as a friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Shouse, said he had served as an intermediary in their marital difficulties.

5 DIE WHEN PLANE CRASHES IN STORM

Chicago Engineer Was Flying to Florida With Wife and Three Friends.

Kempville, Tenn., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Losing their way in the darkness and rain on a flight from Chicago to Florida, where they planned to spend the winter, five persons in a private plane piloted by Joseph F. Hirt, industrial engineer, fell to their deaths in a hillside woods on the fringe of Kempville.

Hirt, 40 years old, president of the Forest Products Engineering Co., Chicago, was accompanied by his wife, Inez, 38; their friend, Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, 38, a widow, of Henry, Ill., and Mrs. Hunter's two children, Robert, 4, and Inez, 2.

All were dead except the baby girl when a searching party found the demolished plane last midnight after a three-hour search. The child, suffering from a concussion of the brain, was unconscious until her death at 7 a. m. today.

The plane had circled over Kempville for some time before the accident, presumably in search of a place in the hilly country to land in a strong wind and heavy rain. Dr. C. W. Robinson said the motor could be heard distinctly at times and then would be silent, as if coasting. The crash followed and Robinson and several neighbors found the plane smashed to bits and the victims lying nearby, their bodies badly crushed.

The Hirt party left Chicago Thursday morning, arriving late in the afternoon at Sky Harbor, near Nashville. They left about 5:15 p. m. for Atlanta. The scene of the accident was between 200 and 300 miles off the charted course.

Dr. Robinson said he had been advised by Chicago friends of the Hirts to hold the bodies here pending instructions for their removal to Chicago for burial.

stronger and fought the waves more successfully."

Asked if the city would be rebuilt, he said, "I wouldn't recommend it."

Official advices before the hurricane were meager, according to Lieut. Carrillo, military supervisor of Santa Cruz, who did his utmost to clear the place of people before the wall of water struck it.

Wednesday midnight, the lieutenant said, a fisherman came to him and declared: "Lieutenant, you may shoot me if I lie, but look at that sea. When the wind changes it is going to sweep in and flood Santa Cruz."

Carrillo immediately began clearing out residents of the city, threatening some of the laggards with his pistol. He probably saved the lives of several hundred before the storm struck. After the inundation he did his utmost to assist in the rescue work until finally he collapsed. The next thing he remembers he was riding on a plank which grounded, and on hands and knees he crawled out of the water.

When the refugee trains arrived today such great crowds gathered that police, soldiers and emergency assistants were hampered in their work. Among these thousands were many earlier refugees who eagerly scanned the faces of the newcomers as they emerged from the station.

All business activities in Camaguey were suspended and the city devoted itself solely to caring for the storm sufferers.

Soldiers passed bottles of water and milk through the herded refugees in the station, and the storm victims seized the bottles, avidly gulping down their contents.

A special meeting of the Camaguey aldermen was summoned for tonight to pass on a motion to appropriate $25,000 for relief work from municipal funds. A committee was formed to solicit clothing. Many of the refugees were barely covered, and numerous women were dressed in men's clothes.

A few cases of measles were found in the overcrowded hospitals, and precautions were taken against an epidemic.

An Associated Press representative who flew over Santa Cruz this morning said the city still was flooded and every house was reduced to planks, plaster and stones. About a mile and a half at sea he saw floating debris.

Except for the grave diggers, the city was virtually deserted.

of the Capital by the bonus expeditionary force, but it failed to halt many veterans who already had headed for Washington.

The hunger marchers intend to demand of Congress a dole of $50 for every unemployed worker, plus $10 for each dependent, as the Federal winter relief program to supplement local charity, according to Mr. Benjamin. They will also demand immediate payment of the veterans' bonus.

Nine columns of hunger demonstrators will converge on Washington. The first group is scheduled to leave Seattle next Tuesday and the second from San Francisco three days later.

Prior to the Washington demonstration, delegations representing the hunger marchers will call on President Hoover here and on President-elect Roosevelt in Hyde Park, N. Y., on Thanksgiving Day, according to Mr. Benjamin.

The leader admitted that the Communist party is supporting the march and will participate in it, but he denied that Communists are sponsoring the affair.

Warnings Sent by D. C. Condemned by Writer

The action of the District Commissioners in sending messages to governors and mayors asking that they discourage the proposed "hunger march" of unemployed to Washington during the next session of Congress, was condemned last night by John Herrmann, novelist and short story writer, in behalf of the League of Professional Groups, composed of writers, scientists and leaders in all professions.

"This may contribute to the incitement of riots," Mr. Herrmann said. "It may prompt officious and excitable officials to attempt to suppress such marches, which are the constitutional right of all citizens."

"The way to prevent hunger marches," he declared, "is to alleviate the conditions prompting them. It can not be done in any other way, and certainly no attempt should be made to suppress what is guaranteed by the Constitution—the right to petition Congress."

ELIE SHEETZ, CANDY MAKER, DEAD AT 84

'Martha Washington' Stores Founder in Business for 65 Years.

Elie Sheetz, one of Washington's best known figures and founder of the Martha Washington Candy stores throughout the country, died yesterday at his home, 509 Twelfth street northwest, following an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Sheetz's death ended a varied and colorful career. He was a pioneer in the candy business and for 65 years had operated a string of shops in all sections of the country. He was a familiar figure in Washington.

Mr. Sheetz was born in Berlin, Pa., June 4, 1848. His first business venture was in Lancaster, Pa., and in 1900 he came here to open the first Martha Washington Candy store at 507 Twelfth street northwest. His chain of shops rapidly grew until he was operating fifteen factories and more than 200 stores throughout the United States.

Survived by Son.

In 1870 he married Susan Virginia Shuck, of Bedford, Pa. Mrs. Sheetz died in 1920. He is survived by one son, Jet D. Sheetz, who came here from Lancaster at the beginning of his father's illness.

An associate in business, Ernest M. Hunt, of Chicago, Ill., once said of Mr. Sheetz:

"There isn't any story of Martha Washington Candies without Elie Sheetz. There can't be any story of Elie Sheetz and his work until you see Elie Sheetz. Go to Washington and see the man and talk with him. You will then understand just how impossible it is to know the story of his business without being in the presence of the man himself."

Arrived at 4 A. M.

On entering the Sheetz home one immediately senses the unusualness of the man's character. On all sides are relics of days gone by. One of his most prized possessions is the "rest chair" that once belonged to Abraham Lincoln. Priceless other old relics adorn his home throughout.

Until stricken with his last illness, Mr. Sheetz continued the practice of being the first to arrive at his factory at 4 o'clock in the morning. His ambitions carried him far and he is known to have been one of the richest men in the country.

Hundreds of Bodies Found As Flood Recedes in Cuba

Funeral Pyres Blaze in Santa Cruz del Sur as Rescue Parties Work to Clear Town of Dead; Some of Victims Taken From Treetops.

Havana, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Hundreds of bodies in the ruined town of Santa Cruz del Sur, on the southern coast of the province of Camaguey, were found today as flood water receded, the Santa Cruz correspondent of the Havana newspaper El Pais said.

He told of funeral pyres blazing in several parts of the town as rescue parties worked swiftly in a blazing sun to clear the town of its dead. He also told of bodies being removed from bushy tree tops, where the tidal wave which leveled the city early Wednesday morning had carried them.

Capt. Andres Terry, Cuban army pilot, said when he returned here today from a flight over the Camaguey sector, he was unable to describe the misery and suffering which he could see from the air.

"An air survey of the storm-struck area makes it appear that the entire region has been wiped out, leaving only dense masses of dead or suffering humanity," he said.

Throughout the entire Province of Camaguey the terrific gale flattened the cane fields and picked up flimsy palm-thatched homes of plantation workers as if they were mere twigs. Hundreds of cane field workers were believed to be without shelter.

It was certain that heavy damage had been inflicted throughout the rich sugar cane area with Camaguey, Florida, Camajuani, Ciego de Avila, Manzanillo, Moron, Nuevitas, Cespedes, Vilar, Estrella, Siboney and Agramonte bearing the brunt.

Government agencies were doing everything in their power today to aid the stricken area, especially to prevent epidemics.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Camaguey manager of the Consolidated Railways of Cuba, reported to his New York offices tonight that the town of Woodin, north of Camaguey, had been completely destroyed by the hurricane which struck Cuba early last Wednesday.

The town has 1,000 inhabitants but no report was made on the number of injured.

The manager also said that the tidal wave had struck Juraco, west of Santa Cruz, on the southern coast, and that a special train had left that town with an unspecified number of refugees.

WILSON IS HONORED IN CATHEDRAL RITES

Eulogized by Newton Baker; 26 Legion Posts Take Part in Program.

Standing in the crimson-draped pulpit of the great choir and sanctuary of Washington Cathedral, not far from the spot in Bethlehem Chapel where former President Woodrow Wilson is buried, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in Wilson's World War Cabinet, told a capacity congregation yesterday afternoon that the two most important things in the world today are the disarmament conference and the Lytton report.

"World peace must be secured," said former Secretary Baker, who marched in the procession of choir and clergy and representatives of patriotic organizations bearing the colors of many service groups, "if civilization is not to commit suicide."

"The striving of an American spirit has built here a great people," he continued, "custodians of the world's hope for peace, the final and great gift of an overruling Providence to all mankind in the quest for a valid civilization."

Speaking of President Wilson, Secretary Baker declared: "When the World War began, President Wilson cherished the hope for a time that America might be called upon for the mission of healing rather than of participation in it. Fate ordered otherwise and two branches of a dominant race, England and America, parted at Yorktown, were reunited in a common cause.

Says Wilson Saw New Era.

"No man saw so completely as Wilson when the Armistice came that we were on the threshold of a new era. No one suffered more than Wilson in the war because his abiding desire was for America to assume the leadership in the way of peace and healing."

In the sanctuary besides Bishop James E. Freeman and the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, were members of the cathedral staff of clergy. The Rev. Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, which was attended by President Wilson while in Washington, and a number of chaplains who saw active service in the World War, marched in the procession with the clergy.

The service was conducted by Canon Raymond L. Wolven, chaplain to the Bishop of Washington, and the lessons were read by Col. Julian E. Yates, chief of chaplains of the United States Army, and Capt. Sydney K. Evans, chief of chaplains of the United States Navy. Patriotic hymns and special anthems were sung by the cathedral choir of men and boys under the direction of Edgar Priest, cathedral organist and choirmaster.

The services, held in cooperation with the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, were participated in by 26 posts of the American Legion and several women's patriotic organizations. The services began with an informal commemoration service at 3:15 p. m. in front of the tomb of President Woodrow Wilson, under the aegis of the Wilson Armistice Day committee, of which Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams is chairman.

Wreaths Placed on Tomb.

Wreaths were placed on the tomb of Wilson by David Lynn, jr., 7-year-old son of the architect of the United States Capitol, and Mrs. Lynn, representing the Wilson Armistice Day committee; by Capt. Charles O. Shaw, representing the national officers of the American Legion; Maj. Charles Demonet, representing the George Washington Post, American Legion; Mrs. William D. Mulky, representing the American Legion Auxiliary; Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Mrs. Mary K. Killeen and Mrs. E. M. H. Guedry, of the Gold Star Mothers.

In the congregation were friends and guests of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. Owing to her absense in Japan, Mrs. Wilson was not present for the first time in several years.

After prayers by the Rev. Dr. James H. Taylor, President Wilson's Washington pastor, a brief tribute was paid to President Wilson's memory by Bishop Freeman.

In the procession to President Wilson's tomb at least 250 persons were in line, including representatives of 26 local posts of the American Legion, with their colors, as follows:

George Washington Post, No. 1, Commander Charles Demonet and Adjt. James J. Murphy; U. S. S. Jacob Jones Post, No. 2, Commander Mary Z. Weide and Adjt. Blanchette Hooker Is Bride Of John D. Rockefeller 3d

Miss Blanchette Hooker and John D. Rockefeller 3d, who were married yesterday. Young Rockefeller, the grandson of the oil magnate, is employed in his father's New York office. The couple will spend a honeymoon abroad.

New York Is the Scene of Ceremony Uniting Noted Families.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—In a setting dominated by six tall cedar trees and a cedar hedge, Miss Blanchette Ferry Hooker, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elon Huntington Hooker, of Greenwich, Conn., became the bride today of John D. Rockefeller 3d.

The wedding took place in the Riverside Church, on Riverside drive, with the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, performing the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Eugene C. Carder, associate pastor.

An unusually large bridal party was made up of 22 young relatives and friends of the two principals.

The same note of simplicity which marked the decorations at the church was also carried out at the Colony Club ballroom, where a reception was held.

There the bridal party received before a background of cedar trees and two trees of white chrysanthemums.

Young Rockefeller, grandson of the founder of the oil fortune, is 26. He attended Browning School in New York City, was braduated from Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., in 1925 and from Princeton University in 1929. He is an employe in his father's office.

Miss Hooker is 23. She was graduated from Vassar in 1931 and was a debutante in the winter of 1927-28. She has been active in work of the Junior League.

Her father is a civil engineer, a former deputy superintendent of public works when Theodore Roosevelt was Governor of New York, and a past president of the Manufacturing Chemists' Association of the United States. He is a direct descendant of Thomas Hooker, who founded Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Hooker, also, through both her father and mother, is a descendant of early New England settlers.

ARLINGTON CEREMONIES MARK CITY'S ARMISTICE OBSERVANCE

Patrick J. Hurley asked for a rededication of American lives to national institutions and ideals.

Applause greeted his introduction. Less than 100 persons scattered through the amphitheater rose and left their seats as the Secretary began his address. Victory Post No. 4 of the American Legion, scattered representatives from other posts and a delegation from the B. E. F., ignoring the official celebration, placed a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's tomb, then marched to the tombs of William J. Hushka and Eric Carlson, who lost their lives in the B. E. F. rioting. This group at no time entered the amphitheater.

Raymond A. Burke, president of Victory Post Drum and Bugle Corps, denied there was any attempt to "slight" the official ceremonies.

"We just didn't care to listen to Secretary Hurley," he said.

Edward Atwill, chief of staff of the Bonus Expeditionary Force rank and file, who was in command of Camp Marks during the bonus invasion, led the B. E. F. delegation.

The column headed by the Victory Post Drum and Bugle Corps, wound up the hillside toward the amphitheater as the ceremonies within were getting under way. The beat of its drums could be heard over the blare of the Army Band within. The column passed by. Other Legion posts in the parade fell out of line, and some of their members entered the amphitheater. The ceremonies continued within.

The Rev. Irwin Q. Wood, national commander of the American Legion, intoned the invocation. Dr. George C Havenner, executive vice president of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, read the President's message. It was brief and to the point.

President's Message.

"The Nation will linger today," it said, "in its annual tribute of reverent memory of the glorious youth who gave their lives to defend our heritage of liberty and will pay especial homage in the dedication of the completed Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Its beauty is a symbol of our national pride in their heroism; our gratitude for their supreme devotion."

Louis C. Johnson, national commander of the legion, followed Dr. Havenner, urging "loyalty to our departed comrades" and preparations against war. He introduced the next speaker as "a man sent to us by the President of the United States, Secretary Patrick J. Hurley."

Secretary Hurley, who earlier had placed a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's Tomb, was applauded as he stepped to the rostrum. There was no organized move to leave the amphitheater, and those who rose drifted out quietly one by one. There were few legion caps or badges among them. A number were women.

"Of the intimate details of our unknown comrade's life we know nothing," he said. "We do know that he gave his life that our Nation might live. Yankee or Cavalier, rich man or poor man, native or foreign born, Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant, Republican or Democrat—the externals that differentiate men in life all have been swept away from the Unknown Soldier, and we behold merely the man, the character, the soul, the symbol of the spirit of America.

"That spirit is the noble heritage of the American people. It is that spirit which founded a free government and conquered a vast continent."

B. E. F. Ceremonies.

Meantime over Carlson's and Hushka's graves taps were sounded by a Victory Post bugler. Wreaths were laid by the post, by Steve Uhlrick, commander of Potomac Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; by Atwill, of the B. E. F. Rank and File, and by Eddie Gosnell, former photographer for the B. E. F. John H. West, B. E. F. national chaplain, said a short prayer. Gosnell said the wreaths he laid were purchased by a Gold Star mother, who let her son's grave go undecorated to make the purchase.

Secretary of War Hurley's car passed the little group as it circled around a hillside in leaving the grounds.

Before the major ceremony yesterday morning, several groups laid flowers on the Tomb of the Unknown. Later there was a 15 minute service at the tomb by "The Seven," representing the wartime welfare agencies.

Preceding the Arlington ceremonies, a parade of legionnaires marched from the Ellipse to the amphitheater, by way of Constitution avenue and the Memorial Bridge, accompanied by Army, Navy and Marine detachments, the Army, Navy and Marine Bands, the District National Guard and other units. Two divisions of the column were headed by Gen. P. L. Miles and Gen. Amos A. Fries, respectively.

Veterans' Celebrations.

Two gala affairs of the day were the parties of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. The first, the annual Armistice Jubilee, was attended by thousands. Washington Auditorium was transformed into a street in Armentieres, and the gay abandon of the first Armistice was repeated. Brig. Gen Pelham D. Glassford was the "Mayor of Armentieres" and master of ceremonies. Vaudeville artists from the Fox and Earle Theaters entertained the crowd.

The legion's celebration was a Bicentennial ball at the Mayflower Hotel. Here again a gay crowd gathered for dancing and entertainment.

A special service for veterans was held at the meeting of St. John's Lodge, F. A. A. M., at the Masonic Temple last night. There was a program of speeches and entertainment in charge of Senior Warden Paul J. Bergh.

Catholic Ceremony.

A solemn mass commemorative of Armistice Day was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, under auspices of Costello Post of the American Legion. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney was the celebrant.

Addresses were made by Surgeon Gen. C. E. Riggs, of the Navy; Brig. Gen. M. A. Delaney, of the Army, and Senator Royal Copeland, of New York, at a memorial service to the medical and nursing personnel of the armed forces last night at the Mayflower Hotel, under auspices of the National and District Bicentennial Commissions.

The national service flag of the American War Mothers was raised at the Capitol yesterday. Mrs. Virgil H. Stone presided at the flag raising. Invocation was by the Rev. John C. Ball, of the Metropolitan Baptist Church, and a short address was made by Col. Richard T. Ellis, of the Army Quartermaster Corps.

Throughout the day many organizations, including the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., Boy and Girl Scouts, the Salvation Army and the Girl Reserves placed wreaths at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, with brief services.

Daniels Urges Cut In Veteran Budget

Speaker Asks Legion to Aid in Reducing Costs of Government.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The American Legion was asked today by Josephus Daniels, wartime Secretary of the Navy, to take the lead in demanding discontinuance of payments to veterans that "may be touched by favoring discrimination."

Mr. Daniels spoke at an armistice celebration dedicating a memorial to Kelly Ingram, Pratt City, Ala., hero, who was killed in the torpedoing of the U. S. S. Cassin, October 15, 1918, in European waters.

"The chief responsibility for the serious conditions of today can not be charged against the men who fought in the World War," said Mr. Daniels, in urging that legionnaries lead the fight against extravagance in Government. "Extravagance is not confined to veteran legislation, as some critics would have us believe," he said. "It has been rampant in every line and in ways without justification. The knife should be applied wherever waste exists."

MOST FEDERAL JOBS SAFE UNDER CHANGE

However, Many Attractive 'Plums' Are on Patronage Schedule.

(Associated Press.)

Thousands of political appointees face separation from the Federal pay roll during the coming Democratic administration, but the great bulk of the Government's 575,000 employes stand secure behind a protective wall built and enlarged under both Democratic and Republican sponsorship.

It is the civil service law, enacted in 1883, during the administration of Chester A. Arthur, and since extended by successive Presidents to one class after another of Government workers. Under the provisions of the merit system, a civil service employe can not be removed except for cause.

While principal posts at the disposal of Franklin D. Roosevelt will be membership in his Cabinet, major diplomatic assignments and important commissionerships, there are many other attractive "plums" on the patronage schedules.

Principal Appointments.

In the War Department are the governorships of the Philippines and Puerto Rico and assignments of Army officers to head the several branches of the service. The governor of the Canal Zone is also appointed by the President.

In the Treasury, besides the Secretaryship, there are such presidential appointments as Undersecretary, three Assistant Secretaries, the Director of the Budget, Treasurer of the United States and Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Others in that department named by the President are the Director of the Mint, Commissioner of Narcotics, surgeon general and assistant surgeons general of the Public Health Service, Federal Farm Loan Board members and Comptroller of the Currency.

Justice Department Posts.

The principal appointments made by the President in the Department of Justice are Attorney General, Solicitor General and Assistant Attorneys General. The Attorney General names the Director of Prohibition, Director of Prisons and Director of Bureau of Investigation.

In the Postoffice Department the President appoints besides the Postmaster General, four assistants and the controller. Postmasters, first, second and third class, are presidential appointees who serve for four years. Other incumbents in key positions are under civil service.

In the Interior Department, the President names the Secretary, Assistant Secretaries, Commissioners of the Land Office and of Indian Affairs, Commissioner of Education, Director of the Geological Survey and Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation.

The governors and secretaries of Alaska, Hawaii and the Virgin Islands also are named by the Chief Executive.

Others to Be Named.

In the Department of Commerce, the President designates the Secretary, two assistants and the solicitor, as well as the heads of bureaus. Among the latter are Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Lighthouse, Navigation, Census, Mines and the Patent Office.

Presidential appointees in the Department of Agriculture are the Secretary, Assistant Secretary and Chief of the Weather Bureau. All other bureau and division heads come under civil service.

In the Labor Department, the President designates the Secretary, two Assistant Secretaries, solicitor, Commissioner General of Immigration, Chief of Children's Bureau, Chief of Women's Bureau and eight Commissioners of Immigration.

HOOVER CUTS SHORT HIS REST ON COAST

formally before the President until he reaches the White House."

Mr. Hoover spent a quiet day in his home here before starting his return journey, which railroad executives have outlined as a flying 90-hour trip that will place him back in Washington by Tuesday noon.

A minimum of stops has been requested by the Chief Executive and the completing of his final schedule was delayed until shortly before his train started.

He spent a short time today in writing the brief rear platform address he will deliver tomorrow morning at Glendale, Calif., a suburb of Los Angeles, before leaving his train for a 15-mile automobile ride to allow Mrs. Hoover to see the new home of their son, Herbert Hoover, jr. The presidential party will board the train again at Alhambra, Calif., in order to save time on the return trip to the Capital.

The rough outline of the itinerary to be followed by the Hoover party included brief stops at Yuma and Tucson, Ariz.; El Paso, Tex.; Kansas City, St. Louis and on eastward.

One of the White House secretaries said that although the President might appear on the rear platform at some of these stops, he has planned to make no formal speeches after leaving Glendale.

After sending a message to be read at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Washington, Mr. Hoover confined his formal participation in Armistice Day events to receiving in the brightly sunlit driveway of his home, a group of men from the Palo Alto Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and presenting a medal of the Order of the Purple Heart to A. N. Neilson, World War veteran. A delegation of local veterans watched the ceremony and applauded the President.

Mr. Hoover received from Langley O. Shoemaker a blue forget-me-not, such as are being sold for the benefit of the disabled veterans of the World War, and from Mrs. Margaret Willis, a Red Cross button.

Among those invited to accompany the President on his return to Washington were Marshall Hale, California Republican leader; Secretary and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Mark L. Requa, Republican national committeeman from California, and Milton Esberg, California manufacturer and close friend of Mr. Hoover.

Robinson Urges Fixed War Debt Collections

Fayetteville, Ark., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Senator Joe T. Robinson, Senate Democratic leader, declared in an Armistice Day address here today, in favor of this Government announcing a fixed policy for collection of the war debts.

He also said the printing of more money for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus would "threaten the national credit and result in much more harm than good."

Flier Puts Thrill in War Film by Falling Into Sea

Army Pilot Enacts Real Drama When Engine Quits While He Is in Power Dive Off Hawaii; Saved by Submarine.

Honolulu, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Lieut. Charles D. Fator, U. S. A., has narrowly escaped with his life in providing a scene of realism for a movie "battle" which cost the Army his plane.

While cameras clicked on the bluffs of Koko Head yesterday, Fator's plane climbed high over the ocean to "attack" a Navy submarine lurking 200 yards offshore and also aiding in the production of the war movie. Fator swung his plane into a power dive.

"I was making 275 miles an hour when the motor sputtered just as I was flattening out close to the water," the flier said today. "I zoomed up sharply, working pump. The motor sputtered once or twice more and quit cold.

"To get near the submarine I had to land down wind. I had managed to get up about 600 feet in the zoom. "As the ship came down I debated whether to unfasten my safety belt. I changed my mind three or four times and finally decided to leave it fastened and braced my left hand on the instruments."

The plane struck hard, watched by grimly winding cameramen on the cliff, and then sank.

"When I opened my eyes, I was under water," Fator said. "I unfastened the safety belt, but when I tried to crawl out, the parachute caught. I had to unfasten the harness to crawl out. That took a minute or more.

"When I came up, the parachute floated and I grabbed it. The submarine turned and nosed up to me, so I swam over. A tugboat alongside assisted me."

Fator joined the Caterpillar Club in February, 1931, when he deserted a burning plane over the San Jacinto Mountains of California, escaping with a few scratches.

ENGLAND IS JOINED BY FRANCE IN MOVE FOR DEBTS REVISION

ther reductions in their debts to the United States. People in Europe don't really understand the debt situation. They don't realize we have outstanding bonds that have got to be paid. The average European thinks that the money borrowed during the war by France, England and the other allies came from a great reservoir here. I think the American case is very much misunderstood abroad.

"The general opinion there is that we are too harsh creditors. It is based on a complete misunderstanding."

Senator Reed declared that France has already received more cash from the sale of American war supplies than she paid to the United States and that Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills had the figures to bear out the truth of this assertion. There was confusion at the Treasury Department with regard to this claim, according to the figures furnished by them, unless the senator wished to exclude from his calculations the sums paid by France before the signing of the debt funding agreements.

War Stocks Deal.

At the end of the war a large amount of war stocks were left over which the United States offered to the French government for $400,000,000. The original cost to this Government was much more. The offer was accepted and since then, French newspapers have declared that these stocks were disposed of at a loss to the French government of $100,000,000. These figures were, however, never officially confirmed.

The total amount of money paid by France since the signature of the debt funding agreement between Senator Henry Berenger and Secretary Andrew W. Mellon is $200,000,000, or a figure that confirms the statement of the senator from Pennsylvania. However, this is not the full amount of payments made by France, since $286,075,891 was paid by her to this country before the Mellon-Berenger agreement. This would make the total amount of French payments $486,075,891.

France borrowed in money and supplies before and after the armistice the grand total of $3,340,000,000. Of this amount she has paid back to date $486,075,891. Under the terms of the Lausanne agreement, reparations payments from Germany were temporarily suspended.

Final settlement was conditional upon the action of this country with regard to European debts to the United States, but it is not believed possible in the most authoritative circles that the German government will consent to a renewal of reparations payments now that they have been discontinued, even temporarily.

Lausanne Agreements.

The Lausanne agreements provided that German reparations are reduced from the enormous sum of $64,000,000,000 as specified in the Young plan to approximately $712,500,000. The joker in the agreement was the gentleman's agreement which was signed by representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, and carefully elided from the text of the document itself. This was as follows:

"The Lausanne agreement will have final effect only after ratification by the creditor powers, as provided in the agreement. This ratification will not be effected until a satisfactory settlement has been reached between them and their crditors. The creditor powers will have an opportunity to explain the situation to their respective parliaments, but no reference to that must be made in the agreement with Germany.

Consequently, if a satisfactory settlement is reached for debts, the creditor governments will ratify and the agreement with Germany will then have its full effect. But if such a settlement is not obtained, the agreement with Germany will not be ratified and a new situation will arise and the interested governments will confer on what is to be done. In such an event, the legal position is that which existed before the Hoover moratorium."

In other words, the entire debt problem would revert to the frame of the Young plan.

Charlottesville, Vaa Nov. 11.—A meeting for the purpose of organizing the University of Virginia's graduating class of 1933 will be held in Clark Memorial Hall next Thursday night at 7:15 o'clock.

Preparations for the meeting have been made by the department presidents: Frank Sippley, of Princeton, N. J., for the college; Walter S. Gard, of Chevy Chase, Md., for engineering; Roy B. Davis, of Burgaw, N. C., for the graduate school; Bladwin C. Burnham, of New York City, for law, and Walter L. Kilby, of Peola Mills, Va., for medicine, with J. Malcolm Luck, alumni secretary.

The University of Virginia has no undergraduate class system that can be carried through the entire university to form the basis for a campaign organization at the time of graduation. It is necessary for a permanent group of officers to be chosen to represent the outgoing class each fall.

Virginia Farmers Join in Celebration

Harry F. Byrd Is Leader of Parade of Democrats in Clarke County.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 11.—Led by former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia astride a "Democratic" donkey, hundreds of farmers of Clarke County paraded through the streets of Berryville tonight in celebration of the Democratic victory at the polls Tuesday. The farmers' mounts were work horses used on their farms.

After parading the principal streets to the cheers of the townsfolk and more than a thousand visitors, the paraders stopped at the historic courthouse, where speeches were delivered by Byrd and Capt. Frank M. Wray, Commonwealth attorney for Clarke County.

An old-time Democratic "love feast" followed the speaking, hot coffee, hard cider and sandwiches being served to everyone, and it was far into the night before the "dirt" farmers and their apple-growing former governor began the trek homeward on the donkey and heavy draft horses. Clarke County went Democratic Tuesday by more than 7 to 1 for both State and national candidates.

accept 10 per cent of the sum agreed upon, can not be put into effect unless intergovernmental debts, including those owed to the United States, are reduced.

It is also maintained by European powers that a readjustment of international debt settlements is necessary to any accomplishment at the forthcoming world economic and monetary conference. Europe insists, too, that the success of the world disarmament conference turns about the adjustment of reparations and war debt problems.

Great Britain owes the greater part of the $123,000,000 due December 15. She should pay at that time $95,550,000, of which $30,000,000 is principal and the remainder interest. France should pay $19,261,438 on principal. Neither of these countries has indicated it will not meet the obligations and the Treasury expects the payments unless some relief is granted by Congress.

Distinguished Speakers Coming.

Two distinguished leaders in European religious life will be in the city November 20 and 21 under the auspices of the Federation of Churches. They are Prof. Andre Philip, of the University of Lyons, France, and Prof. F. Siegmund-Schultze, of the University of Berlin, Germany. They will speak on Sunday night in New York Avenue Church and also at a dinner to be given on Monday night by the federation's committee on international good will, of which Dr. J. R. Sizoo is chairman, at the Hay-Adams House.

WAR DEAD HONORED BY MANY COUNTRIES

Armistice Day Is Observed by France, England and Other Nations.

(Associated Press.)

The men who fell on the battlefields of the World War were remembered yesterday in Armistice Day ceremonies the world over.

In most nations the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier was the central point in the observance of the fourteenth anniversary of the end of the fighting.

In Germany there was no celebration. Since 1892 the Germans have honored their war dead on the "day of repentance," which this year falls on November 16.

London.—For the first time since his illness, brought on by a chill suffered at the 1928 Armistice Day ceremonies, King George laid a wreath at the base of the Cenotaph. This most sacred of British war monuments was surrounded by a brigade of red-coated guards, wearing huge bearskin hats.

Paris. — France recalled fourteen years ago by holding ceremonies at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier under the Arch of Triumph, at the tombs of Marshals Joffre and Foch, and in the churches. There were visitations to the graves of the American dead in France. Communist demonstrations caused some slight disorder.

Rome—Italy celebrated her Armistice Day last Friday, the anniversary of the separate peace with Austri-Hungary, but yesterday was the birthday of King Victor Emmanuel, and Premer Mussolini reviewed 8,000 troops.

Brussels—The chief observance was at the tomb of the Unknown Warrior. The royal family and high government officials attended.

Dublin—Some 60,000 persons attended an Armistice Day service in Phoenix Park.

Edinburgh—The Prince of Wales led a great throng in a ceremony at the war memoral. About a mile away 500 unemployed demonstrators held a meeting, and their leader was prevented by police from speaking when a booming gun signaled the period of silence.

Christian Science Churches

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from I Corinthians, xv:48: "As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy; and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "That ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." (Ephesians, iv:22-24.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Custom, education and fashion form the transient standards of mortals. Immortality, exempt from age or decay, has a glory of its own—the radiance of Soul. Immortal men and women are models of spiritual sense, drawn by perfect Mind and reflecting those higher conceptions of loveliness which transcend all material sense." (Page 247.)

ACHIEVEMENT TOPIC OF CHURCH LECTURE

Message of Promise and of Joy Is Given by Christian Science Speaker.

A lecture on "Christian Science: The Road of Spiritual Achievement" was delivered last evening in Memorial Continental Hall by Paul A. Harsch, C. S. B., of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Harsch is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He was introduced by Clarke F. Hunn, first reader of Third Church, under the auspices of which this lecture was given. The lecturer said, in part:

To the untold thousands, hungering and thirsting after righteousness, there comes today a new message of joy and promise. Awake and see that just beneath your feet "Life's pearl is cast" (Hymnal, No. 11). Rejoice that God is ever at your side, your hand in His. Praise God that He hath "commanded the light to shine out of darkness" and that He hath given us a knowledge of His glory through "the face of Jesus Christ."

Cause for Rejoicing.

Here is indeed cause for rejoicing. The glorious light of Truth shining out of the darkness of ignorance has revealed the pathway to divine knowledge. St. Paul's words, just quoted, assure us that this knowledge was brought to us by Jesus, whose life of devotion and demonstration lifted the Christ so far above any previous human concept.

The knowledge to which St. Paul refers is not the wisdom of this world. It is rather the simple, kindly truth that God is Love, and that Love is Mind. Therefore, God is infinite and ever present intelligence, lovingly directing all, and doing so joyously and successfully throughout all time.

Were men convinced of this fact, success would be universal.

God as Divine Mind.

The human mind finds less difficulty, perhaps, in grasping the idea of God as divine Mind than as Principle. If so, the reason is plain. The very word "mind," itself, carries thought away from matter and material surroundings into an entirely different realm. Time, space, physical conditions and limitations disappear. The morning paper tells us of progress in India, of changing conditions in Russia, of startling discoveries in the mid-Pacific. In the time required to glance over the headlines we have been around the world, and possibly some billions of miles out in space for good measure. Matter for the moment has ceased to be. We have been living in a mental world.

But even this mental realm is not the universe of Spirit, divine Mind. God's perfect creation of good contains in it nothing unlike its creator, nothing that can perish or disappear. Mortal, material man has no place in it, for matter is unreal, untrue, without substance. Mind alone is real, and is substance. Mind is imperishable. Mind is All-in-all. This very allness of infinite Mind necessarily excludes from its universe every vestige of matter, including mortal man himself. Herein may be found the kernel of the whole question, as it pertains to our human experience.

Joint Prayer Services By Association Set

The annual week of prayer and world fellowship of the World's Y. W. C. A. will open tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. with a joint prayer service in Barker Hall of the Young Women's Christian Association, Seventeenth and K streets northwest, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association, to which the public is invited.

SOCIAL SERVICE UNIT EFFECTING RESULTS

Outfits for High School Boys and Girls Provided at Mt. Pleasant Church.

The effort began early this fall to develop among the young people of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, a knowledge of the meaning and best methods of rendering effective social service by such a church unit, had its first practical result this week.

Members of the Young People's Forum of the Mount Pleasant Church have provided complete clothing outfits for four boys and four girls of high school age, whose cases were referred to them for help and whose parents are victims of present economic conditions. These boys and girls had not fit clothes to wear and, without the service given by the forum, would not be able to continue in high school.

The social service study course which was inaugurated for the Mount Pleasant Church young people of high school age has been popular and effective. A first-hand knowledge of the need and methods of work has been gained by visits to social service organizations in the District, and a week from tomorrow afternoon the members of the forum will be the guests of the staff of Friendship House at tea. Later in the evening the forum will have its regular program meeting at the house and observe the work carried on in the settlement. Similar visits will be made to other local organizations on future dates.

At the morning service in Mount Pleasant Church tomorrow, the minister, the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, will preach on "The March Toward Hope."

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 12 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 9:20 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7:15 p. m. to 8:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

This November 12 would seem to have much good in store for you, but this good can be gained only if you keep yourself receptive to it. Overcome any tendencies to be morose, despondent or grouchy and seek to reflect the good and the "sunshiny" aspects of the day's activity. You will accomplish much and your material reward will be great.

The child born on this November 12 will most probably not be one who can be reasoned with. His early steps along life's highway will not be made as a result of gentle and kindly leading. Unimaginative and stubborn, he will have to be pushed and firmly prodded. His school books will mean little to him. Physical labors will appeal.

Born on November 12, you will, in all probability, be characterized as a "beautiful character." By your presence alone you will bring a sense of peace and contentment to all with whom you come in contact. Yours is a gentle, kindly and simple nature. You see all that is beautiful and fine in life and, seemingly without effort, you rise above the sordid and dismal and dreary. Possessed of many fine qualities that seek expression, you would do splendidly were you to seek a career in one of the arts. Without striving directly to satisfy your material wants you will find them amply cared for.

WAR DEBT PAYMENTS.

The European governments owing war debts to the United States are now asking for postponement of the payments due on Dec. 15. Greece has defaulted on payments recently due, and Hungary has given notice of inability to pay. Great Britain leads the great powers in asking for relief, followed by France and Italy.

Great Britain is said to have advised the United States that while the December payment can be made, the transfer would work great hardship. The United States is reminded of the Lausanne agreement whereby Germany's creditors agreed to remit reparations payments, but withheld ratification of the agreement with the understanding that it would not be binding unless the United States should extend corresponding relief to Germany's creditors.

It is surmised that the debtor governments will ask the United States to reconsider the condition which it imposed in accepting the invitation to participate in the world economic conference. This condition was that war debts and reparations should be excluded from the discussions and that silver should be included. Apparently the debtors wish to have the December debt installments postponed, pending consideration of the reparation and debt question by the world conference. It is now evident that the experts charged with preparing the program for the conference have held their work in abeyance, awaiting the outcome of the election in the United States.

President Hoover foresaw that the debtor nations would ask for postponement of their payments. He asked Congress to recreate the World War Debt Commission with a view to considering the problem. Congress refused to do so, and adopted a resolution declaring against reduction or cancellation of the debts, and giving notice that approval of the Hoover moratorium was not to be regarded as establishing a precedent.

Upon the President's return he is expected to bring into conference the heads of Congress committees concerned with foreign relations and revenue, to consider the request of the debtor governments. Postponement of the payments due next month would add about $123,000,000 to the Treasury deficit, which threatens to reach nearly $1,000,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year. Heavy taxation must be provided if the budget is to be balanced. The idea of adding $123,000,000 to the amount to be exacted from the people in taxes is not agreeable to any one, and violent opposition to this concession to Europe may be expected. It will be pointed out that France is well able to pay its debt installment, and that the intractable attitude of France against reduction of armaments forfeits any claim that might have been made upon American generosity. The opposing argument will be that unless the United States co-operates in easing the European situation the creditors of Germany will renew their exaction of reparations and precipitate a general collapse.

The war debt problem will confront the new administration, whether or not Congress next month shall agree to postponement of installments now falling due. President-elect Roosevelt is said to have been informed by the State Department of the contents of the British note. He will be consulted by Congressional leaders of his party as to the action that should be taken next month.

So far as the public is aware, the outgoing and incoming Presidents hold identical views on the debt question. Both are opposed to cancellation, and both are supposed to favor some arrangement that would assist European debtors if it would give corresponding benefits to America. President Hoover during the campaign suggested that American agriculture should be given the benefit of payments made by foreign debtors. It was also intimated that foreign commercial concessions to America might be acceptable as an alternative of debt payments. Such an arrangement, however, would require considerable negotiation, and could not be effected by Dec. 15. Time presses, and apparently Congress must decide immediately whether or not the request for postponement of debt payments shall be granted.

EXTRA SESSION LOOMS.

An extra session of Congress soon after the inauguration of President-elect Roosevelt is in prospect. The short session beginning in December can not put the "new deal" into effect. The first regular meeting of the Congress elected last Tuesday will not convene until December, 1933. It does not seem probable that Mr. Roosevelt will ask the country to wait nine months after his inauguration for the beginning of a reconstruction program. If the Democratic administration should wait until the regular session of Congress, its program would probably remain incomplete when the campaigns for the 1934 election began, and it would be accused of inaction.

It may be assumed that President-elect Roosevelt has not decided whether an extra session should be called. His decision will doubtless be influenced by what takes place in the December session. The attitude of the present Congress toward beer legislation may be a controlling factor. The wets will try to drive a beer measure through in December, but many of the drys in the Senate are determined to prevent such action. Indications point to a spirited controversy, ending in a deadlock in the Senate or a presidential veto. In that event the clamor for an extra session would become irresistible.

Even if a beer measure should be accepted by the "lame duck" Congress, it would not fully satisfy the wets. They would then demand an extra session for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They would be joined in this demand by farmers, who cling to Gov. Roosevelt's promise to raise their purchasing power; by the anti-protectionists in Congress, who demand revision of the tariff; by veterans' organizations, who hope to force the bonus bill through the new Congress, and by other groups, all of which believe they have a stake in the "new deal."

Business leaders who realize the disturbing influence of an extra session, and some of the more cautious members of Congress who realize the difficulty of obtaining satisfactory legislation, may be expected to oppose the extra-session movement. The country is already on the road to recovery. They will doubtless advise President-elect Roosevelt to give business and industry a chance at self-recuperation. But pressure from the wets, the bonusites, the advocates of reciprocal tariff agreements, the farmers and the inflationists will be strong. Since Gov. Roosevelt won the election because of the demand for a change in existing conditions, an extra session of Congress to expedite the change seems to be inevitable.

SYSTEMATIZED CHARITY.

The work of collecting funds for two indispensable organizations, the Community Chest and the Red Cross, has begun. Both must have more hearty support than ever from the citizens of Washington this year if the coming winter does not witness hardships and absolute want among the unfortunate and unemployed. The noble work of the Red Cross is beyond praise. The opportunity it offers every year between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving for subscribers to make their small contributions has become an established custom.

The annual Chest drive is even more a distinctly imperative demand upon the Capital to look after its own. Hundreds of solicitors have been enrolled as volunteers to canvass the city and secure pledges for contributions. They are not only contributors themselves, but they give time and energy in addition that the help of others may be obtained with a minimum of inconvenience. This army of workers for the Chest are doing double duty and they should be assisted in every way by those whom they are attempting to assist. The organization of the city's charitable finances upon a practical and equitable basis has been a great boon both to contributors and beneficiaries.

Before the Community Chest plan was adopted in the Capital there was scarcely a week in the year that merchants and residents alike were not importuned to assist one form of charity or another. There was no way in which the average citizen could gauge a fair division of such help as he was able to give, and unfair discrimination was the inevitable result. With systematic organization and expert consideration of the comparative needs of different institutions and good causes, impartial and just distribution is assured.

Even with some improvement in the unemployment situation more people must be cared for during the coming winter than last year. Every one with a job or who is able to give must consider well his responsibility to less fortunate humanity and give liberally. As has been repeatedly pointed out, such Federal aid for States and for public works as has been provided can not be considered as other than supplementary. It can not in any way take the place of individual responsibility. Community relief work must continue to be the main dependence for averting privation during the winter months. Existing conditions demand that every resident of Washington consider the local problem of caring for the needy, and make such cash or monthly payments as generosity and income will dictate.

HUNGER MARCHERS.

There is a good deal of apprehension in Washington over the proposed hunger marches scheduled to terminate here coincident with the opening of Congress. Having witnessed the tragedy of the bonus march last summer, Washington has reason to be skeptical of any group that comes here for the purpose of bringing pressure to bear upon Congress. The people of the District are not in a position to extend aid to such uninvited delegations, and unless they come prepared to finance themselves, trouble will certainly develop.

The District Commissioners have appealed to all governors and to the mayors of fourteen principal cities to discourage pilgrimages to Washington. These officials will doubtless inform their citizens of the hardships that may be encountered in a trek to Washington in winter time, and of the futility of traveling to Washington to make their wants known to Congress. But thousands of heedless and reckless persons will ignore such warnings. Washington must be prepared to meet the problems that will be created by these invasions.

The Farmers' National Relief Conference, which is expected to bring 500 farmers here on December 7, probably should not be classed as a hunger march. The farmers wish to work out a legislative program. Presumably they will take care of themselves while here, and return to their homes when their petition has been presented to Congress. The farmers' objectives, as outlined in the agenda for their meeting, are too radical to have any chance of consideration in Congress, but there is no indication that the farmers wish to cause any disturbance.

Other groups that are converging upon Washington afford more cause for alarm. Several weeks ago Communists issued a call for what they term a "mobilization rehearsal for world revolution." They have laid careful plans for a hunger march terminating here on December 4. Radicals are organizing the unemployed in all parts of the country, and caravans from the South, the New England States, the West and Northwest are planned. The only purpose of this expedition is to foment class animosities and provoke riots.

Such groups can not be permitted to remain in Washington. They have a right to come to the National Capital in orderly manner and to present their petitions, but they will be kept under strict surveillance. District officials are aware of the dangers involved in these hostile invasions, and they may be expected to oust any group if disturbances are threatened, if the laws are violated, or if the invaders become a burden upon the public.

It's pretty tough when a defeated Vice President must declare the election of his successor, but Charlie Curtis knows that racing has its ups and downs.

If the wets win beer this winter they may conclude that the lame duck system is not so bad after all.

This is a good opportunity for Senator Borah to co-operate with himself in solving the war debt problem.

If the farmer marchers will bring along enough grub to feed the hunger marchers all will be fine.

When the lame ducks of 1932 look around and see men like Smoot, Watson, Moses and Jones in their midst, they may even achieve something akin to cheerfulness.

The European war debt baby puts in the first squall for new deal milk.

SEVENTEEN SECONDS

From the Utica Observer Dispatch.

Let a day of 24 hours stand as representative of the possible two thousand million years of this planet's history, says Sir James Jeans, British scientist, and man's presence on this globe (estimating his tenure at 400,000 years) represents but seventeen seconds of that cosmic day. And only within 1-80 of the last second has man had any supportable outlook upon the universe at all!

One's first reaction to this amazing disparity between the age of the planet and man's little day is one of dizziness, a vertigo reflected in much of our literature and politics.

At the same time, man has no warrant in taking a hopeless attitude toward his own efforts, especially those of this split second of his own creative evolution. What he has done is not half bad. In this moment of time man has changed the face of his abode, has discovered and used its principal laws, and has invested the whole process with a meaning it never possessed in all the long prehuman hours of that cosmic day.

Or compare the brevity of this background with the long hours ahead e'er the sun cools and the eternal shadow falls. Man is scarcely in his infancy, hardly yet born. Against the possibility of the future, his progress down to date is about that of a baby learning to shake its rattle.

The first feeling of vertigo experienced by the race in the face of these stupefying facts of science is giving way to a new sense of stability and security. Man is turning with new zest to the business of living wholesomely and courageously. He is finding a new meaning in life by giving it a meaning of his own. He is writing down such strange words as peace, truth, knowledge, friendship, brotherhood, justice. He is building on this planet a kind of life his ancestors would not recognize, could they return.

Time, space and matter are impressive as we know them today. But the most impressive thing in the known universe is man himself.

Be Careful, Frank!

POST HASTE

The question of beer has changed from proportions to proximity.

Reports from the Chicago grain pit indicate that old Barley-duc is conspiring to overthrow King Wheat.

Foreign nations are wise in doing their celebrating now of radical lowering of American tariffs.

Campaign customs are one thing, but the customary action of Congress is something else again.

Chairman Farley was so embarrassed by the dead-horse debt of '28 that he is making a post-campaign effort to bury the '32 pony now.

If Secretary Mills isn't careful he will become the G. O. P. residuary legatee by a process of elimination.

The Electoral College next year threatens to be almost as unanimous as it is nebulous.

If Editor Smith wants to spring any more "Old Potato" salutes he must at least provide a new jacket.

Fashion note: Miss Democracy had her face lifted last Tuesday. It will not be surprising if she discards her pantalettes before the inaugural ball.

Rep. O'Connor says his beer bill chose the 2.75 alky content as one that would be "sustained by the Supreme Court as not intoxicating in fact." Just in fancy?

Wise Democrats are praying that Republicans will be numerous enough in Congress to provide a worthy foe and thus avoid Democratic civil warfare.

If the President-elect constructs a Cabinet in 60 days he will demonstrate that he is both carpenter and joiner.

The amount of cheer in the inaugural date varies considerably. Some read it March Fourth; others, March Forth.

The farmers who threaten to storm the Capital should realize that it might be unethical for the President to grab the honor of relieving their woes at this eleventh hour.

Cuba celebrates Senator Smoot's defeat as Senator King promises higher sugar tariffs. Wires crossed in translation.

Movie and radio fans are not the only ones interested in whether a new deal will have a sound effect, or just sound effect. PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST.

MANUFACTURED MISERY.

As if life wasn't hard enough, with all its ups and downs?
And all the cares to fret about, with their attendant frowns,
The curious creature known as man the game of golf designed To add unto his sum of woes and irritate his mind.

'Twas not enough for him to brave the daily round of strife
And run the risk of pain and death which marks the path of life.
This reasoning creature known as man got up a game to play
To madden him and sadden him and early turn him gray.

Not tired enough by bitterness and loss and scorn and hate, Man got it in his head that he must drive a golf ball straight!
To all the heartaches and despair which are the common lot Man had to add the anguish of a half-topped mashie shot.

'Tis only man who laughs, they say,
and man alone improves,
All other creatures live and die in their instinctive grooves.
All other creatures brave what griefs they cannot run from, but Man wants the self-made misery of missing many a putt.

Another Letter From a Baldheaded Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: In the time of our grandmothers, life had nothing to offer the ordinary girl except marriage.

At home she was a liability or a household drudge. She had no car, no radio, no movies. She had little freedom and less spending money, and early marriage offered the only opportunity to escape boredom and thankless servitude.

She married at 16 or 18, for those who waited longer were in danger of being called old maids.

Most of the young married women you know were more sensible. They finished college and taught school for a year or two before "settling down."

But girls still marry in their teens for one reason or another; and no matter how much confidence you may have in your own sanity, a bit of advice will do you no harm.

The advice, in brief, is this: It is no longer necessary for a girl to marry, and she is foolish to do it unless she meets the one man in a thousand.

It is foolish to enter upon any adventure if you have nothing to gain and everything to lose.

I concede that marriage is woman's natural destiny. If it is ideal, it brings her a degree of happiness that nothing else can. But ideal marriages are few.

If the man has demonstrated his ability to earn money and you know he can and will take care of you; if you can't be happy without him or he without you; if he is mentally, morally and physically all that a man should be—then marry him and joy go with you.

But why marry him if he can't earn a living? Poverty isn't fun, and you can't respect a failure or a ne'er-do-well loafer.

Or why marry if you must continue to work for your living? You can have more fun as a self-supporting "bachelor girl" than any woman has with a husband who helps spend her earnings.

Marriage has nothing to offer you unless you get a rare man. Girls who marry ordinary culls invite sorrow. Some are drudges; some are bored; some get jobs to earn their bread; some weep at home while their men make whoopee down town; some endure cruelty; some go quickly from the altar to the operating room.

Don't trade your birthright for a mess of pottage. If marriage doesn't guarantee security and happiness, it usually brings misery, shame and vain regret. Don't gamble on it. Love, DAD.

WHAT IS TO COME?

Press Surmises as to Probable Developments in Politics as a Result of the Election.

No Obstacles.

Christian Science Monitor.

It is not as though the victory of the Democratic party had been a narrow one. Its sweeping nature, its extension to both houses of Congress, as well as to the Presidency, enables the business community to know with some certainty what it has to expect. The Roosevelt policies, so far as he has precisely defined them, might as well be reckoned upon today as after March 4. President Hoover, in filling out the unexpired portion of his term, will put no obstacles in the path of his successor. Like humbler citizens of the republic, he will do all in his power to make the pathway clear and easy for the man into whose hands the voters have transferred the task of leading the way back to prosperity.

Congress Should Cooperate.

Topeka Capital.

The people made a clean sweep and gave the country a responsible Democratic Government. If it does not operate smoothly the trouble will be entirely within the party in control, and no alibis will be available. For this reason every effort will be made by party managers to bring about conformity of Congress with the President as party leader. This encourages the belief that the reckless element represented by Garner and his following will abandon dangerous projects and fall in line with the safer plans of Roosevelt and Smith.

Two Democratic Wings.

Springfield Republican.

The Democratic party, as its critics truly say, has a strong reactionary wing both in the North and the South. Conflict between the reactionary and progressive wings may disrupt it while in power unless the new President develops a unifying leadership rivaling that of President Wilson.

A Democratic Senate.

Boston Transcript.

The Democrats have captured the United States Senate, as powerful as it is unpopular, and it will be the national hope that they will convert it into an efficient working body instead of a debating club. To the keen regret of all New England, New Hampshire has chosen to deflate herself by the defeat of George H. Moses, the most brilliant and virile member of the upper branch. The unspeakable Brookhart is forever silenced in Iowa by a Democrat, and among his companions in oblivion will be such outstanding figures as Smoot, of Utah; Watson, of Indiana; Jones, of Washington, and Bingham, of Connecticut. The gains for antiprohibition, both in the Senate and the House, are noteworthy and suggest the conclusion that direct action may be expected promptly of the Seventy-third Congress. A noteworthy result is that among the Republicans undefeated are two senators of insurgent tinge who were politically shrewd enough to play the Progressive game in the West—Nye, of North Dakota, and Norbeck, of South Dakota. So strongly will the new Senate be in sympathetic relation with President Roooosevelt that it will be inexcusable if it does not function smoothly.

No New Deal Till March 4.

Brooklyn Eagle.

As matters stand business and Federal finance are to have a new deal, but it is not yet known and can not be known for some time how that deal will run. Little can be effected toward fundamental change in the Federal policies before March 4, except in the direction of dealings upon the war debts. President Hoover has an opportunity, now that election is over, to initiate some helpful action in that quarter.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

People Want Sound Government and Not Tinkering — New President Should Be Supported by All.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For the second time since 1912 an abnormal national condition beyond the control of all government has resulted in a Democratic victory at the polls.

The only thing for all of us to do is to put aside whatever misgivings we may have and after March 4 to support the new President 100 per cent whenever we consistently can. We want to see better days, and to the average citizen it does not matter who is President or what party happens to be in power, so long as he is benefited.

We have already passed the crises and unless new ones develop the new party should inherit the political advantage of a substantially improved condition.

Business has no appetite for political tinkering, and prosperity from now on may depend more on what politicians refrain from doing rather than on what they actually do.

This means, among other things, that we want no new bond issues. Excluding war expense, the interest and sinking fund of our present Federal debt amounts to as much as the cost of all the other functions of government, including all the "commissions and bureaus" that we have heard so much about.

We want budgets balanced, but from now on they should be balanced by reducing outgo rather than by increased or new taxes, and until the Congress summons sufficient courage to deal with the question on this basis, the credit of the government will be constantly threatened. One-third of our income is now confiscated by government, and if this percentage is increased there can be no hope of business recovery.

In the campaign just closed there was an unsavory element of sectional and class appeal which, since it is aroused, will now have to be dealt with. Any attempt to do this by a series of sops for this group or that to be paid for by the majority should be stamped out as soon as it is proposed.

We want economy and sound government, but no experimenting for a long time to come. R. E. NEWELL.

Irwin, Pa.

Foreign Nations Building Superior Ocean Liners—United States Lags Behind.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There seems to be a race between France, Germany and Italy in the matter of building big, fast passenger ships. The last of this type of vessel to be launched was the Normandie, which flies the French flag. She is the largest ship afloat, and it is expected that she will surpass all other ships in respect to speed. The Europa, a German vessel, is now the holder of the transatlantic crossing record. The Rex, Italy's most modern vessel, is expected to beat the crossing record held by the Europa as soon as the former's machinery gets into good working order.

This is a fine record for foreign countries, but what about our own merchant marine? It is true that some fine ships are under construction along our Atlantic seaboard, but our merchant marine is lagging behind that of European countries. How can the American people help to build up the American merchant marine? First and foremost, every American citizen who crosses the ocean should make it his duty to patronize the ships that fly the American flag. Too many Americans are patronizing foreign ships.

Just so long as American citizens do their oceanic traveling in foreign ships instead of American ships, the merchant marines of the foreign nations will surpass that of the United States. This means capturing American trade, which in turn means putting American dollars into the upbuilding of these nations, whereas the dollars so spent should be kept in the United States for the purpose of benefiting this country. It should be the patriotic duty of every American citizen when traveling on the seas to use American ships whenever it is possible to do so.

ALFRED SANDBOY.

Hopes Congress Will Restrict Activities of Reds in District of Columbia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I agree with your correspondent who thinks Congress should at once pass local laws restricting the activities of communist agitators, so that in the future Washington may be, as was originally intended, a place where the national lawmakers can "do their work in peace and quiet." If not restrained the reds will from year to year increase their activity in this city, and I do not want to see the day when the District of Columbia will be the chief center in this country of riots resulting from red propaganda. So as to provide for our future peace and quiet, strict regulations to let the reds know where they get off would be a good thing right now. W. T. T.

Arbitrary Age Limit Keeps Men Out of Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have noticed in the last few years a great many articles on the unemployment situation, but have not seen one single comment on one phase of the situation.

Unless the present method of hiring and firing is changed, what is to become of millions now out of work who never will get a job, with hundreds of thousands to follow every year? I refer to the age limit, which is now and has been for a number of years, 35. If I remember correctly, the railroads started this limit for hiring new men and dropping them at 70, which has now been changed to 45 years. What is the solution? HARRY SHAW.

HERNIA.

EVEN those who have the usual information about hernia do not know that the term is general and is applied to any condition in which some internal part slips from its proper place through an opening and into some place where it does not belong.

In certain circumstances a part of the brain gets out of the cranium and is called hernia of the brain. At times a part of a lung will get out of the chest cavity and a hernia of the lung results. But the more frequently occurring and better-known hernias are those of the abdomen. For this there are several reasons. The abdominal organs are rather loosely tied together and they can move around somewhat. The abdominal wall is made up of muscle and sheet tissue, called fascia, rather than bone. In the development of the body it becomes necessary to leave some openings unclosed until the time of birth and some are never entirely closed. And finally gravity works for the formation of hernias in the lower part of the abdomen.

There are some of these congenital holes and weak places in the upper part of the cavity, but hernias rarely occur through these unless it be in circus people who perform upside down. The three well-known locations for hernias are through the navel opening, the inguinal ring and the femoral artery ring. The first of these is open for the blood vessels which carry all the food and air supply up to the time of birth. This ring is, therefore, congenitally weak and remains so always. The other two rings are kept open in part for the passage of vessels which remain there throughout life.

The abdominal wall is made up of muscles and sheets of tough fiber laid down in layers. These muscles run in various directions and they are of differing strenghts and firmness. In the nature of things it is not possible to make the tissues fit snugly around the vessels that pass through these rings. The rings are always weak spots in the wall, but from birth they are weaker in some persons and stronger in others.

The rule to which there are only rare exceptions is that hernias never take place except through rings that were congenitally weak. Given a ring that closed only imperfectly at birth or thereabouts not much physical strain is required to cause some organ, such as a loop of intestine, to push through the poor closing curtain and thus bring about a hernia.

In causation of this deformity congenital conditions constitute, say, 90 per cent, and whooping cough, ordinary bronchitis, vomiting, or muscles strain is responsible for most of the remaining 10 per cent.

Exercises to build up muscles and tissues are enough to cure an occasional hernia. The habitual wearing of a proper truss will cure a few cases. Operation to close the canal and opening with muscles and fascia will cure about 90 per cent of the cases at the first trial and a few more at subsequent trials. Some cases are cured by the injection method.

MINIMUM RESPONSES.

ONE of the strongest features of the Approach-Forcing System of bidding is the manner in which the tone of the bidding is regulated by means of Forcing Opening bids, Forcing Takeouts, Forcing Rebids—all of which show hands of game strength—and the negative no-trump response, designed to keep the feet of partner on the ground and prevent contracting for a number of tricks which may be entirely unattainable. In many respects, the minimum response is the most important bid in Contract because it is the equivalent of a stop loss order to prevent in the Contract world the effort to attain an unreachable game.

England, as well as America, has become converted to the Approach principles of bidding, and the hand below, while presenting no particular problems in the play, aptly illustrates two of the cardinal principles of the system.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ K Q 10 2 ♡ A 8 7 5 ◇ Q 5 ♣ K J 6
♠ A J 9 8 ♡ Q 9 4 ◇ 9 7 2 ♣ 9 5 3	N W E S	♠ 7 6 4 ♡ K 10 6 3 ◇ K 6 3 ♣ Q 10 4
	♠ 5 3 ♡ J 2 ◇ A J 10 8 4 ♣ A 8 7 2

The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1◇(1)	Pass	2♠(2)	Pass
2NT(3)	Pass	3NT(4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A minimum Opening bid. The hand contains no Rebid values of any kind.

2—Slightly better than a Forcing Takeout. The hand contains 3½ honor-tricks plus the Queen of partner's suit, which suggests the strong probability that 4 tricks in diamonds can be won and thus a game at notrump is available, if not at a suit.

3—South applies the brakes. The no-trump response has not increased the contract and North is thus warned against contracting for anything more than game. Of course, a game bid must be reached in view of North's Forcing Takeout.

4—Again the correct bid.

In the play, the hand presents absolutely no problem. The success of the diamond finesse assures South of his game contract with 1 trick to spare.

THE RAILROAD CAFETERIA CAR.

One of the latest benefits of the depression is the introduction of a cafeteria car on an American railroad. The day when a passenger may look at a menu without winding may be at hand.

• • • •

An eastern railroad has equipped a Connecticut commuters' train with a car in which passengers can eat and still have money left when they leave the train.

• • • •

It serves simple foods at low prices and even provides a combination breakfast as cheap as 30 cents. And, believe it or not, no tipping is allowed. Will wonders never cease?

• • • •

This is great news to the railroad traveling public, or what is left of it. The passengers are all hopeful of a day when they won't have to take sniffs of ammonia before looking at a menu and aspirin tablets immediately after paying the check.

• • • •

The dining car as it has existed for years in this country has been one of the toughest features of railroad travel. It has long taken a sturdy soul to look over the prices of a light lunch and still feel financially able to settle without time payments.

• • • •

The reason you find so many crumbs in day coaches is that the bulk of the passengers carry their own sandwiches.

• • • •

One of life's major mysteries has been why the railroad managements continue to wonder about the falling off in travel when the dining car still demands $1.25 for a chicken sandwich, 30 cents for a pot of coffee and never gives a customer a free slice of bread.

The name of the dining car steward is now displayed in most dining cars, but what the public wants to know is the name and address of the fellow who fixes the prices for square meals in transit.

• • • •

There seems to be no reason why a man should have to pay $1.50 or $2 for some roast beef and potatoes merely because he eats it while going around curves.

• • • •

And it is difficult for the average passenger to understand why soup should cost twice what it cost in the average restaurant just because he gets it while going 50 miles an hour to the whistling accompaniment of a nervous engineer.

• • • •

The cafeteria car may be the traveling man's rebellion against the high cost of living between two given points.

• • • •

Even the tourist will turn.

• • • •

Let's have that cafeteria experiment tried on all railroads. It may help restore railroad business by giving the public the impression that they are welcome on all trains. Who can tell?

ALWAYS PUNNING.

Speaking of "The Good Earth," it has been produced as a show in New York and some people think the cast should have included Helen Twelvetrees, Earl Sande and W. C. Fields.

SURE OF ONE THING, ANYHOW.

President Hoover won in Pennsylvania, which goes to show that they think he did as well as anybody else in throwing out the first ball in two world series.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE new Democratic broom will make a clean sweep March 4, of whenever the first Roosevelt Congress convenes, in the national radio control set-up. Senator Ellison D. Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, will probably succeed Senator James Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, as chairman of the interstate commerce committee, the group which has charge of radio in the Senate. If Senator Smith should prefer another committee assignment, then the radio czar of the Senate may be either Senator Pittman, of Nevada, or Senator Dill, of Washington, either of whom, under any conditions, will continue to have considerable prestige in radio matters in the Senate.

Missing from the interstate commerce committee will be Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, who, as much as anyone on the Hill, was responsible for the creation of the Radio Commission and who had much to do with the framing of the radio act of 1927.

Representative Schuyler Otis Bland, of Virginia, Democrat, is in line to head the House merchant marine and radio committee next session, succeeding Representative Ewin L. Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee, author of the Davis equal facilities amendment, defeated in the primaries.

Almost half the members of the House radio committee fell by the wayside on November 8.

THE radio constituency of Henry Field, Republican, of Station KFNF, Shenandoah, Iowa, did not put him over as had been widely forecast. Mr. Field was defeated for the Iowa senatorship by Lewis Murphy, Democrat. Likewise Dr. Frank W. Elliott, Republican, formerly manager of Station WOC, at Davenport, failed to be elected a representative from Iowa.

Also radio was not able to forestall the defeat of Rev. Robert Shuler by William Gibbs McAdoo, in California, and Dr. J. R. Brinkley for Governor of Kansas.

This Shuler-Brinkley development brought with it a sigh of relief from the Federal Radio Commission, as stations operated by both of them were ruled off the air a few months ago. If these men had been elected they might have gone after the scalps of the radio commissioners.

The Princeton-Yale grid contest will be heard over WRC at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon.

The battle between Brown and Columbia, the East's only two undefeated teams, will be described over the N. B. C. WEAF network at 1:45 p. m.

A description of the Notre Dame-Northwestern University meeting will be broadcast from South Bend via WJSV at 2:45 o'clock today.

AWAITING President Hoover upon his return to the White House the middle of next week will be thousands of letters forwarded by Cheerio. The letters were received by Cheerio following the tribute to President Hoover in his program on Wednesday morning.

A special half-hour program of dance music from Hawaii will be transmitted over WJSV from 12:30 to 1 a. m. Johnny Noble's Royal Hawaiian Orchestra, a native group under the direction of Joseph Kamakau; Luika Pohina, soloist, and Ray Kinney, Hawaiian crooner, will be featured.

Ernest Schelling will conduct the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra in a program designed to illustrate the string section of the symphony orchestra during the first of a series of twelve children's and young people's concerts (WJSV, 11 a. m. and 12:30 p. m.).

Following is the complete program: "Concerto Grosso in D Major" (Handel); adagio from "Toccata in C Major" (Bach-Siloti), scherzo from "Symphony No. 4" (Tschaikowsky), "The Hundred Pipers" (Scottish folk song), "Two Waltzes" (Dvorak) and finale from "Serenade for Strings" (Tschaikowsky).

It's a Hoosier meeting three times a week when Singin' Sam performs on the air. Emil Seidel, his pianist, for a long time led a theater orchestra in Indianapolis, and Perry Botkin, who strums the guitar, is Sam's fellow-townsman.

THE regular trek of radio entertainers to the Capital for the winter entertainment season is on. The Funnyboners have come and gone. George Burns and Gracie Allen are holding forth at the Earle Theater this week. Next week Will Osborne, who was one of Rudy Vallee's most serious rivals a year or two ago, will hold forth at Loew's Fox Theater, along with Reis and Dunn, the Wandering Minstrels. The latter will wander into the District of Columbia in time to appear at the WJSV studios a week from tomorrow for a program at 12:30 p. m.

Dr. Julius Curtius, former German minister of foreign affairs, will be the speaker on WJSV at 10:15 o'clock tonight. His subject will be "An Interpretation of the German Elections."

STATION WJSV is getting results from its phrase "Across the Potomac From Washington." Dewalt (Jess) Willard had scarcely left the studio the other night, after giving the station identification, when the telephone rang. The call was from a tourist, who had apparently played truant from school when the geography lessons were scheduled.

"I've been driving to Washington all day," the tourist said, "and I have finally arrived in Alexandria. But I never heard of Alexandria, and I was just about to camp for the night in disgust, when I heard you say that Alexandria is just across the Potomac from Washington. Thanks for the information. I'm driving right over."

BUY AT HOME GROUP AND WOMEN LUNCH

Colpoys and Street Address Meeting, Latter Asking for Aid to Chest.

Members of the "Buy in Washington" Council held a joint luncheon yesterday with members of the Women's City Club at the latter's clubhouse, 736 Jackson place northwest.

Dean Grace Hays Riley, treasurer of the women's club and dean of the Washington College of Law, presided over the first part of the meeting. E. J. Murphy, former president of the Washington Board of Trade and chairman of the "Buy in Washington" Council, also presided and introduced the speakers.

Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the Washington Board of Trade, complimented the two groups on the joint meeting and outlined the work of his organization in bringing business to Washington merchants that formerly went outside the city.

John Colpoys and Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, were among the others who spoke briefly. The latter appealed to the members of the two organizations to aid in the Community Chest drive to raise $2,400,000.

Mrs. Gladys Middlemiss and Mrs. William W. Spaid, prominent directors of the Women's City Club, were introduced. Edwin C. Steffe, Atwater Kent audition winner in the District of Columbia finals in 1931, gave two vocal renditions.

Cardinal Hayes Replies To Suit for $500,000

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Raymond J. Norman, who once operated a mission on the East Side, filed a $500,000 damage suit today against Cardinal Hayes and seven others. His allegation contained the assertion he was arrested three times and sent to the county penitentiary "for spite and for the purpose of religious persecution."

On behalf of Cardinal Hayes, his attorney, George J. Gillespie said: "Cardinal Hayes was not a party to any action against Norman in any shape or form. Allegations are made in the suit about which the cardinal knows nothing. In fact he never even heard of the man until the suit was filed."

Pope and Movie Actor Heirs in Reporter's Will

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI is among the beneficiaries named in the will of Mrs. Marie L. Weldon, art reporter of the New York Times, which was filed today. Another beneficiary is Edward Robinson, the motion picture actor.

Mrs. Weldon, who died October 28, was the sole heir to the estate of Prince Holm, a Danish explorer, whose portraits, emblems and personal property she distributed in her will. The Pope will receive a portrait of the explorer. She left Robinson a string of old Egyptian amber beads.

ROOSEVELT ENJOYS LEADING BIG FIGHTS

issue of "bossism," and his traditionally Republican constituency, linking his name with that of "T. R.," had elected him by a majority of 1,140 votes. "Big Tim" Sullivan, of Tammany Hall, informed of Roosevelt's election, remarked:

"Well, we'd better drop him off the dock. The Roosevelts run true to form. That kid is likely to do for us what the colonel is going to do for the Republican party—split us wide open."

And hardly was Roosevelt's seat warm in the Senate before he kicked over the party traces and led one of the most stubborn revolts in the history of Albany. It was on the selection of a successor to United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, whose term was expiring, and it marked Roosevelt's first skirmish with Tammany Hall.

Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany czar, favored William F. Sheehan for the post. To the Progressives of that era "Blue Eyed Billy" Sheehan represented the epitome of standpatism, and Roosevelt decided he never could vote for him. The young senator from Dutchess rounded up eighteen assemblymen, who shared his views, and when a caucus was called they went to Alfred E. Smith, then majority leader of the Assembly, for advice.

Smith was a Tammany man, but he told them that if they were really sincere in their opposition to Sheehan they should remain away from the caucus, for if they attended they would be bound by the rule of the majority. From that advice, Roosevelt gained the impression that whatever Smith's views might be he was a "square shooter."

Roosevelt and his little band of insurgents remained away from the caucus, and then began one of the bitterest and longest political struggles ever waged on Capitol Hill. Tammany could not muster sufficient strength to elect Sheehan, and no amount of persuasion, cajolery or threatening would break the Roosevelt ranks.

The lawmakers' nerves were growing ragged. To add to their discomfort a fire swept the Capitol and burned out their quarters, forcing them to meet in the cramped council chambers of City Hall.

Finally, after almost three months of wrangling, the deadlock was broken, with a victory for the Roosevelt forces. "Blue-eyed Billy" Sheehan lost the senatorship to Supreme Court Justice James A. O'Gorman. A few years later the election of United States senators was taken out of the Legislature's hands and placed with the people.

The fight against Sheehan projected Roosevelt into the national picture in his "freshman" year at Albany and instilled in him a desire for public service.

(As a young senator, Roosevelt was so handsome that newspapermen said he could become a matinee idol. But instead, he became Assistant Secretary of the Navy—and the World War broke out. Read what happened during those trying times in tomorrow's installment.)

Dry Agents Raid Elite Club.

San Francisco, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Federal agents "celebrated" repeal of the Wright act, California's prohibition law, here last night by raiding what they described as the "most fashionable and elaborate" night club ever to fall before dry forces in the San Francisco Bay region. The club was called the "Who's Whosis." Ten men were arrested.

Long Stroll in Reverse To End Election Wager

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 11.—Admidst the blare of the Terra Alta Band, Orval G. Saunders, Terra Alta insurance agent, will start walking backwards to Oakland, Md., a distance of 10 miles at 12:30 Monday afternoon. When he backs into Oakland, if he makes it, the Oakland Bank will toot him a noisy welcome.

The whole backward business is the result of an election bet Saunders made with Benjamin Feld, Terra Alta merchant, who agreed to make a similar stroll should Hoover have been reelected. Final plans for fulfillment of the bet were completed today.

300 Atlanta Prisoners To Move to Lewisburg

(Associated Press.)

Three hundred Federal prisoners from the Atlanta Penitentiary will be transferred in the the near future to the new Northeastern Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

The Department of Justice said the first batch of 35 probably would get under way immediately. A first draft of 100 men has been made up, officials said, but it probably will be moved in smaller units. Plans of the department also call for transfer of 100 men from Leavenworth to the new institution. This prison, opened yesterday, has a total capacity of 1,450 prisoners, but is expected to house normally 1,200 men.

Nathan Adams, Dallas, Quits Home Loan Bank

(Associated Press.)

Nathan Adams, of Dallas, Tex., has resigned as a director of the Home Loan Bank system. He left for Texas Thursday night.

It was said at the Commerce Department that an official statement would probably be made from the White House upon President Hoover's return, as Adams' resignation had been tendered to the President, but as yet was unaccepted. It was also explained that Mr. Adams offered his services to the bank system with the provision that he be relieved of his duties after 90 days. He is president of the First National Bank, of Dallas.

FAST DRIVING LIKED BY MRS. ROOSEVELT

hours sleep and apparently does not know the meaning of the word "fatigue."

On a recent trip out into the State and up into New England, she got up one morning at 5:45, put in the forenoon on a train between Binghamton and Albany, and the afternoon on another train between Albany and Boston, spent the evening with her husband's secretary, whose mother had died that day, arrived at her hotel after 11, gave an interview, posed for photographs, ate her dinner, sent off a dozen telegrams, talked on the telephone with the governor in Albany, and finally got to bed well after 1 a. m.

She is never hurried, apparently never harassed, and is seldom, her secretary says, even slightly irritable.

"She doesn't ever really get cross," the secretary, Miss Malvina Thompson, who has been with her ten years, said. "The only thing I notice is that sometimes, if she's bothered about something, she gets sort of remote. But she always has time to listen to people."

For a woman in her position Mrs. Roosevelt lives a truly Spartan life. Money spent on herself she seems to regard as wasted. She has only one $10 dress, to be sure, but none of her others cost anywhere nearly so much as anyone would expect.

Likes All Sorts of People.

Unless she is taking someone to lunch—and she likes to take people to lunch—she may very often be found eating her lunch at a drug-store soda fountain. When she goes traveling alone, she simply takes a lower berth. And all this is true despite the fact that she really spends a good deal of money and holds salaried jobs because she needs more than her private income.

"I don't know where it goes, exactly," she says with an amused expression in her eyes, "but I know I have a lot of fun doing things with money."

She likes people, all sorts of people, and loves to have them around. She has intimate friends among people of all ages and all circumstances in life.

Substantial Teas Served.

Every afternoon in the executive mansion at Albany, at Hyde Park, or at the Roosevelt town house in New York, wherever she happens to be, tea is served, a good substantial tea, usually with chocolate cake. Whoever is about is invited in—secretaries, members of the family, newspapermen, personal friends, State troopers, distinguished guests.

She likes to do things for herself. She built a cottage near the furniture factory at Hyde Park in order that the children might learn to live without servants.

Refused Chicago Escort.

"The little boys," she says, "used to fight Sunday mornings over who was going to make the cocoa."

She hates being fussed over.

During her recent visit in Chicago two detectives were sent to escort her from the Congress Hotel to the Stevens, where she was to join the governor at a dinner.

Over the transom from the Roosevelt suite the somewhat puzzled detectives heard a gentle, beautifuly modulated voice say:

"Please send them away. I don't want them."

They went. There really didn't seem to be anything else to do.

MUSHROOM SOUP
(Awarded Book Prize)

All of the directions I could ever find for making cream of mushroom soup were so complicated that I invented a recipe. Here it is, for four good sized portions. All of the ingredients can be bought at the Piggly Wiggly Stores.

Cream of Mushroom Soup.
½ lb. mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
4 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter in a double boiler, stir in flour until smooth. Then add milk, slowly, stirring out the lumps, as if you were making a cream sauce. Peel mushrooms and cut in small pieces. Use the stems as well. Put these in a fryingpan with a piece of butter and cook for about 5 minutes, or until the mushrooms are dark colored and soft. Turn the contents of the frying pan into the double boiler, season, and cook for 30 minutes. If this isn't the best soup you ever ate, I'll eat my hat.

SUPPER ROLLS.
(Honorable Mention.)

2 cups of boiling water
½ cup of sugar
5 tablespoons of crisco
2 teaspoons of salt
2 cakes of yeast (Fleishman's)
4 tablespoons of lukewarm water
3 eggs
7 cups of flour (Washington)

Mix boiling water, sugar, salt and crisco. Let stand until lukewarm. Crumble the yeast in the 4 tablespoons of lukewarm water; add this to the above mixture. Beat the eggs very light, add them, then add 4 cups of the flour and beat for 5 minutes. Add the rest of the flour, knead well; it may take more flour; it must not stick to the hands. Set aside to raise, to double its bulk. Then either roll and cut out with a cooky cutter or make into rolls and put in well-criscoed pans to raise to double their bulk. Bake 15 to 20 minutes. All the above ingredients were bought at the Sanitary Grocery Store.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Oysters of High Grade and Delicious Southern Lobsters Now Favor the Market; Rockfish Plentiful; Brazil Nuts Coming In; Persimmons Recommended

Oysters of superior grade have come in with the chill of early November, the fish marketers report. Plump, white selects cost from 50 to 60 cents a quart in one stand the Meanderer frequents, while the next best grade of oysters, known as standards, are 40 cents a quart. The careful development of oyster cultivation industry in nearby waters has guaranteed an unsupassed quality of product for local consumption.

Now it is possible to buy lobster for 25 cents a pound. The lobsters at this new low price are known as Southern lobsters, which differ from Northern lobsters in that they have no claws. The meat of both kinds is the same in texture and taste. Northern lobsters cost 50 cents a pound. This disparity in price is due to the fact that the Southern lobster selling has not developed to the extent as has that of the Northern areas. These colorful, delicious lobsters weigh from 1½ pounds to 2 pounds each.

Rockfish is the "kingfish" from nearby waters. They are brought to the Washington fish wharf from the lower Potomac. The low price of 15 cents a pound for rockfish and its minimum of bone makes it a well-recommended buy in the fish shop. Spanish mackerel and salmon steak, both plentiful, are also popular choices.

Wine-flavored gelatines for making holiday desserts with a special tang are in plentiful supply for 20 cents a package in a fancy goods shop of one large department store frequented by the Meanderer. One may select from port, sherry or Madeira wine gelatine.

Pineapple, canned deliciously in a Honolulu factory soon after it has been taken from Hawaiian fields, is selling two cans for 29 cents in a chain store well known for its savings offered the food purchaser. Another pineapple value in the same store is unsweetened pineapple juice at 10 cents a can.

Two-pound packages of dates for only 25 cents are interesting at this season of the year with fruit cakes and puddings and holiday candies on the cook's calendar. These low-priced dates the Meanderer found in the chain store on downtown Thirteenth street, where the above pineapple values are shown.

When the woman who wants variety for her table indulges in Japanese persimmons grown in California, so tempting in their flaming orange color, she must be sure the fruit is soft before serving them to the family or friends. If they are firm when bought they will soften if placed in a cool, dry place. These large, delicious persimmons now brightening so many fruit stands, may be used in place of fresh fruit in salads, ice creams and desserts. The Meanderer can tell any of her readers where they may get persimmon recipes if they will call The Washington Post, National 4205, extension 52. Persimmon marmalade, combining orange juice with persimmons, is simply made and delightfully different.

New Brazil nuts, just coming into Washington markets, have the interesting new low price of 17 cents a pound in one chain store. The fresh crop of walnuts and pecans is marked 29 cents a pound, while almonds are priced 25 cents a pound.

Dried fruits are much cheaper this fall than they were last fall, according to the manager of the above mentioned chain store. One new and appealing package of dried fruit contains four kinds of fruits—prunes, peaches, apricots and pears. The package weighs 1½ pounds net and costs 25 cents.

Those who like to buy apples by the bushel should know that they cost from 75 cents to $2 a bushel in a certain stand in southwest Washington. In the variety offered are Winesaps, Black Twigs, Grimes Golden, York Imperials, Rome Beauties, Delicious, Golden Delicious and Winter Bananas. The apple crop is short this year but prices are not higher than prices of last November.

A paste made of a famous brand of ham and spices is useful for school lunches or for quick sandwich suppers. Another use for the ham is the addition of a spoonful of the paste to an omelet. In the corner of the chain store where the Meanderer found this ham was a Welsh rarebit paste easily thinned to proper consistency, thereby simplifying greatly the difficult task of making good Welsh rarebit. Another tasty item in this same shop is a quart of mixed pickles, bottled after a special cooking process, costing only 25 cents.

TIMELY TESTED RECIPES.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Beef Broiled on Toast.

1 pound ground raw beef
8 slices bread
Butter
Salt and pepper to taste

Toast the bread on one side. Butter the untoasted side, spread to the edge with a layer of the ground beef, dot with the butter, and broil under a flame for about five minutes. Season with salt and pepper and serve at once with garnish of parsley or pickles.

Beef and Ham Gumbo.

1 pound beef, diced
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 onion, sliced
1 green pepper, chopped fine
½ cup chopped celery
1 pint water
1 quart tomatoes, fresh or canned
1 quart okra, cut crosswise
Bay leaf or celery seed, if desired
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook the ham and beef until browned in a large heavy skillet. Add the parsley, onion, green pepper and celery, and cook for a few minutes. Add the water and tomatoes, cover and simmer until the meat is almost tender. Then add the okra. Season to taste and simmer uncovered until the okra is tender and the stew has thickened. Serve the gumbo in a rice ring made as follows:

Rice Ring.

1 cup rice
4 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 dashes tabasco sauce

Wash the rice well and sprinkle it into the rapidly boiling salted water. Cook for about twenty minutes, or until the rice is tender and the water absorbed. Add the seasonings, put the rice into a well-greased ring mold and pat it down. Reheat in the oven, turn onto a round platter, fill the center with the gumbo and serve at once.

Curried Fowl With Carrots.

Salt
2 tablespoons fat
½ cup sliced onion
1 quart water
Flour
¼ teaspoon curry powder
2 cups shredded carrots, cooked.

Disjoint the fowl, salt and flour the pieces, brown in the fat, and transfer to a kettle. Cook the onion for a few minutes in the remaining fat, pour in the water, and add to the chicken. Simmer until the fowl is tender, and drain off and measure the liquid. For each cup of liquid, blend 1 tablespoon of flour with 2 tablespoons of chicken fat, stir into the broth, cook until thickened, add the curry, chicken and cooked carrots, heat through and serve with flaky boiled rice. If desired, serve grated fresh coconut to sprinkle over the curried chicken.

Fricasseed Chicken With Dumplings.

Cut a fowl into pieces for serving, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour and brown in hot fat. Transfer to a kettle, add enough water to cover and simmer until tender. Remove the chicken and keep hot. Blend 2 to 3 tablespoons flour with a little cold water, add some of the chicken broth, combine with the rest and stir until thickened. Add more salt when needed. Serve on a hot platter with the dumplings.

Spice Cake.

¾ cup butter or other fat
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
3 cups sifted soft-wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
¾ cup strong coffee infusion
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the fat and sugar together and add the well-beaten egg yolks. Sift together the dry ingredients and add alternately with the coffee to the first mixture. Add the vanilla and fold in the well-beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased tube pan for one hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Ice with vanilla frosting.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

KETCHUP CAME FROM CHINA.

I LOOKED at a simple, unassuming bottle of ketchup the other morning, and realized that in that bottle we had something like the perfect blending of Far Eastern and Western tastes. Tomato ketchup, as we know it, is certainly of the Western Hemisphere. But the use of ketchup as a condiment comes to us from the Orient. The word ketchup is from the Amoy-Chinese word Koechiap, or Kitsiap, meaning the brine of pickled fish or shellfish.

In England, ketchup is a sauce with the juice of edible fungi as its base, a cause made with mushroom juice, for instance. But in America the word ketchup means a tomato sauce—a perfectly combined, spicy condiment or food, as red as a flaming snapdragon with the delightful consistency of heavy cream.

More and more, ketchup is coming into its own in cookery. There's a good reason why.

Ketchup blends easily with other foods—with meats and with vegetables. The spices in ketchup are already combined. There is no waste of time while you cook the spices a couple of hours to extract the flavor from them. That has all been done for us by the ketchup makers.

Here are two recipes using ketchup with the best of results:

The First Is Swiss Steak.

2 to 2½ pounds round or chuck steak
Flour, salt, pepper
1 cup ketchup
1 small onion
1½ cups water

Have the steak cut about 1½ inches thick. Pound into it as much flour as it will take, and season with salt and pepper. Try out a little of the fat in a frying pan or heavy kettle and brown the meat well on both sides. Add the water, cover the pan, and simmer for an hour. Add the ketchup and chopped onion and continue cooking for another hour or until the meat is tender. The recipe serves four or five persons.

The Second Is Corn Rabbit.

1 No. 2 can corn
1 cup ketchup
½ pound American cheese
Salt, pepper.

Heat the corn and ketchup in a double boiler. Add the cheese which has been grated or cut in small pieces and stir until the cheese is melted. Season with salt and pepper. Serve on toast or crackers. This recipe serves 4 or 5 persons.

PARADE FEATURES COUNTY OBSERVANCE

Armistice Celebration in Arlington Is Sponsored by Legion Post.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Several hundred citizens turned out yesterday to attend the annual Armistice Day celebration sponsored by Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, in cooperation with Clarendon business men.

The exercises opened at 1:30 o'clock with a drill by the cadet corps of the Washington-Lee High School in the square at Clarendon.

Following the drill, the cadets from Washington-Lee, Alexandria, and the girls' auxiliary marched to the courthouse, where a parade formed, headed by the drum and bugle corps and the cadet band. Leaving the courthouse the line of march covered all sections of the county ending at the high school.

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Arlington County won the prize cup for having the most attractive float in the parade.

The evening program opened with an address of welcome by Chairman Harry A. Fellows. Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of Washington, also spoke.

The program included fancy dances by Jane and Louise Carl, Teresa Childs, Robert Mahorney, a specialty number by Nancy Lee Halsted, Patty Coleman and Miriam McGrath, and a concert by the Washington Gas Light Co. Band, followed by dancing in Odd Fellows Hall until midnight. Original plans for a street dance were nullified by rain.

Officials to Go on Horseback Over Southern End of Skyline Drive.

Luray, Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A horseback inspection of the southern end of Skyline drive in the proposed Shenandoah National Park area probably will be made tomorrow by Federal, State and local officials.

The route to be inspected is between Swift Run Gap, at Elkton, on the Spottswood trail, and Afton, on Jefferson highway, near Waynesboro, a distance of 30 miles.

Another section, between Panorama and Front Royal, was inspected early this month.

After meeting in Luray the officials will go by automobile to Swift Run Gap, where they will begin their horseback ride over high peaks and boulders and through forests to the Jefferson highway at Afton.

On the trip will be Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads; Horace Albright, director of the National Park Service; Arno Cammerer, associate director; W. E. Carson, chairman of the State Commission on Conservation and Development; H. K. Bishop, chief division of construction; Dr. L. I. Hewes, deputy chief engineer; W. M. Austin, resident engineer, and G. Freeman Pollock, of Skyland.

The trip will be a preliminary survey for a road which has not yet been located and for which funds have not yet been allocated.

Veteran Gravely Ill; 'Conqueror' of 'T. R.'

IN THE CINEMA HOUSES

LOEW'S FOX

"HOT SATURDAY." Paramount picturization of the novel by Harvey Ferguson, adapted to the screen by Josephine Lovett and Joseph Moncure March, featuring Nancy Carroll, Cary Grant, Edward Woods, William Collier, sr., and Lillian Bond. Directed by William Seiter. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Despite its title, this mildly interesting screen play, cut from the "flaming youth" pattern, never gets more than luke warm. The gold-plated young gentleman whom we expect to turn out a complete rotter, deveops into the play's nearest approach to a hero; the ostensible hero deteriorates into the merest cad and even the mother of the fable's heroine joins the band of militant gossips whose major pastime becomes the deliberate and systematic defamation of her innocent daughter's character.

There is about the whole ill-judged recital a falsity, an irritating assumption that pleasure is to be gotten out of slander, and a succession of events that would be spurious even in the least compassionate of our small towns, that deprive the loosely knit story of anything that might in an unguarded moment be mistaken for an honest quality of conviction.

If the counterfeit premise upon which the tale is based can be skipped over lightly and only the surface gloss considered, "Hot Saturday," with its gay parties, juvenile rivalries and facile humors, grows a trifle warmer and may even seduce unwary senses into a fleeting jealousy of Romer Sheffield's big cars, inviting lodge and high-voltage cocktail parties. And besides that, he finally marries the girl.

Cary Grant, in the role of the ingratiating Mr. Sheffield, strengthens an earlier notion that he is quite a lad in the matter of looks, the ability to appear comfortable and well in his clothes and the ability to deliver a believable performance without permitting the mechanics of his acting to show through. There are numerous others in the cast who likewise acquit themselves with something more than average credit, among them William Collier, sr., of course, Lillian Bond, Edward Woods, Randolph Scott and Rita La Roy.

Nancy Carroll, who impersonates the pivotal character in the play, Ruth Brock, the engaging young stenographer in the bank, who gets herself talked about by everybody in her set who doesn't do quite so well socially, I regret to say, impressed this unreasonable observer as the least able member of the cast. Her work, to me, was consistently labored, artificial and devoid of any feeling beyond that which might be expected of any juvenile elocutionist at Friday afternoon exercises. Her occasional display of ah, er, um, shall we say legs? In any but a "Vanities" week no doubt would prove interesting, if not positively exciting!

Of the numerous group contributing to the stage portion of the entertainment, William Demarest—who acts also as a sort of perambulant and elusive master of ceremonies—is by far the most amusing and Alex Hyde and his Musical Charmers easily the most melodiously diverting. Mr. Demarest is a prize clown whose work is interspersed with some excellent musicianship and vastly aided by a versatile Mlle. Colette, who reveals considerable precocity on the fiddle. Mr. Hyde's ladies' orchestra is rather better than one expects it to be and presents a charming vocalist in Ruth Burns.

Emile Boreo's sibilant songs and loose japery have never left me otherwise than cold, despite the fact that it was he who created the "March of the Wooden Soldiers," a brief flash of which is still the best thing he does. Harland Dixon, veteran dancer, assisted by Peggy Cornell, awakens marked audience enthusiasm with some clever routines and Tiebor's Seals complete the stage diversion.

A brief newsreel and Armistice Day medley overture are the only auxiliaries.

COLUMBIA

"THE CRUSADER." Majestic Pictures filmization of Wilson Collison's play, adapted for the screen by Edward T. Lowe, featuring Evelyn Brent, H. B. Warner, Lew Cody, Walter Byron, Marceline Day and Ned Sparks. Directed by Frank Strayer. Reviewed Friday evening by Dorothea Lewis.

Long-winded and slow-winded, this crusade that starts off as a triple threat, with considerable promise, bumps smack into an obnoxious character and a murder (unfortunately not a murder of the obnoxious character), pretty soon after it starts and from that moment steadily fades away into a routine, hackneyed story.

District Attorney Brandon, out to get vice in his city.

Eddie Crane, reporter, out to get Brandon for the sake of a by-line.

The first two crusades are soon forgotten; the third goes irritatingly along from the moment the D. A.'s sister becomes involved in a murder and the D. A.'s wife and the D. A.'s wife's former sweetheart tumble over each other trying to shield everybody else. Eventually the old, mean reporter tells all, only to find that the D. A. knew all all the time (though he doesn't act like it).

Evelyn Brent is, surprisingly enough, an amiable person this time, a gal with a heart of gold, though, just to make her feel natural, with a trifle dingy past. H. B. Warner is his usual delightful, satisfactory, harassed self, and Lew Cody is disarmingly sincere and natural. Arthur Hoyt is amusing in a bit, and a bit of amusement is welcome.

And now for the obnoxious character.

We've seen maudlin reporters and star reporters, we've seen hard-boiled cubs and sentimental aces, sob sisters and columnists, all doing and dying for dear old tabloid. But we've never seen a reporter just like that played by Mr. Ned Sparks, who always wears the same suit, face and voice. We hope we never do again; in fact, we're going militantly crusading against the cinema's quaint ideas of reporters if we do. He not only orders his editor about, but he is allowed to crowd three tried, true and trying veterans almost completely out of the picture and have the whole business to his uncouth, undeserving self. And all he gets in return is the remark that he is a disgrace to American newspaperdom and all the scoops and beats within miles.

A travelogue of entrancing German scenes, a stupid comedy affected by the "Frankenstein" influence, and a newsreel full of names—Roosevelt, Mussolini and Chevalier—complete the bill.

Alexandria Store Robbed.

T. P. Morgan, manager of the Neil O'Neil Shoe Store, reported to the Alexandria police yesterday that some time during the night the store was broken into by burglars, who got $76 from the safe and two pairs of shoes valued at $8.

RKO-KEITH'S

"MAN AGAINST WOMAN." Columbia picturization of a story by Keene Thompson, featuring Jack Holt, Lillian Miles, Walter Connolly and Gavin Gordon. Directed by Irving Cummings. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

The law of averages still works! It has been a sure shot that if the film makers kept Jack Holt on the screen long enough, he would some time get his gal. Although this opus is billed as "Man Against Woman," it is really man against man, with the woman in the case finally being taken under Mr. Holt's protecting wing. And if you think that last is not potently protective, you should just see that mighty right of his—when he socks, they stay socked!

To get to the story: it revolves around a copper madly in love with Lola, a cabaret torch singer. In his tracking down the real perpetrators of a bank robbery, he picks off Lola's boy friend, George Perry. To save his skin, George ships to Bermuda to act as field operative for a gang of rum runners. But McCloud trails him there and brings him back to the big town, thereby regaining his position on the force which his infatuation for Lola had lost for him.

Outside of Mr. Holt's finally winning the girl—which in itself is a feat of no mean proportions—there is woven through the narrative more double crossings than you could shake the proverbial stick at. In fact, should one seek a text for "Man Against Woman" it would be "set a thief to catch a thief."

But it is a typical Jack Holt picture, and, after all, what more need be said for a complete critique? In the unraveling of the plot, Mr. Holt is ably assisted by Lillian Miles, as Lola; Walter Connolly, as the oily big shot of the liquor runners, and Gavin Gordon, as novitiate in the gang. The other characters all contribute creditable performances to the somewhat unusual Holt opus.

Edgar Kennedy and Florence Luke are seen in another of their domestic squabbles, this one, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," dealing with the vicissitudes of existance in a one-room-and-bath apartment. Reinald Werrenrath, assisted by a male chorus, regales with a group of Cornell songs in an issue of "The Spirit of the Campus" series. A "Popeh the Pup" cartoon, "The Crowd Snores," and a release of the Pathe News round out the bill.

"BREACH OF PROMISE." Universal picturization of the Rupert Hughes story, "Obscurity," featuring Chester Morris and Mae Clarke, with Mary Doran and others. Directed by Paul L. Stein. Reviewed Friday evening by J. F. Brady.

A new treatment of a story of why girls leave home, earmarked with the colorful characteristics of a racy sex picture that doesn't quite come off, makes of "Breach of Promise" a film which proves interesting, and, through the capable handling of a delicate situation, worth while.

Although somewhat slow in getting started, it moves smoothly and quickly through varied scenes working up to a surprising climax, once it gets going.

The principal characterizations of Jimmie Pomeroy (Chester Morris) and the girl who left home, Hattie Pugmire (Mae Clarke) are convincingly put over; the brutality of the man in Hattie's home (not sufficiently identified either as father or master), was truly realistic.

Catonsville was a little country town, like many others, in which once lived a girl and a boy, who both wended their way to the big city. The boy made good as a promising lawyer and a contestant for high official position; the girl returned as a conqueror of men's hearts and money, through the questionable device of "Breach of Promise."

It was at the time the girl, Minnie Applegate, and the boy, Jim Pomeroy, returned for a rest on the old farm, that poor Hattie, the drudge, visited her friend Minnie at the hotel. Easily convinced that she was beautiful and could make her way by a dubious appeal, the beginning of a dramatic chapter in her life was born.

Later, driven from home after a lashing by the brute master, Hattie is discovered in Jim's home. The girl who had sought help, the man who had given it, and misunderstood circumstances, occasion some highly dramatic moments.

The scheme of blackmail against the man she loved suggested in the early part of the story troubled Hattie's conscience and then came repentance.

In this climacteric development we are treated to a fine demonstration of a confession of perjury on a group of men seeking political office, the breaking down of hatred and a lenient judge passing sentence on this misguided girl.

Here we have a story exercising only such doubtful elements of appeal as are necessary to carry over the desired point. It is very cleverly handled.

Supporting the feature picture is an interesting newsreel; a travelogue, "Hollywood, the City of Celluloid," and a fair comedy, "Lights Out."

Maj. Patton Is Speaker On Armistice Program

Maj. George S. Patton, of Fort Myer, was the speaker last night at the Armistice Day observance of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion.

Commander G. Raymond King, of the post, presided. The prescribed ritual of the legion was used in the celebration and a musical program followed. The drum and bugle corps of the legion gave a dance from 10 to 1 o'clock in the armory.

EARLE

"THREE ON A MATCH." First National picturization of a story by Kubec Glasmon and John Bright, adapted to the screen by Lucien Hubbard, featuring Joan Blondell, Ann Dvorak, Bette Davis and Warren William, with Lyle Talbot, Humphrey Bogart, Grant Mitchell, Glenda Farrell, Allen Jenkins, Buster Phelps and numerous others. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

A great amount of dramatic talent was permitted to go to waste in the fashioning of this sordid and slightly fantastic story, builded on something of a "the last shall be first and the first shall be last" motif. The action traces a devious course from the fashionable purlieus of New York's ostentatiously opulent to the squalid hideouts of the lowest and most hunted of the gangsters.

Primarily, of course, the idea of the yarn is predicated upon the war-time superstition that only evil can result from three persons lighting their smokes from a single match. Three old boarding school friends, lunching together after all these years, defy the evil omen, and just look what happened! The wife of the rich lawyer left the transatlantic liner with her small son before it sailed, and became the consort of a racketeer; the tomboy of the trio, whose "finishing school" was the reformatory, became the barrister's second wife, and the stenographer kept right on being a stenographer—which, maybe, was the toughest break of all!

There is a good deal of duplicity, plenty of drinking, a mild traffic in dope and a little dash of kidnaping in the development of the thesis and after it is all over and everything is said and done, what have you? Just a movie.

Not one of the principals, and the roster embraces such recognized favorites as Joan Blondell, Ann Dvorak, Bette Davis and Warren William, but has time and again demonstrated a complete and commanding ability to cope successfully with situations far more exacting than anything this picture is able to impose. Their roles are merely unconvincing symposiums of the dramatic high spots of a melodramatic penny-dreadful that would have gained immeasurably from having had some of its major situations more minutely and painstakingly developed.

The real star of the piece is little Buster Phelps, one of the screen's most precocious fuzzy-headed youngsters who plays the heart interest to a fare-you-well. There is a suggestion of the Lindbergh case here that seems to me one of the picture's major misfortunes.

Ann Dvorak, one of this department's most arrogant enthusiasms, plays with almost too realistic effect the role of Master Buster's mother, a character for which there can be no excuse or extenuation. Joan Blondell and Bette Davis are happily cast in the other two-thirds of the title, but Warren William, as the story's journeyman husband, finds himself called upon to confront what amounts to an empty zero in opportunity. The leading thugs are efficiently personified by Allen Jenkins, Humphrey Bogart, Lyle Talbot and our old friend, Ed Arnold, of the National Theater Players a few seasons removed.

On the stage, George Burns and Gracie Allen, the favorite jesters of vaudeville, radio and the flims—last seen on the screen in "The Big Broadcast"—deliver themselves of another batch of mental aberrations that fortify Miss Burns in her undisputed supremacy as the world's most prodigious dumbbell. With their chatter are combined a bit of singing and some graceful and unexpected dancing, scoring them safely as the bill's preeminent hits.

Next in favor among those introduced by the smartly gowned Miss Maxine Doyle are Nayan Pearce and Jay Velie, in an adroit arrangement of songs, dances and piano selections that lend a note of novelty to an interval of color and charm they have seen fit to designate "Red Rhapsody," and in which they are assisted by Bill Ford.

Eddie Jerome and Billie Ryan, whom you may know either as "Radio's Favorite Sons" or "Those Red-Hot Boys," whichever you think they are, open the bill, and are followed by the Case Brothers and Marie in a tight-wire offering that is as expert as it is brief.

Mr. McNamee's interpretation of the week's news, as caught by the Universal cameraman, and Freddy Clark's Armistice Day overture of war-time airs are the mildly pungent condiments on the menu.

Though dazed when knocked down, the man staggered into his home, but was unable to give any description of the car, other than he believed it was a taxicab.

60-Foot Plunge Into Well Injures Boy Only Slightly

A ladder lowered by his mother and neighbors provided the means of escape to 7-year-old Bobby Curts, who had fallen into a 60-foot well near his home in Lee Heights, Va., yesterday. The plunge into water waist deep did not hurt the youngster except for slight bruises. He had climbed half way up the side when help arrived.

A companion, Jack Bone, was playing with Bobby when he fell into the well. Jack rushed for help. When Bobby's mother reached the well, Bobby was climbing up the side. He scampered up a ladder let down to him.

He is the son of Lieut. and Mrs. M. E. Curts.

LOEW'S PALACE

"THE MASK OF FU MANCHU." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer filmization of the Sax Rohmer story, featuring Boris Karloff, Lewis Stone and Karen Morley, with Myrna Loy, David Torrence, Charles Starrett, Jean Hersholt and Lawrence Grant. Directed by Charles Brabin. Reviewed Friday night by M. A. McKnight.

Dr. Fu Manchu came by that honorary prefix because he was a Ph. D., an LL. D. and an M. D. Couple that much Occidental education with native Oriental cunning and resourcefulness and the result is an arch-villain. Add to these ingredients a strong thirst for power, and you have a malignant fiend.

This cruel, sadistic role is played by Boris Karloff. His long, yellow, sharp finger nails, his leering smile, his snaky, drooping mustache, his biting satire and terrible eyes will undoubtedly cause a great part of the audience to shudder. He is a monster whose warped mind has invented a horrible repertoire of tortures. His victims are the members on an expedition which has sought and found the long-hidden tomb of the once great Asiatic ruler, Ghengis Khan—the greatest power ever to rise in the East.

Now, Dr. Fu Manchu dreams of a great Eastern horde exterminating the Western world. He believes that with the famous Ghengis Khan mask and sword he may be able to impersonate the once overlord of the East—the mighty khan. But the expedition leaders from the London Museum know the terrible consequences of these relics ever getting into the hands of Fu Manchu. How do they prevent his diabolical scheme? Ah! By Anglo-Saxon courage.

That's a good general answer. For a detailed account—if you are interested in this type of picture—see "The Mask of Fu Manchu." Absolutely nothing is left undone to give you an Oriental setting de luxe. And as for horrors! The crocodile pit scene will cause such an impressive spinal chill that you will think an Arctic blast is sweeping through the house.

There are several incredible scenes in this movie. Myrna Loy has lost some of her exotic charm. There is a scientific and too-modern atmosphere woven through the drama that rather detracts from its purpose. Of course, the doctor studied in America and England and knew his electricity and the like. But who can't swallow a big dose of hokum every now and then, when it is quite entertaining and at times quite exciting? Lewis Stone and Jean Hersholt will receive the honors of this mystery thriller. We are becoming too familiar with the fear so often produced by Mr. Karloff.

The Laurel and Hardy comedy, "County Hospital," utilized some ancient situations to win more laughs than the picture deserves. The Mickey Mouse Cartoon, "Touchdown Mickey," was highly amusing and imaginative, as usual. To those people who have often wondered what they do with the pig skin pellet back of the line of scrimmage before some hero is pounced on and nearly smothered, we recommend the instructive Sports Reel, "Blocks and Tackles." Some entertaining news shots by the Metronome News concluded the program.

We almost forgot to add that through the generosity of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Washington, a Community Chest campaign short reel is being shown that will, perhaps, loosen a tear or two and no doubt the strings of your purse. This is a most convincing picture. It is called "The Inner Voice." If you haven't heard that voice recently, this picture will remind you that it is standing by!

LLANGOLLEN CLASSIC WILL BE RUN TODAY

Green Cheese and Barometer Favorites in Whitney Course Steeplechase.

Upperville, Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Barring last-minute scratches fifteen fine steeplechase horses will go postward in the Llangollen National Steeplechase to be run over the famous course of John Hay Whitney tomorrow.

The entrants include some of the best steeplechase horses under silks in the country. They will race 2 miles over one of the stiffest brush courses in America in the feature event on the race program of the Piedmont Hunt Club.

Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Green Cheese, one of the top steeplechasers sporting colors, and Barometer, from the menage of Col. E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm in Kentucky, had the call of the betting fraternity in the early wagering. However, J. Allison Stern's Waverly Stat, that fell when out in front near the finish in the 1930 International Steeplechase at Grassland, was not being overlooked as a likely winner of the richest prize for which brush horses contend in the United States.

The race crowds tonight began gathering at Llangollen, the vast Whitney estate in the Blue Ridge foothills.

Prominent turf and society folk from New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and Louisville were among those here.

The entries included Green Cheese and Star, Mrs. J. H. Whitney; Barometer, E. R. Bradley; Fugitive and Watsonia, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Durant; Berilldon Flash and Gold Cup II, Mrs. Allen Potts; Outlaw and Bandit, Mrs. Plunkett Stewart; Jaunty and Daniel Soot, Mrs. Frank Gould; Huffy, J. D. Atwell; Prowler, Dr. H. R. Owen; Louis d'Orr, Ambrose Clark; Waverly Star, Allison Stern; Lauf Jung, W. P. Wear; Fairy Lore, Noel Laing.

Three other races are on the card, the Piedmont Gold Cup, 3 miles over timber, with twelve entries; the Blue Riband, 2½ miles over brush, with twelve entries, and a race over brush for mules with post entries prevailing.

Prince Georges Margin Of Democrats Is 4,884

The Democrats carried Prince Georges County by 4,884 votes in the election Tuesday, according to the official count of votes made by the board of election supervisors. Gov. Roosevelt received 11,580 ballots to 6,696 for President Hoover. Other presidential ballots were: Socialist, 194; Communist, 55, and Labor, 31.

In the senatorial race these minor parties' vote was Socialist, 98; Communist, 37; Labor, 31. Senator Tydings official count gave him 10,514 to 4,782 for Wallace Williams, his Republican opponent.

In the congressional contest, Stephen Gambrill, incumbent, received 10,978 to 4,528 for A. Kingsley Love, the Republican nominee.

AROUSED to a competitive lather by the desire to make good in its first appearance in Washington under Coach Jack Hagerty, Georgetown University's embattled and revamped 1932 team trots out on the field at Griffith Stadium this afternoon at 2 o'clock to do battle with a team it heartily respects, West Virginia Wesleyan, from the wilds of Buckhannon, W. Va.

With a change here and there in the line-up which prevailed during the Tommy Mills regime, Georgetown today opens a three-game home stand which will cap its ill-starred season. The Hoyas rate an even chance of winning.

Frank Williamson, 205-pound center; Gunnar Anderson, 200-pound tackle, and Nick Lione, scrappy little signal caller, are the trio of comparative newcomers in today's Georgetown line-up. Williamson has never played varsity ball before, and Anderson's appearances have been spasmodic. Lione has been in from time to time, but his work of the last week has given him the call over Donoghue and Kennedy, first and second string quarter backs.

Wesleyan's best game this year was played against Duquesne, which they beat, 7-6. Duquesne had beaten West Virginia, which in turn conquered both Wesleyan and Georgetown. Wesleyan by 14-0 and Georgetown last Saturday by 19-0. Wesleyan has no more Gyp Battles in the back field, but packs a versatile enough quartet in Howell, Hall, Bachtel and Beveridge.

Wilmer Bradley, who has been playing second fiddle on Georgetown's eleven this year to Al Kelly and Charley Parcells, may be seen in a new light today. The shift from the tricky Notre Dame system to the solid thrusts of the "Warner-Hagerty-Little-N. Y. Giants system has increased the value of the line-smashing Bradley.

Badgers, Gophers Meet in Big Ten

Minnesota and Wisconsin Hold Most Attention in Conference.

Chicago, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Football enters the home stretch in the Western Conference tomorrow and, barring surprising upsets, the games will accomplish little more than setting the picture for the climax a week later, when the curtain descends on the 1932 championship race.

The meeting of the big Minnesota and Wisconsin elevens at Madison rather takes the play away from the other contests.

While the Badgers and Gophers are struggling for supremacy in a battle that means everything to them, but perhaps not much to the Big Ten championship, Michigan and Purdue will be in a position to strengthen their positions with victories over Chicago and Iowa, respectively. The Wolverines will tackle "Old Man" Stagg's Maroons at Ann Arbor, but the Chicagoans do not appear to have a chance of upsetting Michigan, now leading the championship race, undefeated and untied.

Indiana and Illinois complete the Big Ten program with a game at Champaign, while Ohio State takes a day off from conference competition to engage in an intersectional battle with Pennsylvania at Columbus.

15,000 Watch Triumph of Colonials

McCarver and Fenlon Hit W. and M. Line for Touchdowns.

pery, treacherous footing to bring into relief the superior weight and drive of George Washington as contrasted with the speed that was the keynote of William and Mary.

The Colonials earned their touchdowns in two sustained drives to the goal line—the first climaxing a 43-yard march that saw Nig McCarver smash through the line for the last 5 yards, and the second goal eventuating from another sustained procession which Johnny Fenlon capped with a plunge through center.

Handicapped by the absence of Charlie Shade, spark plug of the attack all season, and Capt. "Happy" Halligan, brilliant end, William and Mary found another star last night in Walter Worrell, half back, who produced the Indians' lone touchdown in the most spectacular individual effort of the night's play.

Worrell Breaks Away.

With the ball on G. W.'s 35-yard line as a result of an advantage gained by William and Mary in a kicking exchange, the mud-caked Worrell broke through right tackle, danced through the secondary defense, shook off one batch of tacklers, sidestepped another, kept his feet in the gooey going and spun the slime underfoot to complete his run to a touchdown, operating without interference during the last 20 yards of his journey as he flitted like some wraith through the lighting effects.

With Chalko throwing the bullet-like passes that G. W. scouts had been uneasy about, William and Mary flashed briefly, but only briefly, at the start of the game and then the Colonials, gaining their hands on the ball for the first time, never yielded it until they had posted a touchdown with less than five minutes of play transpired.

A poor punt by Lacroix went outside on G. W.'s 43-yard line and then Doose and McCarver teamed in an unstoppable onslaught at the goal. In four smashes they toted the ball to the 9-yard line. Doose added 4 more and McCarver battered center for the touchdown. Baker missed the placement kick.

Fenlon, Kriemelmeyer Team.

Another poor punt by Lacroix in the third quarter traveled only to G. W.'s 45-yard line and the Colonials found another battering team in Johnny Fenlon and Otts Kriemelmeyer. This pair, undeterred by penalties, alternated their battering ram tactics until Fenlon galloped through center for 10 yards to place the ball within 9 yards of the goal.

After offside play had moved the ball to the 5-yard line, Fenlon charged through center like some juggernaut to give the Colonials their second touchdown. Again Baker missed the placement.

The slippery footing in the second half precluded any passing attack and not a single aerial was thrown by either team. W. and M. gained the ball on the Colonials' 40-yard line when Bridges recovered Kriemelmeyer's fumble, but the Indians failed by a foot to make first down on line bucks by Bergin and Young.

Lacroix atoned for his poor kicking at the start by booting a clever punt outside on G. W.'s 3-yard line and when Norton punted back only 35 yards after fumbling the center's pass, W. and M. was placed in position for its touchdown which eventuated immediately on Worrell's dazzling 35-yard gallop. Before the game ended, Fenlon, on two end runs, had advanced 15 and 17 yards respectively but G. W. was forced to yield the ball on the 20-yard line.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

TWO vastly improved football machines will rumble over the turf at the Baltimore Stadium this afternoon when Maryland and Navy meet for their "rubber" tussle of a three-game series. After indifferent early season records both showed great improvement last Saturday, Navy holding Columbia to a 7-6 score and Maryland permitting Vanderbilt to roll up only 13 points.

Although Maryland will put a physically perfect team on the field for one of the few times this season, Navy nevertheless rules a definite favorite to win, but not by any particular margin. The last two meetings between the two teams have both been decided by 6-0 scores, each holding a victory.

Close Games Marked Last Two Meetings.

So closely matched have been the Old Liners and Middies during the past two years that two spectacular plays were needed to produce the two touchdowns scored. In 1930 Bullet Joe Kirn slipped off tackle, barely eluded the Maryland secondaries and ran 65 yards to a touchdown. Last year Shorty Chalmers threw a 40-yard forward pass which dropped in Al Pease's arms near the goal line.

Maryland has the speedier back field, with Widmyer and Poppelman in uniform, but Navy has the class of the backs on the field today in Gordon Chung-Hoon, versatile Hawaiian, who can do things with his legs and feet which few in this region can attain. At times Ben Walkup, his running mate at half back, can duplicate his tricks.

Nelson has a slight edge in passing over Chung-Hoon, but Navy has the ends, Murray and Pray, and the class of the linemen in Kane, right tackle.

Maryland spent an hour and a half on the field at College Park yesterday in the final tuning up. Most of the time was spent in arranging the defense, but some stress was laid on polishing up zone plays, especially a couple of new plays which Coach Byrd has added to the repertory.

Practically the entire Maryland student body will accompany the team, not only for the game, but the showy spectacle of marching midshipmen, and possibly in the hope of a Maryland victory. The team will drive over just before the game.

EASTERN 13-0 VICTOR OVER CENTRAL

Mills and Keegin Are Stars; Victors Clinch Second Honors.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

DRIVING its opponent before it with relentless fury that abated only after the attack had produced two touchdowns and virtually assured the victory, a speedy Eastern eleven swept to a 13-0 triumph over Central yesterday in the final game of the 1932 high school championship series.

The Light Blue made its bid for victory in the first few minutes of play. It sent its ace ball carriers, Joe Mills and Joe Keegin, spinning through the line, bursting pell mell off tackle and skirting the ends at a break-neck pace that left Central stunned and helpless to halt the rampage.

Mills paved the way for the first touchdown, getting off on a 30-yard run to Central's 20-yard line. He added a few more yards at center before Keegin rammed through the line to the 1-yard mark. Keegin went over for the score on the next play and Mills added the extra point with a dropkick.

Mills Intercepts Pass.

Central rallied somewhat following the touchdown and opened up with a passing attack, but the results were negligible, in fact disastrous to Mount Pleasanter's cause. Mills hauled in one of Gibbins' tremendously long heaves on Eastern's 10-yard line and threaded his way through a field, fairly alive with oncoming Central men, back to Central's 47-yard mark.

Keegin took up the burden at the juncture, dashing around the end to the 19-yard mark. Mills completed the journey to the goal line by flipping a short pass to Keegin, who collided with Don Dunlop and fell over the line for the touchdown.

Mills almost got away for another

CADETS BOW TO GONZAGA TEAM, 31-0

Sweeney Intercepts to Run 75 Yards as St. John's Loses.

JOHNNY SWEENEY'S 75-yard run for a touchdown after intercepting a pass in the fourth period featured Gonzaga's 31-0 triumph over St. John's in the annual game between the schools. A large crowd saw the Purple rush and pass its way to its third consecutive victory over its rival.

Fighting with stubborn resistance, the Cadets held Gonzaga to a single touchdown in the first period, and looked equal to the task of overcoming this lead when the teams took the field after the intermission. But Gonzaga's attack did not gain full momentum until the final period, when it sent three ball carriers scurrying over the goal line and placed the game far beyond the reach of the Vermont avenue eleven.

Hurley Passes to Hall.

Ed Hurley's short pass to Dick Hall, who ran the remaining 15 yards to the goal line, resulted in Gonzaga's first touchdown. The slippery condition of the field hindered both teams.

With Hurley throwing passes to Hall and Sweeney, Gonzaga experienced little trouble in penetrating St. John's territory in the latter stages of the fray. Sweeney made several long runs, one for 42 yards on a reverse, in addition to his long run in the last period.

Jordan, Daly and Simone were outstanding for St. John's.

Major Rivals Meet in All Sections

Tennessee-Vanderbilt Game May Decide Dixie Crown.

50,000 to See Yale-Princeton; N. Y. U. Plays Fordham.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—There was not much inclination today to observe any gridiron armistice, especially in such places as Boston, Fort Worth and Los Angeles, and there will be none whatever tomorrow as the main body of football forces collide in the season's outstanding series of "naturals."

Several of the day's major engagements, such as Brown-Columbia at New York, Tennessee-Vanderbilt at Nashville, Colgate-Syracuse at Syracuse, Southern-Oregon at Los Angeles and Pittsburgh-Nebraska at Lincoln, involve sectional and national championship aspirations, as well as rivalries of varying shades, age or intensity.

Brown and Columbia Well Matched.

Brown and Columbia come up to their climax game well matched, each with a record of not being defeated or tied. Colgate has an unblemished goal-line, the only one left, and should preserve against the battered Orange. Tennessee's claims to the Southern Conference title are at stake in the big game with the Commodores. Southern California and Pittsburgh, if they wish to continue their positions as prospective Rose Bowl combatants, must overcome sturdy opposition.

Calculations surrounding them may not be quite so momentous or far-reachcing, but the Notre Dame-Northwestern battle at South Bend, Cornell-Dartmouth duel at Ithaca, fifty-sixth Yale-Princeton classic at Princeton, Fordham-New York University struggle in the Yankee Stadium and forty-first Missouri-Kansas renewal at Columbia all hold forth the prospect of exciting competition.

Irish and Northwestern Out of Title Picture.

It's a trifle strange to find some of these aggregations out of the championship picture, particularly those two recent rivals for national title honors, Notre Dame and Northwestern, but this season has proved nothing can be taken for granted any longer on the gridirons.

That's why the best way of picking this week's winners is to do it with mirrors or out of a hat. Except for Colgate, Pittsburgh and Southern California, there isn't an outstanding favorite in tomorrow's major list.

Two of the Eastern games which have no title significance whatever probably will attract the biggest crowds. Close to 50,000 likely will see Princeton try to turn the tables on Yale and Fordham battle its old Metropolitan rival, N. Y. U., yet all four of these teams together can show no more than five "major" victories this season.

Tennessee-Vanderbilt Hold Dixie Spotlight.

The South's biggest rivalry, built this year around the individual threats of Beattie Feathers of Tennessee and Dixie Roberts of Vanderbilt, tops an interesting program. Auburn has a score to settle with Florida, which upset the Plainsmen last year, as well as a place to keep at the top of the Southern Conference. Louisana State, looking for trouble under Capt. "Biff" Jones, likely will find it against Centenary's undefeated gentlemen.

Intersectional activity of importance is confined to the midlands in the form of a joint expedition by Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania, victor and vanquished in one of last Saturday's Eastern thrillers. Pitt should beat Nebraska, the Big Six leader, but hardly by as great a margin as last year's 40-0 tally. Ohio State, which has the distinction of being the only team to hold Pitt to as much as a tie score, figures to beat Penn.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN WINS.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Texas Christian University defeated the University of Texas Longhorns today, 14 to 0, to take the lead in the Southwest Football Conference race.

Golf Nobility Gathered at Kenwood

Williams, Shute and Runyon Shoot Subpar in Practice.

Hagen, Burke, Smith, Golden, Macfarlane in Fine Field.

By DAVE HERMAN.

ON the eve of the opening of the $2,500 National Capital open at Kenwood this morning, three sturdy professionals, Paul Runyon, expert from the Metropolis Country Club, White Plains, N. Y.; Denny Shute, of Columbus, Ohio, and Eddie Williams, of Cleveland, roared their challenge to a brilliant field of 170 golfers.

Runyon, a little fellow, who smacks the ball with bullet-like accuracy, had the lowest score made in practice rounds this week—a 68, two below par. Runyon ground out a 34 on each side.

The long-hitting Shute, who has been a prominent contestant in big-money battles for a number of years, toured the layout in 69 strokes, the same total reported by Williams. They were the only three entries in the 54-hole competition who were able to crack par in practice rounds yesterday.

With America's finest shotmakers and money players on hand, including the defending champion, Willie Macfarlane, the Tuckahoe, N. Y., stylist, Washington's most important golf tournament since the 1921 national open at Columbia Country Club, will swing under way fresh and early, with the first threesome to tee off at 8 o'clock. Others will follow from five to ten minute intervals. Twenty-five additional entries flowed into the hands of the Kenwood committee yesterday to swell the list to a total far exceeding all expectations. The 1932 entry list shows 30 more than last season's field, with a larger number of outstanding pros in the line-up.

Eighteen holes will be played to-

WAR GLORY AVOIDS ROUGH RIDING TO WIN PIMLICO FEATURE

Coltiletti Ires Crowd by Fouling

Flees to Safety After Garden Message Is Disqualified.

Golden Way Bumped When Making Bid in Stretch Run.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 11.—Little Danny Meade and War Glory, a son of Man o' War and Annette K., played a game this afternoon called "Catch us if you can." They were successful, too, and thus the Glen Riddle Farm accounted for the twenty-seventh running of the Walden, reduced to a $5,000 added test this year.

There is a possibility that J. E. Widener's Golden Way would have been the winner but for interference by Garden Message, with F. Coltiletti up. Garden Message finished second, but was disqualified for bumping Golden Way when the latter was moving up with a rush during the last sixteenth. The disqualification moved Golden Way to second and Serada, winner of the Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap at Laurel, to third.

Crowd Chases Coltiletti.

Coltiletti had to protected from a hostile crowd on his way back to the jockeys' room. Several persons tried to take punches at the rider. When he reappeared in street clothes he was chased to his car in back of the stands. He sped away unharmed. Rumors of a fight between Jockey Garner and Coltiletti proved unfounded.

Garner, who had the mount on Golden Way, said after the race that Coltiletti grabbed his leg when the horses came together in the stretch. Many horsemen believe that Golden Way was as much at fault in the stretch bumping as Garden Message. The Widener horse bore over on Garden Message soon after the stretch turn. Coltiletti was suspended for the remainder of the meeting and may be barred for life in Maryland.

The largest midweek crowd of the meeting saw the program run on a heavy and drying track. Some 15,000 were on hand.

Leaders Engage In Early Duel.

Starter Milton sent the field away without the starting stalls and War Glory and Garden Message began their battle which was to last most of the mile and a sixteenth trip. This pair ran head and head until the backstretch where Meade managed to get War Glory in front by a length. Both Golden Way and Serada were far back at this stage. At the far turn, Golden Way had found his speed and was coming up on the outside, while War Glory was still holding his lead over Garden Message.

At the turn into the stretch, Golden Way came on with a rush, followed by Serada. Golden Way moved up on even terms with Garden Message and bumped the latter toward the rail. It was when Coltiletti swung his mount out again that the foul was committed.

Meade was riding as if for his life on War Glory and the Man o' War colt went over the line two lengths in front of Garden Message.

War Glory was grouped in the well-played six-horse field and paid a $12.20 mutuel.

Donya Graduates In Opener.

Donya, from the A. C. Bostwick string, graduated from the maiden ranks in her third year by taking the opener. It was one of the worst fields of the Maryland season. The 4-year-old maiden, Lucky China, was second, and Epidawn, which went to the post a 6-5 favorite, third.

The second race was marked by a ten and one-half minute stay at the post with McGonigle, the chief offender. The stewards finally rang the bell on Starter Milton. He got the field away in fair fashion, however. The winner turned up in Tetrarchal, the favorite, with Impeach a fast-moving second a length and one-half away. McGonigle took care of the show. Tetrarchal made every post a winning one, holding a five-length advantage up the back stretch.

Character Wins By Length.

Character, the property of the B. B. Stable, kept up his winning streak under the expert handling of Apprentice Bellizzi. He brought his mount up to take a length verdict from Feudal Lord, which in turn took the place by a nose from Liqueur. Tabaku set the early pace, but Character went to the front entering the stretch and was never threatened.

Frigate Bird delayed the start in the fourth, but once under way, ran a smashing race to beat Happen by four lengths. Storm took the short end of the purse. Frigate Bird was fourth going to the clubhouse turn, but gained the lead in the run up the back stretch to draw away at the finish.

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK.

The $10,000 Riggs Handicap features the closing-day card at this track today and a field of ten has been named overnight for the mile and a half test. Tred Avon, conqueror of Equipoise and other stars this season, is the likely favorite. Mate, Dark Secret and St. Brideaux also will draw heavy play. The track was heavy and holding yesterday and last night's rain did not help it. Held to two winners yesterday. Give Faylin a chance to get you some coal money. BILL.

FIRST RACE—I'm putting REVELATION on top and would not care if the course was muddy. They want to win with this fellow and this looks like the place. Gave a pretty good account of himself the last time out. SIR KENDALL will have to reverse his form a lot to win this. ACCOTINK deserves a chance off that place the other day.

SECOND RACE—BOBBING deserves more than passing notice in this field. Has been working well and racing well. May surprise by taking the big end of this purse. BOLILEE and DAUDET appear best of the others.

THIRD RACE—DENON'S last was impressive though against a little cheaper field than asked to face today. However, I must give him the chance to repeat. MIDSHIPMAN and JUDGE JUDY to battle it out for the place.

FOURTH RACE—FAYLIN may get the track he likes and romp away with this field. Has a winning habit at Pimlico and her races reveal her in shape. MUD may gain place money again. TINGE for the show.

FIFTH RACE—The threat of rain and the present form of DARK SECRET forced me to lean to the son of Flying Ebony in the Riggs. TRED AVON is certainly the one to beat. MATE and ST. BRIDEAUX to fight it out for show.

SIXTH RACE—SOLACE ran so well the other day that he can't be passed up here. PRIZE DAY and GENERAL COURT for the rest.

SEVENTH RACE—The final looks like FERVID, BUTTER BEANS and BANDERLOG from where I sit.

DONYA, steadied within striking distance of the pacemakers, moved up strongly when midway of the turn, sprinted into an easy lead and held sway thereafter. LUCKY CHINA, outpaced for four furlongs, came with good courage in the final stages. EPIDAWN, breaking slowly, entered contention in the final three-sixteenths mile, but tired during the final drive. CHILCEDAIR, RUSH and THE BOURBONIAN raced themselves into submission, alternating in setting the early pace.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:42. Off at 1:52½. Winner, P. B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TETRARCHAL, $5.80, $4.10, $3.10; IMPEACH, $9.70, $5.60; McGONIGLE, $4.20.

TETRARCHAL outran his field to the first turn, was then steered out into the fifteen footing, opened up a winning lead, but had to be urged in the closing furlong to stall off IMPEACH. Latter, going in his best form and kept well placed, finished in determined fashion. McGONIGLE, very fractious at the barrier, broke running from the outside, raced well up and held on gamely. MARSE ROBERT, weakly handled, ran the entire stretch six wide after reaching the first turn and covered much more ground than the others. GENERAL LEJEUNE weakened when reaching the home stretch. GARLIC could never enter contention. MATADI raced poorly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:23. Off at 2:26½. Winner, B. B. Stable's b. or br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHARACTER, $4.50, $3.50, $2.80; FEUDAL LORD, $5.20, $4.70; LIQUEUR, $8.10.

CHARACTER, racing prominently early, responded readily when put to a drive, displaced the leaders when straightened into the home stretch, and was under strong ursine at the finish. FEUDAL LORD, a keen factor the entire journey, continued stoutly when the real test came. LIQUEUR forced a steady early pace, and was easily best of the others. SCOTCH SOLDIER showed a good effort. LOCHINVER was in fine quarters when rushed up leaving the stretch. DUNBAR finished stoutly. IDEALIST lacked early speed. TABAKU and SCOT NELL stopped badly.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:54. Off at 2:58½. Winner, D. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FRIGATE BIRD, $14.90, $6.60, $3.50; HAPPEN, $5.90, $4.30; STORM, $3.70.

FRIGATE BIRD, away well and securing racing room on the inside of HAPPEN when settled on the back stretch, took command when midway of the final turn, responded when shaken up and drew out much the easiest to the end. HAPPEN, in front at once, was kept out in the firm footing, but could not remain with the winner when displaced. STORM, hard ridden the entire trip, outstayed CHU CHU. Latter, a forward factor all the way, held on well. ROYAL RUFFIN could not threaten at any stage. CHATTY showed a good test. TRY IT did not fancy the going.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $5,000 added. The Walden. For 2-year-olds. Start good from barrier. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:28. Off at 3:32½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAR GLORY (field), $12.20, $4.90, $3.00; GOLDEN WAY, $4.80, $3.20; SARADA, $4.80.

WAR GLORY, suited by the footing and taking command when straightened into the back stretch, came readily when put to pressure and drew out gradually during the closing quarter mile. GARDEN MESSAGE, in hand while following WAR GLORY, was forced toward the inside during the stretch run by GOLDEN WAY, and attempting to hold his course GARDEN MESSAGE came out again and interfered with GOLDEN WAY for which he was disqualified. GOLDEN WAY, away slurgishly and pinched back at the break, knocked EASY DAY off stride when being rushed to the first turn, circled his field and was racing gamely until bothered. SARADA, shuffled back going to the first turn, took a wide course thereafter and closed gamely. EASY DAY, badly bumped by GOLDEN WAY going to the first turn, recovered, and raced willingly. CAESAR'S GHOST went evenly. WAVE ON tired, as did BALIOS. SILENT SHOT weakened badly.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:08. Off at 4:09½. Winner, Howe Stable's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FILTER, $5.40, $4.70, $3.20; BALLY BAY, $10.90, $6.80; BOY CRAZY, $5.20.

FILTER, handling his weight well and going in the thick of contention, drew on even terms with BALLY BAY when moving into the home stretch and hard ridden thereafter drew out slowly. BALLY BAY shook off HAPPY LOPE after three furlongs, saved ground and held on gamely. BOY CRAZY worked her way up steadily and finished with good courage. NEW SUN, slow to begin, was forced to circle his field and came willingly at the end. WAR BANNER was unable to menace the leaders at any stage. ROME VENNIE closed full of run on the inside. MOORCEN and SKY HAVEN quit, as did HAPPY LOPE.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:38. Off at 4:42½. Winner, J. A. BOOCAP, rated in near attendance of the leaders, moved up strongly to displace BRIGHT BIRD when entering the home stretch, and was under urging until the finish. BRIGHT BIRD, steadied in front, shook off repeated efforts from PIPE, saved ground and held on well. FULL DRESS closed gamely but could not threaten the first two. PIPE raced on the inside and faltered when going into deep spots.

Special to The Washington Post.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 11.—The Catholic University football team, 33 strong, arrived here tonight for tomorrow's game with the strong Providence College outfit.

Both teams reported one star man unable to start, the Cardinals losing Charley McVean, regular quarter back, and the Friars contemplating tomorrow's game without the services of Capt. Owen Callahan, star tackle.

But the absence of McVean will bring no particular solace to the Jolly Friars, for they know that Tommy Whelan will be in there cavorting about in his usual scoring fashion.

Word of Whelan's prowess has preceded him to Providence and the local outfit has been determining ways and means of stopping him. Augusterfer will start at quarter back in place of McVean, while Dick Burns will replace the injured captain in the Providence College line.

Providence Seeks Fifth Victory.

The Providence College team enters tomorrow's game with a record of four victories, two ties and one defeat in their seven games thus far. Six of these contests were played on the road, tomorrow's game being the second one home engagement and the last regularly scheduled contest.

This is the third game between Catholic University and Providence College, and it will be in the nature of a rubber contest, for each outfit has won once previously.

Due to their slightly better record and the presence of Whelan, a player of all-American timber, in their lineup, the Cardinals are favorites tomorrow. The margin between them is slight, however, and it is likely that the breaks will decide the issue.

STARS START PLAY AT KENWOOD TODAY

day, with the 36-hole grind scheduled tomorrow morning and afternoon. The field will be shaved down to around 60 after today's round. First prize money is $700; second, $500; third, $300; fourth, $250. There will be eight other cash awards, the smallest being $50.

Veteran pros yesterday considered the Kenwood tourney on a par with the best money events in the country, declaring the field to be exceptionally strong. They predicted a total of 211 would win first prize.

Walter Hagen did not show up for a practice round yesterday, but his manager, Bob Harlow, said the Haig would be on hand to tee off at 1:10 with what appears to be one of the finest threesomes on the list. Playing with him will be Billy Burke, 1931 national open king, and Horton Smith, the Joplin Ghost.

The champion, Willie MacFarlane, who did not keep any score yesterday, preferring to hit two and three balls at a time, is paired at 12:30 with Bob Barnett, Chevy Chase pro, and Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn.

Most of the big guns are paired shortly after noon. Johnny Farrell, who toured the layout yesterday, goes off at 12:50; Tom Creavy and Joe Turnesa at 12:40.

Perkins, Runyon, Golden Play.

T. Phil Perkins, the only foreign threat in the competition, who shot a nifty 35—36 in his first practice yesterday, will play with Paul Runyon, of White Plains, N. Y., and Johnny Golden, rotund Noroton, Conn., pro.

Gene Sarazen's entry was not received. However, the British and American open ruler may show up at the eleventh hour, his friends indicated.

Golf balls flew at every hole at Kenwood from morning until evening yesterday. Tommy Armour, famous Detroit pro, shot a 72 playing with Walter MacCallum. Horton Smith, registered out of the Oak Park Country Club, Illinois, teaming with Al Houghton against Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., and Phil Perkins, reeled off a 71. Dudley had a 73 and Houghton a 73. Dudley and Perkins won the match, 1 up. Clarence Clark, of New York, went around in 72. No scores were kept by Billy Burke, Johnny Golden and a host of other golf luminaries.

The course is in tip-top shape, and ideal weather no doubt will bring out a record crowd to Kenwood today and tomorrow. The club is located on the River road. Russ Hollebaugh, of Spaulding Brothers, has been designated as starter, and Jim Preston official scorer.

PAR FOR KENWOOD.

Stocks Continue Advances In Spite of Shorts' Battle

Gain Is Cut to Nine-Tenths as Sales Volume Rises to 2,632,180 Shares.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Stocks rallied today, thus giving a little more depth to "post-election" advances.

Net gains were somewhat smaller than Thursday's, but the market was distinctly reluctant to decline and trading subsided appreciably whenever even mild pressure was applied. Up to noon professional shorts appeared to be fighting the rise, for gains were moderate despite the active trading. Toward the close, however, opposition seemed to die down and final dealings witnessed a flourish of strength. Turnover of 2,632,180 shares was the largest since October 5.

Strength in rails gave a favorable signal to traders working on the long side and the advance again played no favorites. There was somewhat less enthusiasm for the "wet" stocks, some of which eased moderately. Otherwise the market was in a bullish mood. Cotton jumped $1.25 a bale, partly on the strength of shares, partly because of better reports from the cotton goods trade. Bonds were willing followers of upward trends elsewhere. Wheat had a holiday.

American Telephone and Union Pacific, each up more than 4 points, set good examples. Sponsors of the former issue appear confident that its dividend rate will not be disturbed at next Wednesday's meeting while Union Pacific's board has just ordered another regular payment. Allied Chemical, Western Union, Santa Fe, American Tobacco B, Harvester and Westinghouse improved 2 to 3. Oils were distinctly firm.

For its trade news the market had to depend largely on the weekly mercantile reviews, which sounded a cheerful note.

To what extent railroads profited by the October spurt in traffic will soon be apparent. St. Paul's preliminary figures show an estimated net operating income in excess of last year and also at virtually the level of this September. Meanwhile, the normal trend for loadings continues to be downward for some time.

BONDS SENT HIGHER IN BUOYANT DEALING

Wide Range of Loans Join in Rise; Sales Total $8,994,000.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Led by the steamed-up rails, the bond market staged an impressive advance today with all classes of recently depressed loans participating in the forward movement.

The sales volume jumped to $8,994,000, par value, while the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was up six-tenths of a point, the best day's gain in nearly two months.

The low-priced carrier liens recorded gains of 1 to around 3 or more points and utility and industrial specialties were not far behind in ascending enthusiasm. While the majority of foreign bonds were a trifle firmer, United State Government obligations exhibited some uneasiness, at one time, presumably because of reports that foreign debtor countries, headed by Great Britain, would seek a postponement of war-loan charges payable next month.

The railroads principally reflected the buoyancy of stocks although they were also helped by reports that the hold-over congressional session next month might inaugurate legislation, possibly recommended by the Coolidge transportation committee, which would aid the carriers to overcome some of their present difficulties.

Bonds of Allegheny Corporation and Southern Railway advanced as much as 5½ points in some maturities. Other active gainers included some issues of Chesapeake Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Hudson & Manhattan, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern Pacific and Texas & Pacific.

Richfield Oil and Pan-American Petroleum bonds were up 2½ to 4½ points following announcement that Standard of California's bid for the Richfield properties had been accepted. Other oils were fairly firm. Issues of Goodyear, Paramount Publix, U. S. Rubber, United Drug and National Dairy Products raised their prices.

Loans of International Telephone, Columbia Gas, Western Union, New Jersey Power & Light, North American Edison, Portland General Electric and Utilities Power & Light gained a point or more.

Canadian government obligations were up in light trading in response to a rally of the Dominion dollar in the foreign exchange market. Improvement also was shown by bonds of Argentina, Australia, Finland, Germany and Japan. British 5½s eased fractionally, as did German government 5½s.

Unfilled Steel Orders Gain 11,950 Tons

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased 11,950 tons in October to a total of 1,997,040 tons on October 31. September tonnage gained 15,495 tons.

There was also a trifling gain in August, but prior to this the corporation had reported sixteen consecutive monthly decreases.

Britain's Grain Preferential Called Canadian Handicap

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Buffalo grain men said today that application of the British grain preferential as explained by Premier Bennett in the Canadian Commons would add as much as 2 cents per bushel to the cost of Canadian grain laid down in world markets. They added Canada could not afford that, and that her farmers and grain dealers would not "stand for it."

Harry Wilson, head of the Saskatchewan Pool Elevators, Ltd., explained the additional cost would result because freight was from a cent and a half to 2 cents cheaper between New York and Liverpool than between the Canadian ports of St. Johns and Halifax and Liverpool.

"Canadian wheat must be marketed the cheapest way possible and the route through Buffalo and New York is the cheapest one," he said.

Edgar Black, president of the Buffalo Corn Exchange, agreed it was the "Canadian growers' battle." He doubted they would "stand for it."

Premier Bennett said yesterday at Ottawa that the provisions of the Anglo-Canadian trade agreement concerning wheat meant just what it said. He explained wheat must be produced in the empire to come within the terms of the 6-cent preferential agreement, and that it must be consigned to the United Kingdom on through transit.

The "through transit" rule would fall with full force upon Buffalo, the greatest grains transshipment port in the world with Canadian grain forming the bulk of its business. Already there is in "winter storage" here for shipment later some 11,000,000 bushels of Canadian grain, with more coming down the lakes weekly.

The Corn Exchange head said the American grain men would not "inject themselves" into the fight. He added, "If this thing goes through, I think it will be up to the Federal Government at Washington to see if it can get any modification."

Steel Plants Wait On Rail Repairing

Roads' Equipment Shows Heavy Wear; Large Buying Seen.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The recent pulling up of railway deferred maintenance charges is being watched closely by the large steel companies with an eye to real business when and if the carriers make both ends meet sufficiently to enter the important buying class.

Rails and operating equipment, it is pointed out, are slowly but surely wearing out and, in some instances, replacement orders must appear in a short time. Former Secretary of Commerce Lamont, now head of the American Iron & Steel Institute, recently said the railroads over the next several years would be under the necessity of making exceptionally large expenditures for maintenance if they hoped to run trains.

For the first eight months of 1932 the maintenances of way charges of the class 1 railroads were 37 per cent lower than for the first eight months of 1929. Operating revenues were 50 per cent under the 1929 figure.

Sears, Roebuck Sales Drop to $23,652,111

Chicago, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported today its dollar sales for the period of October 9 to Nov. 5 totaled $23,652,111, a decrease of $3,493,814, or 12.9 per cent, from the same period in 1931.

From January 2 to November 5, the announcement said, the company's dollar sales were $229,987,154, compared with $287,213,533 for last year, a decrease of $57,216,379, or 19.9 per cent.

Sugar Council to Meet.

The Hague, Holland, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The next meeting of the International Sugar Council will be held in Paris November 29 instead of December 16, it was announced today.

CURB CLIMBS AGAIN IN BRISKER TRADING

All Groups Participate in Advance; Sales Mount to 280,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The curb moved upward with other financial markets today, closing at the highest prices of the session and registering a turnover of 280,000 shares.

Earlier dealings exhibited a brisk mass of tone that later developed into some strength, all groups participating in the upturn. Net gains of at least a point were numerous, while many less active issues soared considerably more. New England Telephone, for example, jumped 10¼ on a single sale.

Electric Bond & Share, rising 2⅛ net, American Gas and Commonwealth Edison were strong, while in the lower brackets American Superpower traded briskly at a fractional price appreciation.

Oils strengthened, Gulf leading its division with a rise of 4. Standard of Indiana improved by a substantial fraction.

Specialties showed a good tone, being helped in some instances by short covering. Stutz Motors, up 2; Parker Rust and Great Atlantic & Pacific, up 2 each, and Aluminum of America, up 3¼, were especially prominent. Aviation stocks received attention. Pan-American rose 2⅛ and Western Air, 1½. Cord Corporation was active toward the close, when it crossed 6 and a net gain of ⅛. Deere was quiet but firm.

Early Sugar Gains Lost.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Early advances of 1 to 3 points on reports of crop and property damage as a result of the Cuban hurricane were lost later in the sugar futures market today. December contracts, after selling at 1.10, sold off to 1.08, while March declined from 1.08 to .99. The general market at 2 p. m. was 1 point net higher to 2 net lower.

Coca-Cola Wins Injunction.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Robert A. Inch has granted the Coca-Cola Co. a final decree in its injunction action against the My-Po Co., Inc., it became known today.

Electric Power Output Is Less During Week

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Electric power output in the week ended November 5 decreased about 5,490,000 kilowatt hours from the previous week, totaling 1,525,310,000, it was the first decline in several weeks, indicating a seasonal recession.

The decrease from the like 1931 period was 9.8 per cent, the most favored comparison since early in the year, while the reaction from the previous week compared with a decrease of 22,000,000 kilowatt hours between the weeks of October 29 and November 5 in 1931.

DEMAND HALTS CUT IN VALUES OF COTTON

Declines Earlier in Week Overcome by Renewed Trade Buying.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A sharp decline during the earlier part of the week was followed by even sharper rallies toward the end of the period.

Evidently the break below the 6-cent level for near months in the market here on Wednesday under an accumulation of Southern selling orders over the election day adjournment and liquidation stimulated by unexpectedly heavy crop figures, was sufficient to attract an increased trade demand.

This was supplemented by covering, and toward the end of the week there were indications of some broadening in commission house interest promoted by somewhat more encouraging reports from the cotton goods market, the firmer ruling of stocks which was considered a reflection of sentiment as to the general business outlook, and reports of smaller offerings from the South.

Sale of Decembers.

December contracts which had sold off to 5.91 on the break of Wednesday or into new low ground for the movement and 375 points below the high price touched by that delivery on the advance of late last summer, was carried up to 6.60, or 69 points from the low level of the week.

At this figure the demand seemed to slacken somewhat, but the undertone showed continued steadiness and a decrease in the into-sight figures for the second week in succession tended to confirm an impression that the peak of the marketing movement had been reached.

The trade had looked for no very great change in the crop figure, as compared with the previous forecasts and the Government report placing the indicated crop at 11,947,000 bales was about 500,000 bales above expectations.

Ginnings Slightly Higher.

The ginnings of 9,245,354 bales reported prior to November 1 were slightly above the forecasts also, and the figures doubtless brought out considerable old long liquidation. This naturally improved the technical position and contracts became comparatively scarce toward the end of the week, when Southern selling diminished.

The trade buying which has been so persistent during the past month was reported less 1@ evidence on the advance toward the end of the week, but the settlement of the labor disputes in Lancashire has been considered a favorable feature. According to the New York Cotton Exchange service, domestic consumption for October amounted to 504,000 bales, compared with 491,000 the previous month and 441,000 last year.

Houses with Far Eastern and continental connections were among the buyers here, particularly during the earlier part of the week, while Liverpool trading here was supposed to have been largely on the differences.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON HEAVIER BUYING

December Closes at 6.57 as Market Stages Gains of 17 to 23 Points.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A further advance of some 20 to 25 points in cotton today was attributed to a more active and general demand which was evidently promoted by reports of comparatively small offerings from the South and firmness in the stock market.

December contracts sold up to 6.60 or 24 points above yesterday's close and 69 points above the low of Wednesday, and closed within 3 points of the best. The market generally was 17 to 23 points net higher.

Futures worked about 5 to 13 points net lower during the first few minutes under liquidation and scattered selling on disappointing Liverpool cables. Offerings were readily ascribed by trade buying or covering at the decline, however, and the market soon firmed.

The advance extended to 6.87 for May, making net gains of about 20 to 25 points on active positions and while the demand slackened somewhat, realizing was absorbed on slight reactions. The late buying was probably encouraged by the weekend figures showing a falling off in the into-sight movement for the second week in succession.

Liverpool cables did not fully meet the local advance of yesterday but reported a renewal of speculative buying and covering with the tone of the market healthier, although they said the cloth turnover was disappointing with buyers cautious. Exports today 37,030, making 2,478,029 so far this season. Port receipts 95,939. U. S. port stocks, 4,467,152.

Freezing Weather Chills Southland

Even Louisiana and Florida Warned to Expect Heavy Frost.

Atlanta, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The South had its ears nipped tonight as freezing weather spread from Virginia to Louisiana.

It was the first general "hog-killing" weather of the season, and slighted no section. North Florida and the southern extremities of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana were warned that temperatures in the low 30s would be their lot.

Heavy frost, killing in many places, was forecast. The Weather Bureau here said the Southern barometric depression has moved northeastward from Texas, and Dixie is in for a general cold wave. Fair and cold weather was predicted for tomorrow. The weather has been chilly several times in the South this fall, but this spell is the first general freezing sweep cold weather has made down here. Temperatures of 28 to 32 degrees were forecast for the sugar and trucking belts of Louisiana.

Dr. Murri, 91, Famous Italian Surgeon, Dies

Bologna, Italy, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Augusto Murri, once regarded as Italy's greatest surgeon, died today at 91 of apoplexy.

His death recalls the family mystery which surrounded the murder of a son-in-law who was killed 30 years ago. Dr. Murri's son, Tullio, was sentenced to seventeen years in prison. He died last year and it was said that he had left a written revelation to be opened only after his father's death.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

VICTOR "CHOC" KELLY, Hollywood High School football coach, made one of the longest football runs in history when he played on the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College team in 1907, cutting back and forth across the field several times, then straight down the line to the goal line.

He took the ball on his own team's 45-yard line, crossed back and forth across the field four times without gaining, then ran straight down the field 55 yards for a touchdown. An analysis of the run showed that Kelly ran a total of 245 yards in making the deciding touchdown.

Patrick J. Ahern, 32 years old, yesterday was arraigned in police court on a charge of second offense possession. He pleaded not guilty and was released on $1,500 bond for trial November 18 before Judge Isaac R. Hitt, in police court.

Ahern was arrested at Seventeenth and Corcoran streets northwest when policemen stopped his car because his rear light was not burning. He forfeited $4 on charges of driving without the light and failing to show a registration card.

G. A. R. Ladies Circle Will Plant Tree Today

A tree will be planted on the grounds of Nativity Episcopal Church, at Massachusetts avenue and A street southeast, at 4 o'clock this afternoon in honor of the late Mrs. Helen Nelson Doocy.

The planting will be under the auspices of Abraham Lincoln Circle, No. 3, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, of which Mrs. Doocy was an active member for many years.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

A study of recent accidents by Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer indicates, he said yesterday, that to reduce the toll of traffic, "drivers of vehicles must learn to approach intersections with their machines under control, to drive more carefully a night and to reduce their speed when weather conditions are not normal." Pedestrians, he warned, should also increase their vigilance in crossing streets.

Fatalities during the month of October, the study stated, were more than double the number in the corresponding month of 1930. Five of the 13 deaths recorded for the past month occurred at intersections and 7 between intersections. The blame in the accidents was equally divided between motorists and pedestrians.

There have been 37 more deaths and 208 more injuries up to date than during the corresponding period of 1930, although the total number of accidents has decreased by 428. The figures are:

	1931	1932
Deaths	69	106
Injuries	3,093	3,301
Accidents	7,244	6,816

Treated at Casualty Hospital, the child's condition is said not to be serious.

Five-year-old William Meuser was struck while playing in front of his home at 135 Tennessee avenue northeast. He was treated at Casualty Hospital for lacerations and possible concussion. According to police the striking vehicle was operated by Anthony T. Consoli, 26, of 607 I street northeast.

Jimmied Door Finally Ends Stubborn Rest

It was most surprising, to say the least.

While enjoying his siesta, Gordon Rule, 1109 Sixteenth street northwest, yesterday afternoon heard what sounded like a knock at his door. But he was enjoying himself in solid comfort, so he probably didn't even turn over. Again he thought he heard a rattle at the door, but he responded in the same manner as before.

A few seconds later, however, he was rudely aroused when two men walked into his bedroom. Surprised, as well as slightly frightened, he leaped from his bed. Surprised, as well as slightly flustered, the burglars fled through the door which they had jimmied, jumped into their car and sped away.

Delicatessen Man Put On Probation by Wheat

Pleading guilty to the first violation of the sales-in-bulk law here in 25 years, Raffole Presutti, 55 years old, former proprietor of a delicatessen, yesterday was placed on probation when he was brought before Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, in the District Supreme Court.

The law requires that all ereditors must be made known when a business is sold, and Presutti failed to mention a creditor when he sold out his business.

Eviction of Jobless Tenants Protested

East Central Civic Group Will Carry Fight to Realty Board.

Strong protest against eviction of families where unemployment has made rent payment impossible for the present was made last night at a meeting of the East Central Civic Association in the Dunbar High School. A committee was appointed to take the matter before the real estate board.

A number of specific cases were cited where tenants, ordinarily prompt in rent payment, but behind because of unemployment, were evicted. The committee that will investigate the rent situation includes Ray Clark and James C. Payne, school official.

The association also voiced indignation at the disposal of refuse, purportedly from the Animal Rescue League, on the lot next to the Martha Washington Vocational School. Participation in the Community Chest drive was agreed upon by the group.

German Students, Touring World, Sing Here Tonight

A group of twelve German students, members of the Neroth Alliance of Germany, who are singing their way around the world, will arrive in Washington today for a four-day stay, and will give their first performance tonight at 8 o'clock at the Concordia Church, Twentieth and G streets northwest.

Since they left Germany, one and a half years ago, they have visited France, Spain, Portugal, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Panama, Guatemala, Mexico, and after making a tour of the United States expect to go to the Orient, and thence back to Germany, making a complete tour of the globe.

"We are members of the German Student Association," Wolf Kaiser, their spokesman said, "and our party includes students from Heidelburg, Cologne, Geissen, Frankfort, and Hamburg universities."

The group has taken 5,000 photos and 23,000 feet of film which is now being shown in German theaters.

The youngest member of the group is Hans Gruman, 14, who takes the feminine roles in the plays.

Tonight they will present a play entitled "The Child of God," a Christmas presentation, followed by numerous German songs with guitar accompaniment.

City News in Brief

Curtis' Car Endangered by Fire; Counterfeit Ring Believed Uncovered; Policeman Will Be Taken for Ride Today.

Considerable excitement was created at Thirtieth and P streets northwest and the official automobile of Vice President Curtis was endangered late yesterday when the Fire Department was called to extinguish a blaze in the car of Deputy U. S. Harold S. Cameron.

The Vice President's car was parked in front of the home of his chauffeur, Thomas M. Harty, at 3046 P street. The blazing car was directly across the street from Mr. Curtis' car.

William J. O'Connor, 37, of 2037 H street northeast, suffered possible fatal injuries last night when struck by the automobile of Joseph W. Belt, of Colmar Manor, Md., at Benning road and Nineteenth street northeast. He was taken to Casualty Hospital by Belt. It was found he had suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, a skull fracture, lacerations and internal injuries. His condition is serious.

In falls yesterday, one boy suffered a fracture of his left wrist and another a fracture of the right wrist.

Irving Lines, 9 years old, of 1231 Twenty-fifth street northwest, hurt his left wrist when he fell from a swing at the Corcoran Playground. Joseph H. West, 11 years old, of 945 Longfellow street northwest, fractured his right wrist in a fall from a tree at his home. Both were treated at Emergency Hospital.

With the arrest of Nathan Davis, colored, after he allegedly had attempted to pass a counterfeit $10 bill, Prince Georges County officials last night believed they had discovered a counterfeit ring.

Davis was arrested by Constable Jack Wilson and Policeman Claud Reese after he is said to have offered a bogus bill at the Cedar Tree service station at Beltsville, Md.

After the attendant at the station refused to accept the bill, he telephoned police. When apprehended, Davis is said to have had seven of the bills.

Here's another of those funny election things—For having made a bad guess on the winner of the presidential election, Private Clarence Morgan, of the Eighth Precinct, will trundle his fellow officer, Private H. A. Meechem, down M street from Wisconsin avenue to Twenty-ninth street northwest, in a wheelbarrow this afternoon. The ride will take place at 2 p. m. Spectators are invited.

Another similar ride is evidently also in the offing. Someone applied to police yesterday for permission to give a wheelbarrow ride from the Peace Monument to the White House. He was informed no permit was required as no streets are closed to wheelbarrows.

Motorist Is Fined $35 On Two Traffic Charges

Fines of $35 were levied against James R. Anderson, colored, yesterday in Police Court when he was convicted of speeding and running without lights. Policeman R. V. Sinclair said he attempted to halt Anderson, and that instead of stopping, the man drove rapidly away. He was caught several blocks from the scene, the chase starting on Florida avenue northeast.

Girl Is Injured by Auto.

Miss Hazel Lamb, 6307 Hillcrest place, Chevy Chase, Md., suffered injuries to her right hip and left ankle last night when struck by a car said to have been driven by William West, 4610 Walsh street, Chevy Chase, at the East-West highway and Brooksville road. She was taken by West to Silver Spring where she was treated by a private physician.

Mrs. Costinett Wills Hotel Worth $85,560

A hotel at 600 North Capitol street, assessed at $85,560 and a small bank balance were left by Mrs. Florence E. Costinett, who died November 3, it was shown yesterday when her daughter, Mrs. Pearl V. Merring, filed a petition for the probate of her mother's will.

The daughter is given a life interest in the estate and at her death it goes to her son, Harry L. Merring, jr., and any other children she may have. Attorney Joseph T. Sherier represented the daughter.

Vigil for Sky Fireworks Is Planned Here

An extensive watch for three nights, starting Monday at 11:30 p. m., for the leonids—showers of shooting stars which bombard the earth when it passes through the stream of a disrupted comet, will be made by the Naval and Georgetown University Observatories.

Observers will watch from a hilltop northeast of the city, serving in two shifts of two men each from 11:30 p. m. to 5 a. m. To avoid interference from crowds the exact location is being kept secret.

Officials of the observatories state that amateurs might render a real service by independently watching the northeast heavens on those nights, counting the numbers of shooting stars, noting their position and even photographing them if they have the equipment.

The meteors are believed to be the result of a disrupted comet, the debris of which is streaming around the sun in an elongated orbit. Once each year, about the middle of November, this stream intersects the orbit of the earth. As a result, there usually are visible shooting stars though sometimes there is no display at all, presumably because the earth passes through the ring of meteors in the daytime.

Woman Commits Suicide With Gas

Mrs. E. Johnson Found Dead in Bathroom by Daughter.

Mrs. Marion Pauline Johnson, 37, of 624 Columbia road, committed suicide yesterday by turning on a gas jet in the bathroom of her home after locking herself in the room. She was discovered by her 16-year-old daughter, Marion Pauline Johnson, who called members of the Fire Rescue Squad.

An Emergency Hospital physician pronounced her dead, and the coroner issued a certificate of suicidal death.

Ill health was blamed for her action. She is survived by her husband, Edward Johnson, and two daughters.

MRS. HOOVER URGES FEDERAL EMPLOYES TO AID CHEST DRIVE.

Government Units Reminded of Added Responsibility by Newbold Noyes.

Regretting her inability to be present, Mrs. Herbert Hoover wished the governmental unit of the Community Chest "all possible success in the drive for the Community Chest this year" in a letter to Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, chairman of the governmental unit. The letter from the First Lady was read by Gov. Campbell at last night's organization meeting of his unit at the Willard Hotel.

"It will be a difficult task to raise the funds necessary to care for all of those in need and to ameliorate distress this coming winter," Mrs. Hoover wrote, "but I am sure you will have the earnest support of all the officers and employes of the Government, and that your unit will go 'over the top' in this worthwhile cause."

"A routine task? God forbid!"

This was the keynote of the address made by Fred W. Ramsey, of Cleveland, a manufacturer who has been for ten years chairman of the Cleveland Community fund and who is now chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Committee for Welfare and Relief Mobilization, under the chairmanship of Newton D. Baker.

Graham Outlines Needs.

E. C. Graham, president of the Chest, outlined the needs confronting the city this year.

Gov. Campbell quoted both President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt as favoring the Community Chest.

Newbold Noyes, campaign chairman, impressed upon the Governmental workers the tremendous responsibility that rests upon their shoulders in helping to make the Chest campaign a success this year. He pointed out that the need in Washington this winter is greater than at any time in the history of the city and declared that only the success of the Chest effort could prevent destitution, disease and crime from getting beyond control.

The chairman stated that the Chest goal for this year has been set at $2,419,787, the same amount actually pledged last year. He urged every official of the governmental unit, every worker, to go forth with the idea of impressing upon their fellow-workers the great need that exists and the necessity for those who have a job, however small, an income, however small, to share with those who have absolutely nothing.

BOY VIOLINIST DIES IN FIRE ESCAPE FALL

Maurice Jaspan Knew Music Before He Mastered the Alphabet.

If there are stringed instruments in The Great Beyond, 4-year-old Maurice Jaspan is just as happy today as when he last coaxed a melody from his beloved violin—before he died.

In the studio apartment where Maurice lived with his parents, at 714 Seventeenth street northwest, a small violin was laid aside. The father will no longer guide the childish fingers toward mastery of its golden strings.

Before his A B C's, Maurice had learned to play simple music. He loved the violin, and his father, Carl Jaspan, a concert violinist, was fostering his talent with hope that he would become a famous musician.

Yesterday he had finished his practice and was in the studio with his mother. Laughing and happy he ran to a fire escape outside a rear door. His mother followed, sensing danger. He lost his footing and fell 30 feet to the concrete areaway below. Rushed to Emergency Hospital he was pronounced dead.
